MAYOR MAY BE OUT WITHIN TWO WEEKS

Physicians, Encouraged by His Rapid Recovery, Begin Plans to Move Him.

JOKES WITH HIS ATTENDANT

Doesn't Yet Know Who Shot Him—Sends His Son to Buy Toys for the Orphans.

The seventh day that Mayor Gaynor has spent at St. Mary's Hospital in Hoboken passed quietly with no set-back to the steadily growing confidence in his ultimate recovery. Although it is constantly kept in mind by those around him that he is by no means out of danger, almost unconsciously watchers at the hospital are assuming that he will get well, and are beginning to speculate on the number of days that must elapse before he can resume the vacation of which he was cheated by Gallagher's bullet.

At 9:45 P. M. this bulletin was given out:

There has been no change in the Mayor's condition to-day. He has taken his nourishment well. He has been comfortable and has rested from time to time.

WILLIAM J. ARLITZ, M. D.,
GEORGE E. BREWER, M. D.,
GEORGE D. STEWART, M. D.,
CHARLES N. DOWD, M. D.,
JOHN W. PARRISH, M. D.

At midnight this bulletin was issued:

The Mayor has been sleeping since the last bulletin.

W. J. ARLITZ, M. D.
GEORGE D. BREWER, M. D.

"If the Mayor continues to improve at his rate," said one of the attendant surgeons yesterday morning, "we can begin to talk about moving him in two weeks."

All sorts of rosy interpretations were placed yesterday on this statement, when it was considered that it issued from a conservative physician, who spends a lot of time trying to avoid the creation of false hopes. Rufus Gaynor, the Mayor's son, felt sure that his father could start for the Adirondacks in ten days.

"If he goes on gaining in strength as he has been doing since we carried him into the hospital," said Robert Adamson, the Mayor's secretary, last night, "by Saturday, they tell me, we can assure ourselves that he is out of the woods."

The McKinley Parallel.

The inevitable parallel between the case of the stricken Mayor and President McKinley brings always to the minds of those at St. Mary's the memory of the promising bulletins that were issued from the latter's bedside, and the feeling of cheering security that immediately preceded McKinley's sudden change for the worse. This memory is making the Mayor's physicians chary of their promises, and leads even the laymen to mistrust the splendid symptoms which the patient is furnishing them every day. But through it all there has taken hold the conviction that he will recover.

The surgeons are worrying very little about the bullet, which is lodged in the vault of the pharynx, and seems to be doing no harm. An operation to extract it is not among their present calculations. The operation, for which they are holding themselves in readiness, would be to meet the effects of a possible second hemorrhage, though such a possibility grows slighter with every passing day.

A second hemorrhage, it was explained, might occur, in the Mayor's case, anywhere along the course of the bullet, where a blood vessel had been injured or septic traces had been left to develop. In such an event, the operation would have to be made through the neck, instead of through the mouth, as would be the case in the extraction of the bullet.

No Fear of Tetanus.

The operation would have to be made with the greatest possible speed, and there would be no time to choose between surgeons. Antitoxin was administered immediately after the shooting, it was learned yesterday, and the doctors do not entertain any fears of tetanus.

This was the morning bulletin:

Mayor Gaynor has passed a good night. He has slept well. He is taking his nourishment well and is in good general condition this morning. His temperature is 99 4-5, his pulse 70, and his respiration 17.

W. J. ARLITZ, M. D.,
CHARLES N. DOWD, M. D.

The bulletin which followed it at noon read:

Improvement continues. The Mayor has had a comfortable morning.

W. J. ARLITZ, M. D.,
GEORGE D. STEWART, M. D.,
J. W. PARRISH, M. D.

The Mayor continued to lighten his long hours by his own humor yesterday, since no one seems inclined to supply it for him. For lack of any one better, he pokes all his fun at Luke Clark, the orderly who has been in constant attendance, and whose snoring the Mayor finds as diverting as it is audible. He has to struggle with his laughter at Clark's professional manner of taking the patient's pulse.

Must Have His Joke.

"I'm going to get you a job on the New York police force," the Mayor told him yesterday, "and it won't be in any easy precinct, either."

Later the Mayor reverted to the subject as though with an afterthought.

"And it won't be any sinecure like the Bureau of Weights and Measures, either," he added.

All day gifts of flowers, fruits, and dishes poured into the hospital, so that all the wards are filled with them. Mr. Adamson made a special point of going out to thank an elderly woman, who had laboriously climbed the steps with a "little something for the Honor." From beneath her cape she proudly produced a bottle of homemade wine.

For the first time since her father was shot Helen Gaynor called at the hospital yesterday and was allowed a few moments in the sickroom. She had been driven from Brooklyn with Mrs. Frank Page, a sister-in-law of Thomas Nelson Page. None of the other visitors was allowed to see the Mayor. Among them were Commissioners Waldo, Thompson, Edwards, and Higgins, Acting Mayor Mitchel, Corporation Counsel Watson, Municipal Court Judge Tierney, and the Rev. William Morrison, rector of All Saints' Church in Brooklyn.

Every precaution is being taken at the hospital. Besides the Central Office detective who paces the corridor every hour of the day, there is an automobile kept standing all night in the street below, to go off at full speed in case of emergency, and two firemen from the Manhattan

POSED AS MORTIMER L. SCHIFF

Lexington Society Swindled by Impostor Claiming to be J. H. Schiff's Son.

Special to The New York Times.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Aug. 15.—A good-lookng, well-dressed young man, giving the name of Mortimer L. Schiff and posing as the son of Jacob H. Schiff, the New York banker, after obtaining a wide footing in Lexington society, borrowing various sums of money, and cashing a number of bad checks and drafts, has disappeared as mysteriously as he came.

He met a party of Lexington young people at Mammoth Cave and managed to secure an introduction. They invited him to accompany them here, where he was at once accepted on his face value as Mr. Schiff's son. He played the rôle of being weary of the haunts of the rich and fashionable, and of having come South to see something of the aristocratic old families and the pretty girls who, he said, were more modest and unassuming.

He was a guest of several of the most prominent Lexington families, was entertained at the Country Club, and his name appeared several times in the society columns of the Lexington papers. He played his part well. Among other convincing documents which he, with seeming carelessness good-fellowship, permitted others to see, was an intimate, chatty letter, apparently from another millionaire's son in New York, mentioning familiarly the names of and gossip concerning prominent young men and women of society there.

He spent money freely, though not quite as freely as he borrowed, and acted his assumed character in the smallest particular. On one occasion he appeared at the home of a young woman with whom he was going to take a horseback ride, dressed in a radiant riding costume of white cloth. He rented automobiles and taxicabs without stint, and at his departure, which caused much regret among the society acquaintances he had made, he stated that he was returning to New York, but would come to Lexington again in a short time.

He arrived here on July 23 and remained ten days. One of his creditors wrote to Mr. Schiff in New York, and was informed that Mortimer Schiff, his son, had not been out of that city this season.

The case has not been reported to the police.

Mortimer L. Schiff has been in New York for several weeks. He said at his Summer home, at Oyster Bay, last night that he had heard of an impostor using his name in Lexington, Ky., but had had no particulars of his operations. He hoped his personator would be caught, he said.

BRITISH CHASED BONILLA.

Governor of British Honduras Went After Him in a Gunboat.

Special to The New York Times.

MOBILE, Aug. 15.—Since the failure of Gen. Manuel Bonilla's latest revolutionary plot British Honduras is closed to him, because he started his ill-fated expedition from that country.

The action of Bonilla has made the British authorities resentful, and Gen. Swayne, the Governor, is determined to prosecute him for violating British neutrality if he ever gets his hands on him. The British are jealous of their reputation of preserving strict neutrality in Central American affairs, and when Bonilla sought refuge in British Honduras after being deposed from the Presidency of Spanish Honduras it is said that he gave his word to Gen. Swayne that he would do nothing that would involve British neutrality.

When Gen. Swayne learned of the preparation of the Bonilla expedition at Glovers Reef he hastily gathered a force of fifty men, whom he sent in pursuit, but they arrived too late. Then Gen Swayne cabled for a warship, and the Scylla was ordered from Jamaica. The Governor went aboard her and continued the chase in search of the expedition, which was sighted in Guatemalan waters.

The knowledge that the British gunboat was lying in wait for him outside the three-mile limit may have had more to do with Bonilla's decision to abandon his expedition than the reported damage inflicted on his boats at Puerto Cortez.

Bonilla owns a valuable plantation in British Honduras, and there he gathered a large part of his force.

TO RUSH GERMAN WARSHIPS.

Lap to be Gained in Race with Britain in Dreadnought Construction.

BERLIN, Aug. 15.—The Government Naval bill, to be laid before the Reichstag this Autumn, will ask for an appropriation for the building of three battleships and one battleship-cruiser, according to an article published to-day by Count Reventlow, the naval expert and naval editor of the Deutsche Tages Zeitung.

In addition to these four "super-Dreadnoughts" there will be appropriations to replace the two old battleships Weissenburg and Kurfürst Friedrich Wilhelm, just sold to Turkey, which, under the regular naval programme, would not be asked for before the Autumn of 1911.

Germany will thereby gain a lap in the race with England for supremacy in the construction of Dreadnoughts, two of the latest type of modern battleships being laid down and constructed a year earlier than the original programme contemplated.

The German naval budget for this year will also authorize the construction of two small cruisers, to replace the See Adler and Gefion, and six torpedo boats, and will contain an appropriation of $2,750,000 for submarines.

HONORS BELMONT ABBEY.

Pius X. Makes It a Cathedral Abbey, the First in North America.

Special to The New York Times.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Aug. 15.—The Benedictine Fathers of the Sacred Heart Church announced to-day that Pope Pius X. has raised Belmont Abbey, at Belmont, N. C., to the dignity of a cathedral abbey, with its own territory and jurisdiction. Eight counties in North Carolina are attached to the new see. This honor is the highest the Catholic Church ever confers on an abbey. Belmont is the only one of this rank in North America and one of only eighteen of this class in the world.

All future Abbots of Belmont, by virtue of its raised dignity, will have, with few exceptions, the rights and privileges of a Bishop, with all a Bishop's obligations. This honor is principally due to the zeal and energy of the venerable Abbot Bishop Haid, who in 1885, with eight young Benedictines, came to Belmont from the great monastery of St. Vincent's in Pennsylvania. The college and monastery was erected in a North Carolina wilderness.

The canonical erection of the abbey will be formally promulgated some time in October, when Abbot Bishop Haid will celebrate his silver jubilee in the presence of high dignitaries of the Church.

FOUR, CAPITAL $700, NOW HAVE MILLIONS

Father Gave Each of the Miller Boys Equal Sum for a Start and Sent Them Into the World.

BROTHERS ALL PROSPERED

In Dry Goods, Transportation, Manufacturing, and Banking Each Has Made a Fortune.

Special to The New York Times.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Aug. 15.—Fifty years ago a Connecticut farmer called his four sons together at Middletown, gave them his blessing and $700 apiece, and told them to go out into the world and make their living. Yesterday the four brothers gathered at Bridgeport to hold a reunion and help celebrate the golden wedding of the eldest. They are old men now, and in the hands of each the parental $700 has increased and multiplied enormously.

The brothers are Darius Miller of New Britain, Nathan G. Miller of New York, Charles Miller of Waterbury, and Frank Miller of Bridgeport, the latter being the host of yesterday's gathering.

Darius Miller is 81 years of age. With his $700 he founded a big dry goods store in New Britain, which has prospered, and he is interested in many big financial projects.

Nathan G. Miller of New York increased his patrimony vastly. He was the first President of the Iron Steamboat Company, owned the Nickel Plate Railroad, was President of the Eagle Lock Company, and heavily interested in the Edison Electric Light Company.

The Waterbury member of the quartet likewise prospered, founding the Miller & Peck Company in Waterbury and the Randolph & Clowes Company, and is rated as one of the wealthiest men of Waterbury. In January last he turned over the Randolph & Clowes firm to the clerks in the store. He is 71 years of age.

Frank Miller of Bridgeport, youngest of the quartet, is President of the City National Bank of Bridgeport, President of a large lumber concern in Bridgeport, and owns vast tracts of timber in the South. He is rated as one of the wealthiest men in the southern part of Connecticut.

Yesterday's gathering marked the golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Darius Miller, and was appropriately celebrated. A group picture of the Millers was taken. The Millers are descendants of Thomas Miller, who came to Middletown, Conn., in 1650 and opened a mill there. The town offered him a bonus of $700 for doing so, but never paid it. If the descendants could collect this debt now, with the accumulated interest, they would have enormous wealth.

HORSE KILLS DONNELLY.

In an attempt to prevent a frightened mail wagon horse from trampling women and children in the Hoboken terminal of the Lackawanna Railroad last night Frank T. Donnelly, the station master, received injuries which resulted in his death at St. Mary's Hospital.

At 7:10 P. M. a mail cart, driven by James O'Connor, entered the driveway in the station with mails for an outgoing train. The entrance was thronged with people, when the horse reared at the whistle of a locomotive and dashed across the drive toward a crowd of women and children.

Donnelly saw their danger and jumped at the reins. He was hauled across the driveway and dashed against an iron pillar. The impact stopped the runaway and enabled the driver to quiet him, while a hurry call was sent for an ambulance.

In the excitement George Neiss, an architect employed by the Lackawanna Railroad, ran to the assistance of the station master, and, falling, broke his left ankle. Both were taken to St. Mary's Hospital, where Dr. William J. Arlitz said that Donnelly had his left shoulder and three ribs fractured, one of which punctured a lung. Donnelly had been known in Hoboken for many years, and is said to have saved many lives in railroad and other accidents.

BURIED ALIVE BY SLAYER.

Brother-in-Law of Wealthy California Woman Confesses Crime.

LANCASTER, Cal., Aug. 15.—In a shallow grave sunk in the sand of her front yard a pet dog uncovered yesterday the body of Mrs. Frieda Schultz Castine, a wealthy ranch owner. Her brother-in-law, Otto Schultz, who left here Saturday, saying he was bound for Germany, has been arrested in Los Angeles and has confessed the crime.

Mrs. Castine was last seen Friday when she came here from her ranch, four miles east, to receive a remittance of $6,000 from relatives in San Francisco. Investigations tend to show that the woman was attacked as she drove into her yard and was thrown into the shallow hole while yet alive. An examination by a surgeon disclosed the presence of sand in the lungs and bronchial tubes, drawn by her dying gasps.

Mrs. Castine's son found his mother's body half uncovered by the dog when he returned from a trip yesterday morning. A wide wound, evidently inflicted by an axe, was in the back of the head.

MRS. GIBBS'S HOME BURNED.

$40,000 Summer Cottage at Oldfield, L. I., Lost with Furnishings.

PORT JEFFERSON, N. Y., Aug. 15.—The Summer home of Mrs. Howard Gibbs, a sister of Clinton L. Rossiter of Brooklyn, was destroyed by fire early this evening. The house was the largest in this section of Long Island. It was located on the Crane Neck Road, Oldfield. It was erected last year and cost $40,000. Some of the decorations had not been completed. The building was of stone and wood.

Workmen engaged in cleaning up rubbish about the place used the furnace to burn it. It is supposed a defective flue developed and started the blaze.

Only a small part of the furnishings were saved. The building burned to the ground. There are fire companies here, at Stony Brook, and Syosset, but as there was no water pressure at Oldfield none went to the scene. The loss is estimated at about $56,000.

MOTHER MURDERED AS CHILD LOOKS ON

Mrs. Jacob Umschiez Shot Down by Boarder in Her North Bergen, N. J., Home.

BOY OF SIX GIVES ALARM

Runs in His Night Dress to Neighbors —Slayer Once Suitor for His Victim's Hand.

Neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Umschiez of 831 Doremus Place, North Bergen, N. J., ran to their front door last night when they heard a child crying and beating feebly on the door. At the threshold, clad in his nightgown, which was splashed here and there with blots of red, stood six-year-old Joseph Umschiez, Jr. As the neighbors opened the door to him the child flung himself in their arms sobbing out:

"A man killed my mamma. He shot her and then ran away."

While the women folk tried to comfort the child the men of the family gathered other neighbors and went to the Umschiez house. The front door was open as little Joe had left it when he fled, and the men made their way through the downstairs rooms, and, finding nothing ascended to the bedrooms above.

There, across her bed, lay Mrs. Umschiez. There was a bullet wound in her head and another in the back of her right shoulder. She was dead. The bedclothing was spattered with blood from her wounds, and it was this which was on Joseph's nightgown. The neighbors summoned the police and then little Joe, wrapped in a blanket to keep him from catching cold, was called before them.

The child was in a frenzy of fear and grief, and it was long before he could be calmed sufficiently to say more than that a man had shot his mother. Finally his questioners learned that Bertrand Pond, a boarder in the household, had fired the shots, and little by little, after this, the little chap managed to blurt out a story of what had happened.

With his mother, said Joe, he had gone to bed at 9 o'clock and he had fallen asleep. Presently the sound of his mother's voice and that of a man awakened him.

"Mamma was telling the man to go away," said Joseph, "and pretty soon he went out, and mamma jumped up and locked the door. She was crying, and I tried to comfort her. But pretty soon the man came back, and we could hear him banging on the door.

"Mamma was awfully scared then, and she screamed when the man finally broke the door in and came into our room. He had a pistol in his hand. My mother tried to take it away from him, and suddenly it went off and mamma fell down beside me. Then the man fired his pistol again, and then he ran out of the room.

"I tried to talk to mamma, and when she wouldn't answer me I got frightened and ran out of the house."

Umschiez, who had been summoned from a near-by saloon, where he had been playing pinochle, took up the story where his son left off. Tears were streaming down the man's cheeks as he told the police of what he believed had led up to the shooting. He and Bertrand Pond, he said, both of whom are employed in the West Shore Railroad shops, had been friends from boyhood. They had been chums, even, until nine years ago, when both met and fell in love with the same girl.

For a year they strove, each to win the girl from the other, until finally Umschiez won her consent, and Pond went away to get over his disappointment. When Pond returned he appeared reconciled to his misfortune. He and Umschiez again became the good friends they had been in years gone by, and when Pond's landlady gave up her house four months ago, it seemed quite natural that Pond should come to live with his old friend and with the girl he once had loved.

"I never suspected, though," cried Umschiez last night. "Had I thought that Pond still loved my wife I never would have allowed him in my house. It is my fault. If I hadn't gone to play cards this never could have happened."

In their first search through the house the neighbors had found a family portrait album lying open on a table in the parlor. From one of the compartments a picture had been torn. Umschiez looked and said that Pond's picture had been there. He had torn it out before he fled.

Persons in the neighborhood said that they had seen a man running toward the swamps at one end of town, and the police believe that this man was Pond. They are looking for him, and all surrounding towns have been notified to be on the watch for him.

DIVORCE SUIT THROWN OUT.

Court Rebukes Referee for Favoring Decree in Conger Case.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Aug. 15.—In a decision filed here to-day Justice Morschauser of the Supreme Court criticised an action for divorce when he refused to grant an interlocutory decree to Mrs. Grace Fitch Conger of Yonkers from Roy Conger.

Mrs. Conger brought proceedings on statutory grounds. Justice Keogh appointed H. Gassin, a New York lawyer of 3 East Thirty-third Street, as referee. The wife and her two brothers testified to having followed Conger, who was in company of a strange woman, from Hammerstein's Theatre to the Hotel Albany. No other testimony was produced, and upon this the referee recommended that a decree be granted.

Justice Morschauser handed down the following memoranda in connection with his decision: "I refuse to grant the interlocutory decree. It is surprising to me that such a record could be presented by an intelligent attorney, and ask the court to put its seal of approval upon it."

OLD GUARD PLANS WAR ON ROOSEVELT

One Veteran State Leader Remarks That ex-President Will "Know His Place" Before Long.

REGULARS RULE COMMITTEE

And Say Wadsworth and Woodruff Can Do as They Like with Organization in Their Hands.

The old guard in the Republican organization is preparing for war on the new thought in Republican politics in this State. The leaders who controlled the Legislature and who were in a position to make or mar political destinies in the days of Platt and Odell have their backs to the wall. The interference of President Taft and of Col. Roosevelt in State politics has aroused their ire.

While they are not prepared to offer open resistance to the expressed wishes of President Taft, they challenge the Roosevelt interference. One of the old type leaders told his friends yesterday that before many days Mr. Roosevelt would "know his place."

This attitude of the old guard leaders on the eve of the meeting of the Republican State Committee was regarded as rather significant, because they are confident they control that governing body of their party organization and declare that through it they can work their own sweet will.

"I will bet you any amount," said one of the leaders last night, "that the State Committee meeting to-morrow will not indorse Col. Roosevelt for the position of Temporary Chairman of the State Convention.

Trouble Brewing for the Meeting.

The State Committee is scheduled to meet at noon to-day at the Republican Club. The only stated business before the meeting will be to fix a date and place of the convention and to reaffirm the basis of representation to obtain in the election of delegates. The Republicans have already obtained an option on the Convention Hall at Saratoga for Sept. 27 and 28, and there will be little for the committee to do but to ratify the choice of the leaders. But nevertheless there were vague hints that there might be trouble at the meeting to-day.

Republican State Chairman Timothy L. Woodruff, who has taken his stand firmly with the Old Guard, denied yesterday that he had any intention of precipitating a fight.

The opposition of Speaker Wadsworth to direct nominations and some of the other policies recommended by Gov. Hughes and indorsed by Col. Roosevelt has placed him in the forefront of the Old Guard forces in the State organization. Mr. Wadsworth is not a member of the State Committee, but he came to the city yesterday and lost no time in looking up Mr. Woodruff and the other leaders who will stand with the State Chairman in the coming fight.

Those who attended the conference at the Republican Club yesterday afternoon and last night included Mr. Woodruff, William Barnes, Jr., National Committeeman William L. Ward of Westchester, Speaker Wadsworth and Francis Hendricks of Syracuse, J. Duncan Lawrence, the Republican leader of the Delaware, Otsego, Ulster, and Schoharie district, was in town, too. He did not attend the conference, but is in sympathy with the movement to repudiate Col. Roosevelt.

While the conference was in progress the long-distance telephone wires were kept busy. One of the leaders declared after the conference that there could be no question that the Woodruff-Barnes-Ward-Hendricks group of leaders would control the meeting of the State Committee to-day.

Bitter Toward Griscom.

When the leaders emerged from the conference with State Chairman Woodruff they were most uncommunicative. National Committeeman William L. Ward was asked whether it had been decided that Mr. Woodruff would run for the position as Chairman of the Republican State Committee again.

"Do you know anybody else who wants it?" asked Mr. Ward. "We will gladly let you pick a man to succeed Mr. Woodruff," Mr. Ward added, surveying the newspaper men with a smile.

Among all the leaders who took part in the conference there was voiced bitter resentment against the activities of Lloyd C. Griscom, Chairman of the New York County Republican Committee. Mr. Griscom is making his fight with the progressives. He went to see President Taft at Beverly last week, and yesterday he called on Col. Roosevelt at Sagamore Hill. After his return from Oyster Bay it was learned that Mr. Griscom would go into the meeting of the Republican State Committee to-day on a proxy obtained from Deputy Attorney General Ezra P. Prentice, who represents the Thirteenth Congressional District on the committee.

"My mission to Oyster Bay has been entirely misunderstood," said Mr. Griscom before he left the city last night. "I was not the bearer of any message from President Taft to Col. Roosevelt. I discussed National politics with the President, but, of course, am not at liberty to state what the nature of our discussion was. I discussed both National and State politics with Col. Roosevelt, but would rather not go into details about our conversation. But I do want to state most emphatically that when I saw President Taft last week I did not know that I was to see Col. Roosevelt to-day."

Mr. Griscom said he would be on hand for the meeting of the Republican State Committee to-day.

A friend of State Chairman Woodruff said last night that his attitude should not be misunderstood.

"Mr. Woodruff would have no objection to relinquishing his position if he thought it for the best of the party," said this friend. "But he is not willing to get out under fire."

It was said that one reason why Mr. Woodruff was in such a belligerent frame of mind was that attempts were being made through the Forest, Fish and Game investigation that was ordered by Gov. Hughes last February, and which now is in progress, to place the State Chairman under a cloud. A host of witnesses have already been examined by the Commissioners appointed by Gov. Hughes. The investigation has been held behind closed doors.

The attitude of the Old Guard liners is easily explained. They realize that if the Taft-Hughes-Roosevelt programme pledging the Republican organization through its State platform to the enactment of a direct nominations law substantially in accord with the provisions of the Cobb Compromise bill should be carried out, it would mean their end as leaders, even though it might mean Republican victory next Fall.

MIX-UP OVER "U. S. A."

Persons in England Using the Letters on Mail for South Africa.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 15.—Most Englishmen addressing letters to the United States use the contraction "U. S. A.," despite frequent admonitions by American friends that the letters stand for "United States Army," and that "U. S." is the correct form.

Now the matter has been complicated. It appears that a number of letters destined for places in South Africa have been sent to America because the writers addressed them "U. S. A.," meaning "Union of South Africa," and the British Post Office has had to issue a notice warning the public not to use the initials "U. S. A." when they mean "Union of South Africa."

"For these initials are customarily used as an abbreviation of 'United States of America,'" the notice says.

BIG HOTEL IN TYROL BURNED.

Five Hundred American and Other Guests Have to Camp in the Open.

VIENNA, Aug. 15.—The Karersee Hotel, a large establishment situated on Lake Karer, in the Tyrol, was destroyed by fire to-day.

Five hundred European and American visitors occupied apartments in the hotel, but escaped unhurt.

They were obliged, however, to camp in the open to await conveyance to the nearest town, several hours' drive.

SINKS TRYING TO SAVE GIRL.

Would-Be Rescuer Drowns in Diving Through the Breakers.

VENICE, Cal., Aug. 15.—John Ridgeway of Venice was drowned in the surf to-day attempting to save the life of Miss Bessie Hartner of Pasadena, who had been swept out to sea.

Ridgeway made a dive through the breakers to reach the struggling young woman, and was not seen again until his dead body was recovered. George C. Glonige of Sanger, Cal., plunged through the breakers and brought Miss Hartner ashore.

Ridgeway is survived by a widow and three children.

KILLED BY A RACING AUTO.

Speeding Machine Crashes Into Another—Capt. G. H. Breymann Dies.

TOLEDO, Ohio, Aug. 15.—Capt. George H. Breymann of this city, head of the marine contracting firm of Breymann Brothers, well known all over the world, was killed and his wife, his sister, Mrs. Z. Taylor of Detroit, and Mrs. Halling of Toledo were seriously injured in a collision of automobiles at Perrysburg, near here, to-night.

Breymann had stopped his machine to repair a tire, when two automobiles, said to be racing, bore down on him. The first passed within a few inches of the stalled machine, but the second crashed into it at full speed.

DAM BREAKS, TWO KILLED.

Two Other Workmen Buried Under Clay and Cement at Massena.

Special to The New York Times.

OGDENSBURG, N. Y., Aug. 15.—Nine men were buried under 100 tons of cement and clay at the 300-foot power dam being constructed at Massena, N. Y., at 8:15 this morning. Five were rescued alive, two others were dead when taken out, and two others are still buried in the ruins.

Three of the injured men were taken across the St. Lawrence River to Cornwall, Canada, and placed in the hospital. Two have broken legs, and the third has a fractured skull. One of the dead men had $1,000 in bills sewed in his underclothing.

A section of the dam forty feet in length and thirty feet in height, and filled with clay gave way, burying the workmen under it. The theory of quicksand is advanced by some, and a weak foundation by others.

WOMAN AND DOCTOR DIE.

He Commits Suicide After Seeing That Operation Will Be Fatal.

HARRISBURG, Penn., Aug. 15.—The bodies of Dr. Russell Campbell and Mrs. Ira Morrison were found at the home of the Morrisons in New Germantown, Perry County, to-day. The woman had died from internal hemorrhages resulting from an operation, and the theory of the police is that Dr. Campbell, on discovering that the operation would be fatal, killed himself. His death was due to cyanide of potassium.

Dr. Campbell was 24 years of age. He was a son of Dr. Hans Campbell, a well-known physician of Path Valley, Franklin County. A few months ago the young man went to New Germantown and set himself up in practice, taking a room at the home of Ira Morrison, a local dealer in cattle. Morrison went to Dry Run, fourteen miles away, on Saturday to attend a picnic and to buy cattle, and remained over Sunday.

CARS CLASH AT NIAGARA.

Meet Head-On Near Whirlpool Rapids —Eleven Injured.

Special to The New York Times.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Aug. 15.—An electric car, pulling two trailers bound down the Niagara gorge to catch the Toronto boat at Lewiston, crashed into an up-bound car on the gorge road at the head of Whirlpool Rapids under the Cantilever Bridge this afternoon.

Approaching the point of the accident from the south is a sharp, steep incline extending a long distance, and at the foot of this grade the cars take a single track to pass in front of the abutments of the Cantilever Bridge. The down-bound car got the signal too late and entered the single track zone from one end, while the up-bound car entered at the other end. When the cars met one of the trailers was swung around.

Eleven persons were injured. Medical aid was quickly on hand, and after they were hurried up the bank on an elevator the injured were taken to the hospitals in an automobile and an ambulance. None is thought fatally hurt.

TAFT WILL NOT ASK BALLINGER TO QUIT

And Secretary Will Not Go Unless He Does, Is the Information at Beverly.

CANNON'S FRIENDS ROUSED

Refuse to Kick Him Now—Whole Political Readjustment Scheme Is in Danger.

Special to The New York Times.

BEVERLY, Mass., Aug. 15.—Information was received here late this evening which shows that the political scheme which was launched so ambitiously a few days ago by some of the close advisers of the President has already received a probably fatal wound, and from the quarter where it was expected to get the first support.

The information to-night is that it has been found already by inquiry among some of the men on the inside, who were looked to for assistance in furthering the new plans that they cannot be made to work. The scheme was brought to a halt, which now seems likely to be permanent over the proposition to put Secretary Ballinger out of the Cabinet.

The information to-night is that he will not get out of his own accord, just as he has been saying so strenuously for so long, and that the President is unwilling to tell him to quit. It is also found that some of the men who have been working harmoniously for years with Speaker Cannon are not willing now to join in giving him a kick when he is so obviously near the close of his career.

This in fact seems to mark the end of the most ambitious politics undertaken in the Taft Administration. In view of this information it will be interesting to see what sort of a report to the President is made by Senator Crane on his arrival here to-morrow.

Mr. Taft played golf this morning, and later saw only two visitors, Judge Woodmansee, an old friend from Cincinnati, and Leonardo Osarios of Cavite, a special commissioner for the Philippine Government, who has been studying the question of port regulation in Europe with a view to recommending changes in the port regulations at Manila.

Judge Woodmansee, when he came into the Executive offices, was fairly bubbling over with enthusiasm over the Ohio situation, and declared with emphasis that Harding would be elected handsomely. Then he remarked as if to back up his declaration:

"You know we never lose out there except when we are dead sure of winning."

Mr. Osarios was a friend of the President when Mr. Taft was Civil Governor of the Philippines. He said his call was purely one of friendship. They talked over the Philippine situation, and the President said he would like very much to go back there while President and take Mrs. Taft with him. He also told Mr. Osarios that he thought the time would come comparatively soon for an enlargement of the Filipinos' share in the island government.

Politics is expected to come to the front again to-morrow when Senator Crane is due here for a talk with the President. Secretary Norton will also be back from his brief run to Long Island. So far there has been no admission from either the President or those close to him that anything has been heard from the Middle West regarding the proposed readjustment of leadership in the party. Nothing is known officially as to how the plan suits that element of the Republicans who has been making the trouble that has so disturbed the President and his friends.

Hard to Find Conciliators.

It is pointed out here that there are two sides to the proposition, and both of them present difficulties. Not only have the insurgents to be persuaded to come back in the reservation, but the regulars have to be influenced or forced into a spirit of readiness to receive the wanderers with something like a show of gladness and grace. The chief difficulty that the readjusters have met so far has been in securing the services of men to help along their plan whose activity would not be objectionable to one side or the other.

The fact is that the insurgent Republicans either have actually been treated so badly by the President and the Administration leaders, or they fancy they have, which amounts to the same thing, that most of them are beyond the point of possible reconciliation. There have been so many stories around Washington of contemptuous and bitter talk about them at the White House that they have resolved to flock entirely by themselves, so far as the President is concerned, until his Administration is over. La Follette, Bristow, Clapp, Dolliver, and probably Cummins have reached the stage where only strong language will assuage their wounded feelings.

Beveridge Could Not Be Leader.

Beveridge might be persuaded to attempt the rôle of peacemaker. But he not only has on what is generally regarded as a losing fight for his political life in Indiana; he has also lost a great deal of his influence, both in Washington and in the party generally. The regard in which he is held by the Administration is well known, and it could be only some such emergency as the present which would make his services acceptable. Moreover, from the beginning of the real insurgent movement, during the special session of Congress, Beveridge has played so hard for the leadership of the insurgents as to injure his standing with the others of that group, and it is more than doubtful now if he could induce some of them to follow him in an attempt at reconciliation with the Administration.

The Senate insurgents are the leaders of their party in their different States, and it will be an extremely difficult task now to choose other men as intermediaries from these States who will be able to exert any substantial influence, especially against these leaders.

That is the proposition which the readjusters have gally taken up for settlement. Their best chance for even partial success seems now to lie in the possibility of enlisting the support and assistance of Col. Roosevelt. About the only importance the plan has as a practical move is in that possibility. There can be no question that it is a move so conceived as to take advantage of the least chance in that direction.

Senator Crane may be able to throw some light on the situation to-morrow. When Vice President Sherman and Representative Loudenslager get here, later in the week, they will no doubt give the President and his advisers here further information as to the manner in which the plan has been received by the Old Guard. But thus far there has been no indication that any one suspected of being even remotely connected with the other side has given the least sign of being willing to come on and talk it over with Mr. Taft.

CRANE TAKES ANOTHER TRIP.

Visits Vermont and New Hampshire, Where Party Is Troubled.

DALTON, Mass., Aug. 15.—United States Senator W. Murray Crane, who, according to dispatches from Beverly, is expected to visit President Taft to-morrow and report concerning the general political situation as he observed it in the course of his recent trip to Chicago and other points, may be going to the Summer capital by automobile.

It was stated here to-day that the Senator had left Dalton on an automobile trip through Vermont, New Hampshire, and Massachusetts.

The political situation in both Vermont and New Hampshire is interesting from a Republican standpoint, and, while there is no fear of an overturn on either side of the Connecticut River, it is known that the National party leaders are anxious that Vermont shall not waver in the election within three weeks, and that the contest for the Gubernatorial nomination in New Hampshire shall not endanger the party's standing there.

Politics in both States across the border is warming up rapidly. A heavy vote is expected to be cast in Vermont, while the contest in New Hampshire between Col. Bertram Ellis of Keene and Robert P. Bass of Peterboro for the party nomination for Governor is not only a lively one, but is regarded as the first actual test of the working of the direct primary method in an Eastern State.

That Senator Crane should meet some of the party leaders in Vermont and New Hampshire somewhere in his trip is regarded here as more than probable.

CRANK AT TAFT'S HOME.

Poses as the Man Who Told of the Republican Readjustment.

BEVERLY, Mass., Aug. 15.—There was an amusing episode on the lawn of the President's cottage this afternoon following the second arrest of the Summer. A mild-mannered old man drifted along the driveway leading to the cottage until he was stopped by Secret Service Agent Sloan. When asked his mission the old fellow replied that he wanted to see the President regarding a message. Sloan told the visitor that he had better apply to the executive offices in the city, and was about to dismiss him when the man wheeled around and said:

"I am also the man who is responsible for the stories that have been sent out of Beverly about the reorganization of the Republican Party."

Sloan immediately took the man into custody. He was found to be J. F. O'Connor, a former patient at the State Farm for the Mentally Infirm. He was released some time ago as harmless.

PRIMARY IN CALIFORNIA.

Five Republican Candidates for Governor to be Voted on To-day.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 15.—On the eve of the first direct primary in this State the political prophets are puzzled. There are no precedents to go by and good authorities are diametrically opposed in estimates.

Alden Anderson, the regular Republican candidate for Governor, is confident that he will be nominated. He has behind him the old Republican machine organization, and represents the policy of high protection, which has made California fruit men prosperous. He has had much experience in public affairs, and is a broker and millionaire fruit grower.

He has four rivals. Hiram Johnson is the idol of the insurgents and the Lincoln Roosevelt League. He is a fine campaign orator and has made a strong impression throughout the State. Mr. Curry, the present Secretary of State, also has a large following. Mr. Stanton of Los Angeles will poll a large vote in the southern counties. Mr. Ellery, the fifth man, is expected to get only a small vote.

LODGE GETS FEW PLEDGES.

Candidates for Massachusetts Legislature Won't Commit Themselves.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Aug. 15.—Senator Henry Cabot Lodge is meeting with much difficulty in getting pledges of support from Republican candidates for the Legislature. He has been able to line up leaders who have shown themselves on many occasionse to be independent of the machine, but is having his troubles with less conspicuoeus members.

It was stated to-day that his agents had found that most of the canedidates for the House refused to go on record.

Mr. Ames plans to make a sharp, short fight. According to a statement by one of his political lieutenants, he came to the conclusion that it would cost at least $500,000 to put anti-Lodge candidates in the field in every Representative and Senatorial district in the State.

HOPE TO DEFEAT PATTERSON.

Tennessee Republicans to Nominate a Gubernatorial Candidate To-day.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 15.—Delegates are arriving for the Republican State Convention, which will convene in the State Capitol in this city to-morrow. The leaders believe that the party's nominee for Governor will receive the greater part of the support of what are known as the Independent, or anti-Patterson, Democrats.

It is understood the platform will contain a strong indorsement of the Administration of President Taft and an equally strong condemnation of the course pursued by Gov. Patterson.

Those prominently mentioned in connection with the nomination for Governor are Robert Sharp of Chattanooga, the present Chief Inspector of Post Offices; John W. Overall of Nashville, and Foster Brown of East Tennessee.

LIND REFUSES TO RUN.

Democratic Leaders in Minnesota Look for a Gubernatorial Candidate.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 15.—In a letter received to-day by F. A. Day, Chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee, John A. Lind of Minneapolis, who is in Seattle, and who was named for Governor by the Democratic State Convention in July, says:

"I cling to my original decision to refuse to be the Democratic candidate for Governor, though I am without a full knowledge of the situation."

Democratic leaders in Minnesota, who had hoped that Mr. Lind might eventually accept the nomination, have given up now, and it is stated they are looking for a suitable man to be named by the committee to fill the vacancy on the ticket.

ROOSEVELT SILENT ON GRISCOM'S VISIT

Believed, However, That He Declined to Come Out with an Indorsement of Taft.

AGREED ON STATE POLITICS

President's and Colonel's Views Coincide on the New York Situation, Says the County Chairman.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Aug. 15.—No tidings went forth from Sagamore Hill today at the conclusion of the conference between Col. Theodore Roosevelt and Lloyd C. Griscom, Chairman of the New York Republican County Committee.

The County Chairman is known to have been the bearer of a message from President Taft, and it was generally supposed that the message was sent in the hope of obtaining Col. Roosevelt's outspoken support for a move to obtain harmony within the Republican Party. But when Mr. Griscom went away, after a talk which lasted most of the day, the only thing he was willing to speak about was the New York State situation. He said that President Taft and Col. Roosevelt were in full accord in that regard. Col. Roosevelt would not allow interviewers to get any closer to his house than the tennis court at the bottom of the hill.

In spite of Col. Roosevelt's reticence it is believed here that he has mapped out a programme which does not include, for the present at least, a definite indorsement of the Taft Administration. There is good ground for the belief that the visit of Mr. Griscom to-day on his return from Beverly, Mass., has not caused the Colonel to alter his opinion.

Mr. Griscom reached Sagamore Hill well before noon and stayed until it began to grow dark. Then he went to Cold Spring Harbor, on the edge of Col. Roosevelt's estate, where his motor boat was waiting to take him back to New York.

The County Chairman was not anxious to make it appear that he had come to Sagamore Hill as an emissary from the President. He not only said that the President had not sent him, but he added that Mr. Taft did not know that today's conference was to be held. Nor did Charles D. Norton, secretary to the President, know that Mr. Griscom was to visit Col. Roosevelt, he declared. Some one mentioned the fact that Mr. Norton had ridden all the way from Boston to New York with Mr. Griscom, but the County Chairman repeated the assertion that Mr. Norton knew nothing of his visit to Col. Roosevelt.

"Why did you come to see Col. Roosevelt?" he was asked.

"I've been wanting to see him for some time," was the reply.

"But did not you see him in New York last Friday just before you went to Beverly?"

Mr. Griscom recalled that fact, but he insisted that there was no significance in his two visits.

"How do the views of President Taft and Col. Roosevelt coincide, in reference to National politics?" was the next question.

The County Chairman paused for some time before he replied:

"I did not discuss National politics to any great length with President Taft."

"Are they agreed as to the New York State situation?"

"Yes. I have discussed candidates and platforms, and the whole New York State situation with both of them, and their views coincide."

Mr. Griscom said that no names had been mentioned prominently for the Gubernatorial nomination, although a good many had been considered. He said it was too early to settle on a man, and that it would be necessary to consult with leaders in various parts of the State before a choice could be made.

DIX HAS HARMONY TALK.

First of His Up-State Conferences Held at Lake George.

LAKE GEORGE, N. Y., Aug. 15.—Chairman John A. Dix of the Democratic State Committee held the first of his up-State "harmony conferences" here to-day. He was the guest of honor at a dinner given by J. Augustus Kellogg of Glens Falls, and met a large delegation of Warren County Democrats. Edward M. Shepard and Frank E. Joughran of New York City accompanied Mr. Dix.

The Chairman appealed especially to inactive Democrats and independent voters for support. Democratic prospects were described as very bright. Mr. Dix attacked what he called President Taft's inconsistency on the subject of tariff revision. He left here in a motor car to make visits at Newcomb, Elizabeth, and Port Henry.

ASSAILS OMAHA POSTMASTER

Insurgent Charges Pernicious Activity In Behalf of Senator Burkett.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—Charges of pernicious political activity and a petition for the removal of Postmaster B. F. Thomas of Omaha, said to be campaign manager for United States Senator E. J. Burkett of Nebraska, have been filed with the Post Office Department by Attorney Franklin A. Shotwell, an insurgent, seeking the Republican nomination for State Senator in Douglas County, Neb. The charges grew out of the battle between the insurgents and the regulars in Nebraska, and especially the bitter fight being made on Senator Burkett.

Twelve distinct charges are contained in the complaint, which reached Postmaster General Hitchcock. The allegation is being made that Postmaster Thomas violated the rule against "pernicious political activity." One charge is that he is Senator Burkett's campaign manager.

HOPE FOR SOCIETY GAMBLERS

Will Not Be Called as Witnesses Next Monday; Perhaps Never.

NARRAGANSETT PIER, R. I., Aug. 15.—Fears of more than a score of men and women who were caught in the raid on the Narragansett Club a week ago that they would have to appear in court next Monday as witnesses were dispelled to-day when Judge Nathan B. Lewis advised Constable John G. Cross, the young leader of the raiders, not to summon the witnesses for that date.

The crusade against gambling was brought before the courts to-day for the second time when William E. Arnold, charged with maintaining a gambling nuisance, reiterated his plea of not guilty and filed a demurrer. It was based on three points—duplicity, uncertainty, and insufficiency. Judge Lewis said that arguments on the demurrer would be held next Monday. If it is sustained the society people will not be called to testify.

1,112 JAPANESE DROWNED.

Houses Washed Away by Floods Number 3,953—Thousands Homeless.

TOKIO, Aug. 15.—The figures of the casualties from the great floods, which last week inundated many districts in Japan and on Friday and Saturday almost completely submerged two of the principal wards of Tokio, were given out today, after official investigation, as 1,112 dead and missing.

Three thousand nine hundred and fifty-three houses were washed away, in addition to the thousands which were under water during the flood, but resisted the strain.

Thousands of persons are homeless and dependent on public relief.

MORE CAPITAL FOR NORFOLK.

Stockholders to be Asked to Authorize $50,000,000 for Improvements.

The Directors of the Norfolk & Western Railway have decided to ask the stockholders to authorize another increase of $50,000,000 in the capitalization for the purpose of improvements. A special meeting of stockholders was called for Oct. 13. The capital is to be increased from $100,000,000 to $150,000,000, and the Directors will ask authority to put out $50,000,0 of bonds in place of the stock should it be decided that financing can better be done by a sale of bonds. If the bonds are used they will be put out in the shape of convertible bonds, against which the authorized stock will be held in the treasury of the company.

Most o fthe Norfolk & Western's financing in recent years has been arranged through the sale of convertible bonds, to which the stockholders have been allowed to subscribe in proportion to their holdings of the company's stock. They will have a similar opportunity in this issue. The new stock or bonds will be put out in installments from time to time as the needs of the read develop.

NEW HAVEN'S REPORT.

Last Quarter's Traffic Shows Nearly Equal Rise in Revenue and Expenses.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 15.—The report of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railway Company for the quarter ended June 30 was announced tonight. It shows operating revenues of $15,898,798.84, an increase of $1,617,294.77 on the corresponding quarter of 1909. The operating expenses were $10,441,258.61, an increase of $1,775,956.27.

The net operating revenue was $5,457,540.23, a decrease of $158,661.50. Net revenue from outside operations increased $27,499.45; taxes increased $194,251.03, and other income increased $520,670.54.

The gross corporate income for the quarter was $9,408,760.98, an increase of $195,257.46. Interest, rentals, &c., increased $148,513.93.

The net corporate income for the quarter was $4,634,191.83, against $4,587,448.30 for the same quarter of 1909, an increase of $46,743.53.

LAWSON CAUGHT IN MONTREAL

Absconder's Wife and Another Woman Arrested in Newark.

Word was received yesterday by the Newark police that Peter Lawson, the absconding confidential clerk of the Eagle Manufacturing Company, was arrested on Sunday by the Montreal police. He told the Canadian authorities that he would waive extradition. Detective Sergt. Tuite of Newark Police Headquarters left Sunday to bring Lawson back to Newark. His accounts are short $4,560.

Mrs. Davidina Lawson of 223 First Street, Newark, his wife, and Mrs. Lillie Muir of 225 First Street were arrested last night and held in Police Headquarters as the result of a message that Detective Sergt. Tuite sent from Montreal after learning from Lawson that he gave his wife $3,500 of the stolen money, and that she knew how he got the money. Lawson had $789 in his possession when arrested.

Mrs. Lawson was allowed to take her eighteen-month-old baby to Police Headquarters.

Captain of Detectives Carroll declared that both women admitted knowledge of Lawson's theft. When Lawson was leaving the house on the night of the robbery he handed his wife several packages of money, and remarked that there was enough to keep her and the baby for a while. The Muir woman suggested to Mrs. Lawson that she would keep the money in her house so that the police would not find it in case the Lawson home was searched. This was done, but when she learned that the police were sending out circulars for Lawson she became frightened and returned the money to Mrs. Lawson. The two women then concocted the story that Mrs. Lawson told the police of finding $2,835 in an old coat of Lawson's.

HIT BY AUTO, CYCLIST DIES.

Passengers Forced to Flee from Victim's Friends Into a Hotel.

MINEOLA, L. I., Aug. 15.—While riding a bicycle at Bull's Head, near Roslyn, Frank Periiski, a laborer, was hit yesterday by an automobile. He died in the Nassau Hospital this morning.

Two men and five women who were in the auto had to take refuge in a hotel to escape a crowd of angry workers. The proprietor of the hotel telephoned for help, but failed to get it.

Nassau County has only one detective, and he is always kept busy. Many crimes have been committed and the perpetrators gone unpunished, and there is a general feeling by the residents that they should have more protection.

AUTO HITS WOMAN; SPEEDS ON

Elizabeth Howard, Store Detective, Knocked Down in Fourth Avenue.

Miss Elizabeth Howard, who said she was a store detective, aged 25, living at 155 East 104th Street, was struck by an automobile yesterday afternoon in Fourth Avenue at Seventeenth Street. After hitting Miss Howard and throwing her to the street the driver of the machine put on full speed and escaped.

Miss Howard was crossing Fourth Avenue when the automobile, which was bound north, dodged out from behind a car and struck her. Policeman Morris of the East Twenty-second Street Station called an ambulance, and after the doctor had attended the young woman she went home.

William Jarvis was crossing the street directly behind Miss Howard. He said he had seen the auto strike her and then speed up the avenue. He gave the police the number of the auto, and they are tracing it.

TO LOCKOUT BRICKLAYERS.

Employers Threaten Them Unless Nesbitt & Co. Strikers Give In.

The bricklayers' unions of the city have received an ultimatum from the Mason Builders' Association that unless by to-day bricklayers who are on strike on all the contracts of S. Nesbitt & Co. are back to work the trade agreement with the employers will be declared at an end on Friday. This means that there will be a general lockout of 10,000 bricklayers.

This is the most serious situation that has confronted the bricklayers' unions in many years. Under their present agreement with the Mason Builders' Association the bricklayers receive 70 cents an hour, the highest wages ever paid to bricklayers in any city, and double wages for all overtime after working eight hours a day, and for Sunday and holiday work. The strike was caused by the employment of plasterers who were not recognized as union men by the bricklayers.

BLOODHOUND LEADS POLICE.

Italian, Supposed to be Miss Purdy's Assailant, Run Down.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Aug. 15.—With the aid of a bloodhound, Yorktown residents and the New York City watershed police captured yesterday an Italian who is being held on the charge of having assaulted Lillian Purdy, the nineteen-year-old daughter of Elias Q. Purdy, a wealthy farmer.

A man believed to be an Italian called Saturday at the Purdy homestead, and when Miss Purdy went to the door he asked to see her father. She replied that he was not at home, and the stranger went away. Later when the girl went to the peach orchard she was set upon and assaulted. Her father found her lying on the ground bound and gagged. The watershed police put a bloodhound owned by Floyd White on the trail. The dog trailed the arrested Italian through the woods.

TOUR BY HITCHCOCK LIKE ROOSEVELT'S

Postmaster General May Observe for Taft How ex-President Is Received in West.

MAY PERSUADE BALLINGER

Suggestion Made That Secretary's Retirement May Be Announced at Cabinet Meeting Sept. 10.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—While ex-President Roosevelt is traveling through the West, making speeches at strategic points, Postmaster General Hitchcock, one of the chief political advisers of the Taft Administration, will also be moving about not far from the Roosevelt line of march. Mr. Hitchcock admitted this afternoon that he would start on his sixteenth tour of the West "in a day or two." Though he refused to outline his itinerary, he will be back in Washington to attend the Cabinet meting here Sept. 10, just one day before Mr. Roosevelt expects to get back to Oyster Bay.

What he will then have to say to the President, it is believed now, will be of vital importance in determining Mr. Taft's course through the remainder of the campaign. Mr. Roosevelt will start West on Aug. 23, a week from to-morrow, and no great stretching of Mr. Hitchcock's "day or two" will drop him in just behind the Colonel or just abreast of him. Mr. Hitchcock will have every opportunity to sound public sentiment toward the utterances of Mr. Roosevelt. By the time he gets back he will be able to report to the President and to such of the Cabinet officers as have been in the President's closest confidence exactly what effect Mr. Roosevelt's trip has had, especially with regard to the present Administration.

It is quite likely that on his tour Mr. Hitchcock will meet Secretary Ballinger, and it may devolve upon the Postmaster General to make it plain to the Secretary of the Interior that the good of the party requires that he eliminate himself. The hint from the Summer Capitol that he was expected to retire Sept. 15 has simply elicited renewed declarations from Mr. Ballinger that he was going to stick to his post until the President asked him to leave. Mr. Hitchcock to-day said Mr. Ballinger would attend the Cabinet meeting Sept. 10. It is believed that attendance there will give him the opportunity to retire as gracefully as possible.

Mr. Hitchcock's brief admissions about his trip West came with apparent reluctance at the close of the interview on postal savings banks.

"Will you go into the insurgent States?" he was asked.

"I can't answer that," he replied. "Those things aren't arranged yet."

"How far west will you go?"

"No further west than California," he answered with a smile.

The meeting of the Cabinet here, it is explained, is for consideration of the estimates for next year's appropriations. For this purpose the President will come to Washington, and will remain here about ten days. The meeting will fall, however, just in the middle of the campaign. Attorney General Wickersham will by then have returned from his extended trip with Secretary Nagel through Alaska, and he will have important things to say about the status of the coal lands there, the Cunningham claims, the power of the Guggenheims, and in general the situation as it is likely to affect the Administration at home. It is reported here that interests bitterly antagonistic to Secretary Ballinger are engaged in gathering data in Alaska for further attacks on the Administration, and it is expected that Mr. Wickersham will know to what extent these attacks are to be feared.

It is confidently asserted that the report of the Congressional Joint Committee that investigated the Pinchot-Ballinger affair will have its report ready before the Cabinet meets, and that will undoubtedly call for careful consideration by the President and his advisers.

Mr. Hitchcock's report of sentiment in the West will also be almost certain to come up. His previous fifteen trips through the West have made him thoroughly familiar with the ground, and the President is known to give implicit faith to his political judgment.

PIERS BLOCKED WITH COTTON

Ocean Liners Taxed to Move It—Dull at Other Ports.

The congestion of baled cotton at this port, following the bull operations of the so-called "Patten pool," has created a condition in shipping circles here which on the surface would be indicative of the early re-establishment of American trade balance were it not offset by stagnation at other ports.

Owing to the abnormal quantity of the staple brought here for delivery by the "shorts," steamship lines have been swamped with freight all through June and July, and it is only now that the vessels engaged in transatlantic traffic can find accommodation for the merchandise offered them for export.

The White Star, Cunard, North German Lloyd, and French Lines have been particularly benefited by this condition, the cotton exported from here being chiefly consigned to Liverpool, Manchester, Havre, and Bremen. What New York gained in exports of cotton, however, was lost by New Orleans, Galveston, Savannah, and other Southern ports, the cotton exports for July covering the entire country showing a decrease over 1909 of 30,000,000 pounds.

At New York, however, exports of merchandise during July increased upward of $5,000,00.

MEET IN NON-UNION HOTEL.

Jersey Federation of Labor Delegates in a Row When They Discover It.

The discovery yesterday by delegates to the thirty-second annual convention of the New Jersey State Federation of Labor, that the Executive Committee had arranged headquarters in a non-union hotel in Newark, N. J., threatened for a time almost to break up the convention in a row. Members of the Waiters' and Bartenders' Unions who attended were the first to find that the headquarters were in a non-union hostelry and they nearly had fits.

Nothing much was done all day yesterday by officers of the federation but explain how they had been led into making the mistake and arranging for the transfer of headquarters to a union house.

Cornelius Ford, Chairman of the committee, finally got a chance to make a speech, and then he said that the affairs of the organization were more flourishing than ever before in its history.

FOREST FIRES WORSE.

More Troops Sent—Millions Lost—Rain Badly Needed.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—Alarming news of the forest fire situation in the Glacier National Park, in Montana, were received by the Interior Department today. Major William R. Logan, Supervisor of the Park, reported that the flames were spreading and the number of fire fighters on the scene was inadequate to cope with the emergency.

He appealed for the assistance of more troops, and upon the request of the Interior Department Gen. Leonard Wood, Chief of Staff of the army, ordered the companies of the Second Infantry from the American Lake manoeuvres in Washington for duty in the new park. These soldiers will augment the one company of the Twenty-fifth Infantry already there.

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 15.—Until a general rain comes to break the long dry period it is evident that the forest fires now raging in a score of districts all over the Pacific Northwest will reman a serious menace. The loss at present can be counted only in millions, but how many millions can scarcely be guessed. The forecaster gives no hope for rain.

Forest rangers and settlers are working day and night in the Coeur d'Alene region, Idaho, where three towns have been threatened.

Millions of feet of timber have been burned in the Wenahar reserve. Two thousand acres have been burned over at Yacolt, northeast of Vancouver. The eastern part of Washington has suffered severely. A line of fire is still maintained in the Colville reserve.

In Oregon the greatest danger is in the Wallowa reserve.

BUTTE, MON., Aug. 15.—On the Cabinet Forest reserve conditions are grave. Forestry officials have a report that twenty horses and a force of men are marooned somewhere in the Clearwater country. Their exact location cannot be ascertained.

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 15.—Word came last night that the fires in the St. Joe district have been fanned to redoubled fury by high winds, and that nothing but rains can check them.

A special message from Stiles, Idaho, last night says the situation in the Elk City district is the worst in the history of that region. The whole country in its vicinity is ablaze. The town is cut off from communication with other points.

SAY FIELDS DAMAGED HOUSE.

Owners Ordered to Tell How Many Holes Actor Punched in the Ceilings.

Supreme Court Judge Goff granted yesterday the application of Lew Fields for an order compelling the owners of a house at 334 West Eighty-eighth Street to furnish a bill of particulars in their suit against him for $3,000 damages to premises they leased to Fields.

According to the plaintiff, Fields, in September, 1905, leased the house for four years. While he occupied it, they assert, Fields caused holes to be punched in the ceilings, windows to be smashed, enamel on the bathtubs to be broken off, and tiling to be cracked, and that he also threw rubbish on the roof of an extension.

Fields denied all the allegations except that he leased the house and occupied it, but he asked that the plaintiffs inform him how many holes were punched in the ceilings, the number of window panes broken, and when, where, and what kind of rubbish was thrown on the extension, and by whom.

The plaintiffs are Emma W. Schectel, Sophia J. Dresler, George H. Dresler, Matilda S. Dresler, Kate G. Dresler, Dorothy E. Carpenter, Clara H. Folmer, and Laura A. Dresler.

CAFE DE L'OPERA TO REOPEN.

Phipps Estate Gets Possession and It Will Be Run Under New Name.

The entire fittings and furnishings of the Café de l'Opera on Broadway, near Forty-second Street, which went into the hands of a receiver after it had been open to the public a few months last Winter and Spring, were sold as one lot yesterday afternoon when the auction sale of individual lots, which had been going on since Aug. 1, came to an end. Julius Kugelman, representing the Phipps estate, owner of the restaurant, was the only bidder for the contents as a whole, and they went to him for a little more than $111,000. It is understood that the place will be reopened in a short time, and continued as a restaurant, although not along the same elaborate lines as when it was known by its French name. The Phipps estate, it was said yesterday, has already leased the building, and the restaurant will be ready for business early this Fall.

MONEY AND WORKMAN MISSING

Staten Island Baker Connects the Two and Arrests Follow.

Frederick Wyckoff, a baker of 97 Jersey Street, New Brighton, S. I., woke up Friday morning in time to see two men escaping from his room carrying his satchel. He couldn't catch them and he missed $200 in cash. When he opened his bakery Wilhelm Kilsinsky and his helper, Rheinhold Bertcher, didn't show up for work and Wyckoff told the police.

Magistrate Marsh at Stapleton issued warrants for them and on Friday detectives found Kilinsky, whom Magistrate Marsh held in $2,000 bail for trial.

A policeman arrested Bertcher for intoxication last night and arraigned him in Night Court. Detectives Burke and Carboy were there. Magistrate House at their request discharged him on the intoxication charge and the detectives rearrested him on their warrant and took him to Staten Island.

BOY GRABS A LIVE WIRE.

Companions Get Him Away, but He Dies Later in the Hospital.

William Jothsen, 15 years old, of Chester and Liberty Avenues, Ozone Park, Queens, sought to push aside a dangling wire which interfered with his play near his home at 5 o'clock last evening. The wire had fallen across the trolley wires near-by.

The boy dropped unconscious with the wire still clasped in his hands. His companions, fearing to touch him, ran for aid. John Mayer and Thomas Lent, who live near-by, ran up, but everything was rain-soaked, so one of them had to run to a house near-by for a dry broom handle. The boy was then separated from the wire.

He died later in St. Mary's Hospital in Jamaica.

DIES WITHOUT DOCTOR.

Fishkill Resident's Death Causes Coroner to Order an Autopsy.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Aug. 15.—Coroner Haight of Fishkill Landing said tonight he would investigate the death of John P. Davis, a prominent resident of that village, who died to-day without medical attendance. The deceased had been ill three weeks, and during that time neither he nor his family would consult a doctor. The Coroner has instructed Dr. L. McClintock and an assistant to perform an autopsy on the body.

Davis is survived by his wife and two children.

Noted English Astronomers Here.

Among the passengers arriving on the Minnetonka yesterday were Prof. F. W. Dyson of Edinburg, Sir Joseph Larmer and Prof. H. H. Turner of Oxford, and Prof. H. H. Newell of Cambridge Universities, and Major E. H. Hills, who have come to attend the International Union for Solar Research at Carnegie Observatory, Pasadena, Cal. Before leaving for the West the party will attend the meeting of the Astronomical and Astrophysical Society in Boston.

DEMOCRATS CALLED TO HARMONY DINNER

All Mayors, Up-State Leaders and Editors Invited Here by State Chairman Dix.

GETTING AN EARLY START

Greatest Number of Party Wiseacres That Ever Met for a State Campaign Likely to Attend.

With the Democrats busy in every section of the State weeks before campaign activities begin in ordinary years, announcement was made yesterday of the biggest move yet proposed to bring members of the party of every shade of belief and opinion together for the Gubernatorial fight this Fall.

Chairman of the Democratic State Committee John A. Dix is sending out invitations for a dinner and conference to be held under the auspices of the State Committee at the Hotel Knickerbocker on the evening of Sept. 8. This is likely to bring together the greatest number of representative Democrats from every section of the State that ever met in a Democratic State campaign.

Mayor Gaynor, it was announced, would be one of the guests of honor in case his health should permit him to attend. Altogether it is estimated that about 450 Democrats will participate. The invitations will be limited to the following:

Members of the State Committee.

Members of the Democratic State Executive Committee recently named by Chairman Dix.

Chairmen of all Democratic County Committees in the State.

Democratic Mayors from thirty-one out of the forty-eight cities in this State.

Editors of all the Democratic newspapers in the State.

Democratic members of the State Legislature.

Democratic members of Congress from this State.

Secretary John A. Mason of the Democratic State Committee said last night that no set programme had been prepared, beyond the arrangement that Mr. Dix is to preside. The discussion at the conference which is to follow the dinner will be entirely informal, and it is expected there will be lots of it.

"The purpose of Mr. Dix," said Secretary Mason, "is to broaden and vitalize the State organization by the interchange of views and suggestions from those on whom will fall the brunt of the party battle this Fall. He is seeking to sound the sentiment from every source and every local organization throughout the sixty-one counties in this State. He thinks that a thorough understanding of the prospects as well as the duty of the organization will encourage and stimulate Democratic committeemen and workers everywhere. Reports state that they are exceedingly active already."

Chairman Dix is on his tour of the State in which he intends to visit every one of the fifty-one Senatorial districts to confer with Democratic officeholders and officials. This tour as well as the proposed big pow-wow on Sept. 8 have been arranged for the purpose of posting Mr. Dix on conditions and prospects in each locality, and thus equip him to wage a successful campaign.

During his visit through the districts, Mr. Dix expects to impress on the party leaders particularly the necessity to nominate good men for local offices in order that the promising outlook for Democratic victory may not be marred by hostility to local office.

NOTE THREATENS JUDGES.

Anonymous "ex-Convict" Says Four He Names Will Be Killed.

Acting District Attorney Frank Moss received an unsigned letter yesterday in which the writer, who said he recently was released from Sing Sing, declared that he and three other ex-convicts had plotted to assassinate Justices Fawcett of Brooklyn and O'Sullivan, Malone, and Rosalsky of Manhattan, Assistant District Attorney Hart and ex-Assistant District Attorney Ely. "A couple of others" might also be killed the writer also said.

At his home, 23 East 127th Street, Mr. Moss said last night he was convinced that the letter writer was a crank, and that he did not believe there was any such conspiracy.

"I turned the letter over to the police," said Mr. Moss. "The letter should not cause any one a moment's uneasiness."

FISHES OF PORTO RICO.

Report Says They Are Waiting for the Angler and Oysters Grow on Trees.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—Oysters grow on trees in Porto Rico and fish that have not yet figured in expensive restaurant menus swim unsuspectingly in its waters, ready to eat out of the angler's hand, according to a report to the Bureau of Insular Affairs from San Juan.

"At one port," says the report, "the following food fishes are taken by hand, hook and line or trolling: Candil, Spanish mackerel, 2 to 10 pounds; kingfish, 10 to 40 pounds; runner, cabra mora, Nassau grouper, red hind, toro, red grouper, 5 to 100 pounds; pargo prieto, 5 to 30 pounds; dog snapper, 5 to 20 pounds; schoolmaster, red snapper, muttonfish, lane snapper, margate, yellow tail, pluma, 2 to 8 pounds; chopa amarilla, 1 pound; red goat, 5 to 8 pounds; blue parrot, 3 to 8 pounds; trunk fish 1 to 4 pounds; robalo, 5 to 25 pounds, and balaju, ¼ to ⅝ pound.

"Oysters of good flavor are quite plentiful on the south side of the island; they are usually attached to the roots and lower branches of the mangrove trees at the shore."

In spite of all these conditions, the report shows that Porto Rico imported more than $654,000 worth of dried fish last year and exported none.

PITTSBURG'S COUNT 533,905.

Has Passed Half-Million Mark Since 1900—Syracuse Jumps to 137,249.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—The population of Pittsburg, Penn., according to the returns of the new census, is 533,905, an increase of 82,393, or 18.2 per cent., as compared with the combined population of Pittsburg and Allegheny of 451,512 in 1900.

The returns show that the population of Syracuse, N. Y., is 137,249, an increase of 28,875, or 26.6 per cent., over the 1900 figures, which were 108,374.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 15.—The official census figures from Washington showing that Pittsburg's population in 1910 will be put down at 533,905 have created some disappointment among Pittsburgers. A police census taken in 1908, after Allegheny, with her 130,000, and other boroughs counting another 20,000 had been taken in put the population of greater Pittsburg at that time at 585,000. It was then estimated that the census of 1910 would show not less than 650,000 for greater Pittsburg.

MAYOR MAY BE OUT WITHIN TWO WEEKS

force are detailed to sleep in a room near the Mayor, to run to his aid should any of their sort of trouble arise.

Doesn't Know Gallagher.

Mayor Gaynor does not know that such a person as Gallagher exists. He refers to the shooting as "it," and has never heard the name of his would-be assassin. It is supposed that he thinks it the work of some crank, and lets it go at that.

Gallagher in his cell at the Hudson County Jail shows less concern for the condition of the Mayor than he does for the bruises that were left him from the manhandling he experienced at the hands of Commissioner Edwards. He told his lawyer yesterday that the way he was treated right after the revolver went off was an outrage in a civilized country.

Gallagher denies most emphatically that he shared with any one else in his plan to shoot Mayor Gaynor, and in this the Hoboken authorities and his lawyer are inclined to agree with him. It is known, however, that the conference held at Police Headquarters on Saturday night had as its purpose an effort to connect Gallagher with another man, perhaps one who may have incited him to the shooting. That this took on the nature of a conspiracy the police do not believe, nor, it is said, do any of the Mayor's official family.

Lunacy Test for Gallagher.

At the office of Prosecutor Garven in Jersey City it was denied yesterday that any opposition would be made to an application by Gallagher's lawyer, for the appointment of a lunacy commission before trial. Lawyer Simpson, it is expected, will make just this move, but not until there has been some action by the Grand Jury.

One of Mr. Garven's staff discovered yesterday that, because of a law passed by the New Jersey Legislature after the assassination of President McKinley, it is a crime punishable by fifteen years' imprisonment and $5,000 fine to urge any one to take the life of a public official or to threaten to do so, a penalty more severe than can possibly be administered to the man who actually shot Mayor Gaynor.

BUYS TOYS FOR THE ORPHANS.

Mayor Gaynor Sends His Son Rufus After Them.

Rufus Gaynor, the Mayor's son, who is reporter on one of the evening newspapers in this city, dropped in on his colleagues in the City Hall yesterday to pass the time of day.

"I've got to go out and buy a bunch of toys to take over to the hospital in Hoboken," said the young man. "It's dad's orders."

The reporters looked at the Mayor's son in surprise.

"What's the matter?" asked one in alarm. "What does the Mayor want with toys?"

"Oh, no," said young Gaynor, with a smile, "it isn't as bad as all that. But there are a lot of orphan children over in the hospital, and father wants to do something to make them happy."

The Abernathy Boys Are Sorry.

Among the messages of condolence occasioned by the attempted assassination of Mayor Gaynor which came into the Mayor's office at the City Hall yesterday was one from the Abernathy boys. The two youthful Westerners were received by Mayor Gayner after their long horseback ride from Oklahoma to this city when they came to join in the welcome to Col. Roosevelt. The message follows: "Just returned from ranch and learned that

HARMON WILL STOP RIOTS WITH TROOPS

Cincinnati Regiment Goes to Columbus and Will Use Riot Guns on Any Mobs.

PROTEST FROM THE MAYOR

He Wanted Cars Stopped at Night and Relied on the Formation of Vigilance Committees.

Special to The New York Times.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Aug. 15.—Gov. Harmon to-day undertook to stop the car strike rioting in this city by ordering out the First Regiment, National Guard, of Cincinnati, and Troop B and Battery C of Columbus, for riot duty. The local militiamen were on duty within an hour after receiving the order, and the Cincinnati men arrived at 10 o'clock. These forces number 800 men, and sufficient companies of the Third Regiment to bring the number up to 1,000 will be added.

Gov. Harmon issued his orders without consulting Mayor Marshall after a conference with Adjt. Gen. Weybrecht and Charles J. Prettyman, President of the Chamber of Commerce. He issued this proclamation:

> I have ordered a portion of the National Guard to report for duty at Columbus forthwith. I have done this of my own motion under my authority as Governor. The police force of the city, which is entirely too small at best, has been reduced and demoralized by the open mutiny of many of its members. It has shown itself incapable, without help, of maintaining order. A continuance of this condition would disgrace the State and inflict grievous injuries on its capital city.
>
> Wherever the blame rests, for it surely rests somewhere, the menace of the situation is beyond question, and I am unwilling to let lawless violence run unchecked for lack of sufficient force to put it down, while the police of the city is being recruited and reorganized and the Sheriff is summoning the men of the county to uphold the public authority. It does not mend matters to say the local authorities should have taken these steps sooner, though this is true. Let them be taken now without delay. Meanwhile the troops will render whatever assistance is needed.
>
> The State expects every citizen promptly to show his colors and lend his aid, so that the emergency which the guard is summoned to meet may speedily be brought to an end and Columbus and Franklin County prove themselves worthy of the right of self-government by meeting their responsibilities. The public interest now wholly overshadows the private controversy which is the occasion of the grave danger that if permitted to continue would threaten the foundations of the Government, and the first care of all citizens must be to maintain law and order, because otherwise no man can enjoy his individual rights, whatever they may be.

Riot Guns for the Troops.

Gen. Weybrecht says that this time all soldiers on strike duty will be provided with riot cartridges, which are loaded with buckshot. Martial law will not be declared. The Governor will direct the movements of the troops and endeavor to suppress all violence, but will not take over the affairs of the city. The plan is to keep the First Regiment on duty two weeks, and then relieve it with the Fifth Regiment of Cleveland.

When the troops were here before the Governor insisted that it was the duty of Mayor Marshall to give orders as to what disposition should be made of them. This responsibility the Mayor assumed when he and his Director of Public Safety outlined plans for patrolling all car lines with soldiers. The State furnished the soldiers and the Mayor placed them wherever he pleased. This time the militia, it is understood, will work independently of the police. The Mayor will be consulted, and his advice will undoubtedly carry weight in the military councils, but his say-so will not be final.

Gov. Harmon summoned Mayor Marshall to his office to-night and explained that when he was awakened by the report of the explosion at the south side barn last night he concluded it was time to recall the troops. He declared that the disorder of the last few days warranted his act. He said that whenever the Mayor wanted the troops to assist in quelling disturbances he could call on Gen. Weybrecht, and they would be forthcoming. The Mayor replied that the Governor had not acted fairly in not consulting him before calling the troops, as he was still able to handle the situation with his police force.

Mayor Had His Own Plan.

When asked for his opinion of the new developments this evening Mayor Marshall replied that he had nothing to say except that Gov. Harmon and Adjutant Gen. Weybrecht could go to the infernal regions. He made this statement later to-night:

> For the past two days I have realized that conditions were such that proper protection could not be given for the operation of cars after night. The question presented itself as to whether or not a call should be made for troops, or try a plan other than the existing one. After consultation of numerous citizens, I arrived at the conclusion that I would ask the company not to operate its cars after night for a few days for the following reasons:
>
> First—The people generally were laboring under a pretty high degree of excitement, and a few days of quiet, which would result if the cars were not operated after night, would have the effect of improving conditions generally.
>
> Second—The operation of cars in the daytime only for a few days would give the city an opportunity to reorganize and strengthen its police department and give Sheriff Sartain time to secure a large force of deputies.
>
> Third—Along several street car lines there was the beginning of Government's effort to organize citizens into vigilance committees to prevent the stoning of cars and the interruption of traffic, and that an opportunity ought to be given to organize such committees.
>
> It seemed to me that this plan would put the city in position reasonably soon to restore peace and good order. We have had very little trouble with the operation of cars in the daytime, and there was no reason to believe that the proper protection could not be given to the company in daytime. This plan, if successful, would have avoided the call for troops and saved the State a great expense. When the troops are withdrawn there will be the same danger that disorders will follow, and if so, the time for ultimate peace will be postponed by the sending of troops.
>
> The above plan had been definitely determined upon on my part, and I consulted with Mr. Thomas J. Keating, attorney for the Railway and Light Company, and submitted the plan to him. By mutual agreement with Mr. Keating the cars were taken off of the streets at an early hour last night. I had expected to continue that plan until I learned that the Governor, on his own account, had ordered troops into Columbus. I have not yet determined what disposition I can make of the limited number of troops that the Governor has sent.

Safety Director McCune admitted to-night that the special police were of little account as they would not make arrests and would run from danger. Asked why he did not get rid of the specials he replied: "We put them on at the request of the Chamber of Commerce and hardly feel like taking them off. It is impossible to get good recruits while the present situation of affairs prevail." Six more policemen rebelled to-night and were suspended. Three of the men said they would not risk their lives any longer. This leaves Mayor Marshall a force of only 218 men. Sheriff Sartain, who issued a call for 1,000 deputies, has a force of only twelve men.

Missile-throwing has been indulged in on various lines during the day, and considerable reckless shooting has been done by strikebreakers, but there have been no serious outbreaks. Since the troops have been called out the rioters have quieted down.

Thirty additional detectives from New York and Chicago reached Columbus to-night. The street railway company intends to learn the identity of the throwers of stones and those who are responsible for the rioting. It is the contention of the company and the detectives now on hand that the number of persons really guilty is few and if these are caught the trouble will come to an end.

The City Council to-night considered the appropriation of further money to defray the expenses of the police during the strike. It was voted not to spend any more money until the street railroad company showed cause for carrying on the warfare.

MRS. COREY TO PLAY AGAIN.

She Wants to Return to the Stage, for a Time at Least.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Tuesday, Aug. 16.—Under the heading "A Millionaire Actress," The Daily Mail says that Mabelle Gilman, the American actress who married W. E. Corey, President of the United States Steel Corporation, contemplates a return, for a little while at least, to the stage.

Her name was chiefly associated with musical comedy, but Mrs. Corey thinks that if she had ventured on more serious work she would have made a greater reputation.

If her plans for a return to the stage attain fruition Mrs. Corey will appear in London only, and with this object in view Lewis Waller has been approached to see if he can arrange for the production here next May for a short season of "The Taming of the Shrew," in which Mrs. Corey would play Katherine to Waller's Petruchio.

DUKE TO MEET MISS ELKINS.

Abruzzi, Mrs. Elkins, and Her Daughter to be at Same Hotel at Vichy.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 15.—The Duke of the Abruzzi, Mrs. Elkins, and Miss Katherine Elkins are all expected this week at the Hotel Du Parc at Vichy.

FRENCH POISONING MYSTERY.

Alleged Attempt to Kill the American Wife of Claude Berton.

SAINT NAZAIRE, France, Aug. 15.—The criminal authorities are investigating an alleged mysterious attempt to poison Mme. Claude Berton, the American daughter-in-law of Pierre Berton, the well-known dramatic author and producer.

According to the gossip of discharged servants, which first attracted the attention of the police to the case, there was considerable feeling between the elder Mme. Berton and her American daughter-in-law, who is the daughter of a Chicago doctor. This culminated, according to the servants, in attempts against the life of the younger woman. Details were given of alleged mysterious white powders seen upon dishes served by the elder Mme. Berton to her daughter-in-law, which in one case, it is said, almost proved fatal to a dog to whom the dish was given.

Mme. Berton, the younger, apparently crediting the stories, left the home of her father-in-law, and the police, skeptical at first, were forced to undertake an investigation.

The elder Berton was joint author with Charles Simon of "Zaza," and has written a number of other well-known French plays. Before he became an author he was an actor.

LOSES MEMORY IN LONDON.

Young American in a Hospital—Thinks His Name Is John Drexel.

LONDON, Aug. 15.—The American Embassy is investigating the puzzling case of a young American who has completely lost his memory and is now an inmate of St. George's Infirmary, at Chelsea. He is apparently well born and educated, and thinks that his name is John Drexel. He talks incoherently of Chicago and Boston.

Anthony J. Drexel of Philadelphia went to-day to see him, but failed to recognize him as a member of the Drexel family. Nothing was found in his pockets, nor were there any marks on his clothes to give a clue to his identity, and he is supposed to have been in the company of some man who took everything that he possessed.

WATCH CUBANS IN JAMAICA.

Detectives Shadowing Col. Janet and Others at Kingston.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Aug. 15.—Two detectives of the Cuban Government staff are here shadowing Col. Janet, the Cuban leader, who arrived at Port Antonio in a sloop July 29, having left Cuba at the time of the abortive insurrection started by Gen. Miniet, near Santiago.

The detectives arrived on the Cuban Government steamer Oriente, which has been lying at Port Antonio for the past few days.

The detectives, who have under observation not only Col. Janet, but also other Cubans who are suspected of being here to receive munitions of war for transshipment to Cuba for revolutionary purposes, refuse to disclose any details of their mission, but they are keeping the closest watch on Cuban residents of Jamaica.

THE TERRA NOVA SIGHTED.

Fears for British Antarctic Expedition's Vessel Prove Groundless.

CAPE TOWN, Aug. 15.—The ship Terra Nova, bearing the antarctic expedition with which Capt. Robert F. Scott hopes to reach the south pole, was sighted to-day off Cape Point.

The Terra Nova sailed from Madeira on June 27, and was about fourteen days behind her schedule time to reach Cape Town, the delay causing some apprehension among the public, though Capt. Scott, who did not accompany his ship, expressed no alarm.

37 KILLED BY COLLISION.

Fifty-eight Others Injured in the Wreck of a Train in France.

ROYAN, France, Aug. 15.—Thirty-seven dead and fifty-eight injured persons have been recovered from the wreck of a Bordeaux excursion train which crashed into a freight train at Saujon while running at a speed of fifty miles an hour yesterday.

Six cars of the excursion train were telescoped. The bodies were horribly mangled.

The accident was caused by a misplaced switch.

PARIS, Aug. 15.—The German Emperor has telegraphed his condolences on account of the Royan disaster to President Fallières.

Notes of Foreign Affairs.

YOKOHAMA, Aug. 15.—The American squadron, including the cruisers Charleston and New Orleans, under command of Rear Admiral Hubbard, arrived here to-day. The cruisers have visited Korea, and the Admiral and his staff were entertained at the American Consulate at Seoul.

LONDON, Aug. 15.—Herbert G. Dering, who has been appointed First Secretary of the British Legation at Mexico City, will sail for New York on the Teutonic on Aug. 17, en route to take up his duties at Mexico City. Mr. Dering formerly served as Secretary at Washington.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 15.—The superannuated old Turkish cruiser Mansoure, retired long ago and only awaiting breaking up, sank in a gale last Saturday on a mud bank sixty feet from shore, where she had been anchored.

TUDOR CARVINGS BURNED AT BRUSSELS

Other Treasures in British Exhibit Lost, but Many Art Objects Saved.

OUR SECTION UNHARMED

"Coney Island" Attractions Among the Destroyed Portion—Fair to be Reopened—Jewels Recovered.

BRUSSELS, Aug. 15.—It will take many days to place the Belgian Exposition in fit condition for its reopening, although a large majority of the buildings are still intact.

The known loss caused by the fire which swept through the "White City" yesterday is between $6,000,000 and $12,000,000. This is chiefly confined to the Belgian and British sections, but the damage by smoke and water has been general, and will add materially to the loss.

The American section escaped the fire. The art exhibit was in a building two miles distant from the flames. The French loss is confined to a building in which various foods were displayed and the Pavilion of the City of Paris, containing industrial exhibits and models from the schools of art.

The recovery of valuable collections of jewels helped to reduce the first estimates of the loss. The magnificent collection of precious stones, owned by Belgians and valued at $3,000,000, was unearthed from the ruins, unharmed.

There was considerable pillaging after and during the fire, and thieves made a heavy haul. Gendarmes caught a number of the looters, who had in their possession scores of rings and bracelets from the French jewel exhibit.

It is believed that Parliament will vote extra credits for the purpose of clearing away the ruins and constructing new buildings.

The ruins of the burned sections are still smoking, though all danger of a renewal of the fire is past. At a meeting early to-day the Executive Committee of the exposition decided to close it temporarily in order to clear away the ruins of the destroyed sections.

The entire Belgian and British sections, the whole "Kermesse of Brussels"—the Coney Island of the exposition, with water chutes, toboggan slides, and other entertainments—and everything west of the Avenue des Nations were destroyed, but by the heroic work of the firemen and troops in the early hours of the morning and the use of dynamite in blowing up buildings in the path of the flames the fire was checked.

Practically everything in the Danish, Russian, Norwegian, Austrian, Japanese, Turkish, and Swiss sections was saved. Only the façades of the Italian and Spanish sections were burned.

Art Treasures Saved.

Fortunately some of the most valuable art treasures, which had been loaned to the exposition or acquired by it, including valuable Gobelin tapestries, a large exhibition of jewelry, many paintings, marbles, and ancient furniture, were successfully removed by the police, firemen, and exposition employes beyond the reach of the flames and the pillaging criminals.

The reproduction of the house of Rubens at Antwerp, which was the official pavilion of the City of Antwerp, containing masterpieces of Flemish art of the Rubens period, collected from the galleries of the world, was not even scorched by the flames.

In the Belgian and British sections the flames spread with such extraordinary rapidity that nothing was saved, except the plan of the International Exposition at Turin in 1911. A strong gale carried the conflagration through the Kermesse, jammed with a Sunday crowd of nearly 100,000 persons at the time of the outbreak, with such speed that it is considered a miracle that the panic-stricken masses were got out with a loss no greater than two killed and thirty injured.

The British Loss.

The British loss is very heavy. It includes Tudor panelings lent by the Toronto Museum, costly Mortlake tapestries, and priceless furniture from the collection of Bernard More, on which he refused to set any price. They were insured for $500,000. Most of the French dressmakers' exhibits, which were insured for millions, were saved.

A few of the wild beasts in the menagerie, which escaped suffocation in the flames that drove back the soldiers and attendants who were endeavoring to put the animals out of their misery, were afterward shot down by the troops, who found them cowering in fright in various parts of the grounds.

PARIS, Aug. 15.—M. Dujardin-Beaumetz, who is Sub-Secretary of State for Fine Arts and a well-known painter, received advices to-day from Brussels that all the French works of art at the exposition had been saved.

The fire at the Brussels Exposition has been one of the worst disasters in modern history so far as the destruction of works of art is concerned.

The British section of the exhibition contained perhaps the finest display of old English decorative arts and crafts ever brought together, and all these beautiful things have been destroyed. There has been no single loss equaling for instance that of Titian's "St. Peter Martyr," which was burned in the Church of Sts. Giovanni e Paoli in Venice in 1867, but the sum of the loss of old English work is appalling.

"Ranging through five or six centuries," said a writer in The Daily Telegraph recently, "we chance upon pieces which not all the art of the present day could replace, pieces which have an altogether fancy value, and which money really could not buy. You have a collection of gems of English furniture that have never previously been shown outside of private mansions, and still less under one roof."

There was the entire paneling of an old Tudor apartment, which had left England never to return, having been acquired for the Toronto Museum. The fireplace, overmantel, and panels formed one of the finest specimens of Tudor art in existence. Some consolation may be found in the circumstance that, though the lining of the room is lost, the furniture—four-post bed, Court cupboard, chest of drawers inlaid with mother o' pearl, and a beautiful inlaid chair—survive in England.

In an adjoining room of the exhibition were some exquisite specimens of Stuart furniture and textiles. Two Mortlake tapestries, lent by the Victoria and Albert Museum, and a Soho tapestry, with a Chinese subject, framed the movable contents of the apartment. A Chales II carved overmantel in walnut and gilt, surmounted by a panel beautifully executed in silk tapestry, one of the finest known examples of a wing easy chair of the period, and a quaint old settee were in this room.

In a corner of the salle the history of English furniture was carried further in a sort of Wren room, where most of the accessories had come down from the period of William and Mary and Anne. There were a pair of unique walnut and gilt chairs, upholstered in old needlework, and a fine pair of double-chair-back walnut settees of Queen Anne style.

The fourth section of the loan-room covered the period from about 1750 to 1800, and showed the styles associated with the names of Chippendale, Hepplewhite, Sheraton, and Adam. On one side of the space allotted to the illustration of those days stood a cabinet which, with the early Worcester Chelsea, and other valuable china it contained, was said to be worth not less than $50,000. "Pieces like those set out on the shelves could never be replaced, once destroyed," a writer on the exhibition said. A number of items of furniture kept company with this priceless cabinet, such as a Chippendale fire screen, with panel of petit point needlework; two very rare carved ribbon-back chairs, a pair of exceptionally fine satinwood inlaid and painted Sheraton dwarf cabinets, worth many hundreds of dollars; a satinwood cabinet, with marqueterie panels and ormolu mounts, which was probably unique in its way, and was insured for $10,000, and a lovely little cylinder-topped Sheraton bureau, with a shutter-front cupboard.

A magnificent collection of reproductions of gold and silver work lent by the Victoria and Albert Museum can, fortunately, be duplicated, though the money loss is very serious, but the old glassware from the same museum—it was the first time the institution had ever sent any of its treasures for exhibition abroad and will probably be the last—can never be replaced. Neither can a collection of fifty Toby jugs lent by a private English collector, and neither can many other quaint and exquisite things sent by connoisseurs to the exhibition.

Most of the well-known London firms of decorators had elaborate exhibits, which have been destroyed. Gill & Reigate had an Elizabethan house, White, Allom & Co. showed two interiors in the ornate style of William and Mary, Waring & Gillow prepared three interiors—a Georgian dining room, a Jacobean hall, and a Sheraton bedroom. A beautiful eighteenth century room, with "Chinoiserie" decorations, was exhibited by Cowtan & Sons.

The great feature of the Brussels Exhibition was its buildings. All the main edifices were of solid brick or marble, and some nations were represented by buildings which were apparently intended to last for hundreds of years instead of the plaster "palaces," which are usually erected at international fairs.

Although the official charges at the exhibition are remarkably moderate, many complaints have been made in regard to the rapacity of some of the Brussels hotel keepers, who, it is asserted, have made extortionate demands on visitors when a bargain has not been struck in advance.

TO REMOVE CRIPPEN SOON.

Has Been Under Arrest in Canada for Fifteen Days.

QUEBEC, Aug. 15.—Dr. Crippen and Miss Leneve may now be taken back to England, and the trial on a charge of murder awaiting them there as soon as the order for their release comes from the Federal authorities. To-night they completed the fifteen days under arrest in Canada required by the Fugitive Offenders' act.

Inspector Dew said he did not know on what boat he would sail, as his plans depended upon the arrival of the order from Ottawa. He will, it is expected, lose no time in getting Crippen and Miss Leneve to the other side.

Two steamers sail from here on Thursday, and if Dew loses no time in transporting the prisoners he will put them aboard the swifter of these, the Royal Edward. Inquiry has failed to reveal any preparations to take Crippen and Miss Leneve away by any other route than the most direct one—a steamer sailing from Quebec.

Except for automatic expiration of the fifteen-day limit, the case to-day was without legal features. Miss Leneve spent the afternoon answering the letter from her sister, brought from London by Sergt. Mitchell and the Holloway Jail Wardresses, who arrived yesterday. Crippen, it was learned to-day, has been permitted to mail to his London attorney a long letter relating to his case.

BELLE ELMORE FEARED DEATH.

Told of a Choking Sensation—New Witness at the Inquest.

LONDON, Aug. 15.—Spectators filled the little Coroner's Court at Islington this afternoon, where the investigation of the Crippen murder mystery was continued.

In consequence of the death of Coroner Thomas a week ago it was necessary to make a fresh start in the proceedings now presided over by the Deputy Coroner, Dr. Schroeder. The mangled remains supposed to be those of Belle Elmore were again viewed by the jury, and the hearing opened with a brief recital of the known facts in the case by Mr. Schroeder, who intimated that the inquiry was likely to be a portracted one.

Arthur Newton, the solicitor who was retained by friends of Dr. Crippen and whose services were accepted by Crippen, was in attendance. J. H. Watts, a solicitor, represented Miss Leneve.

Some of the more formal evidence given at the first hearing was repeated, and a new witness, Mrs. Belinda May, Secretary of the Music Hall Ladies' Guild, of which Belle Elmore was Treasurer, took the stand. She testified that at Christmas time Mrs. Crippen complained that her sleep was disturbed by a choking sensation, "as if she were going to die." Mrs. May further stated that on Feb. 2 Miss Leneve brought to her a passbook, a checkbook, and a letter in Dr. Crippen's handwriting, saying that Belle Elmore was going away for a few months and asking that the guild elect a new Treasurer.

Supt. Froest of Scotland Yard informed the court that he expected Dr. Crippen and Miss Leneve to arrive in England in about three weeks, after which the proceedings were adjourned until Sept. 12.

Supt. Froest subsequently explained that he had no definite knowledge as to the time of the prisoners' return, but he anticipated that the Canadian authorities would adhere to the usual fordmalities, entailing a delay of a fortnight after the formal committal.

The officials in charge of the case decided to withhold the scientific evidence regarding the nature and identity of the remains found in the cellar of the Crippen home, as well as any discoveries which the investigating department of Scotland Yard may have made until Dr. Crippen and Miss Leneve return and have an opportunity to attend the court if they so desire.

DEL VAL TO BLAME, SPAIN DECLARES

Semi-Official Note Says He Is Entirely Responsible for the Vatican's Policy.

CANALEJAS WELL INFORMED

It Is Stated That the Spanish Government Knows What Is Going On Behind the Scenes in Rome.

MADRID, Aug. 15.—A semi-official note, issued to-day, attributes to Cardinal Merry del Val, the Papal Secretary of State, sole responsibility for the acts of the Vatican in the controversy with Spain.

The note says that the statements issued by Cardinal Merry del Val for the purpose, according to the note, of influencing the press of the world, will make no impression upon the Spanish Government, which is thoroughly informed of what is proceeding behind the scenes at the Vatican.

"The Congregation of Extraordinary Ecclesiastical Affairs," the inspirers of the note state, "was never consulted during the negotiations between Spain and the Vatican, which have been going on for months. Premier Canalejas knows that every decision in the present controversy was taken solely by Cardinal Merry del Val."

ROME, Aug. 15.—There were no developments to-day in the controversy between the Vatican and the Spanish Government. On account of religious festivities all work at the Vatican was suspended, and the Pope gave no audience.

Cardinal Merry del Val remained throughout the day at his Summer residence on Monte Mario, but he was in communication with the Pope for a brief period by telephone in the afternoon. He said that he did not expect to come to Rome until Friday morning, when he will receive the diplomatic representatives. The Pope again expressed confidence in the ultimate success of the Church in the fight for its rights.

Owing to a misunderstanding, it was stated at the time of the abandonment of the proposed clerical demonstration at San Sebastian, the Spanish Summer capital, on Aug. 7, that the Vatican had instructed the Roman Catholics of Spain to prevent the manifestation. The Vatican now wishes it clearly known that this statement was incorrect.

The Holy See maintained a wholly extraneous attitude on the subject, taking no step regarding the movement and doing nothing either to promote or prevent it.

The Vatican issued to-day an official denial of the report that Mgr. Benigni, Under Secretary of State at the Vatican, had left here for Spain to meet a representative of the Spanish Government for confidential communications about a settlement of the controversy.

TO GUARD KING VICTOR.

Extraordinary Precautions on Swiss Border—Anarchists Feared.

MILAN, Aug. 15.—Advices from the towns and villages along the Swiss frontier report extraordinary police measures which have been taken against any attempt by Anarchists against King Victor Emmanuel, whose life, it is said, may be in danger during his journey to Montenegro to assist in the festivities when Prince Nicholas becomes King.

According to the reports, several Anarchists have arrived in Italy from the Argentine Republic, while others are said to have come from Switzerland.

There is a gathering of Anarchists at one of the frontier villages, but the authorities state that this has nothing to do with the alleged plot against the King, this gathering being merely in connection with festivities which have been arranged for the purpose of collecting funds to support a school for the teaching of the principles of Francisco Ferrer.

OSTEND, Aug. 15.—King Alfonso, who has been witnessing the yacht racing at Cowes, paid an unexpected visit yesterday to Ostend, coming on the Spanish royal yacht Giralda. He returned to Cowes last night.

WRIGHT BIPLANE WILL CARRY FIVE

Machine, Built for Cross-Country Riding, Arrives at Asbury Park to Replace Brookins's.

BILLOWING IS OVERCOME

Only Elevating Plane Is Located Behind Rear Rudder—One Passenger to be Carried to Sea Girt.

Special to The New York Times.

AVIATION FIELD, Asbury Park, Aug. 15.—As an indirect result of the fall of Walter Brookins into the crowd of spectators on the opening day of the aviation meet the people of this vicinity will probably see some remarkable flying that was not on the programme in a Wright biplane, which represents a radical departure from the present type of aircraft.

The new Wright machine arrived at the aviation grounds late this afternoon. It was not intended to bring it here, but it was shipped on from Dayton after word had been sent that Brookins's machine was smashed and that a substitute would be necesasry.

In the new craft there is nothing in front of the driver's seat. The front elevating planes are gone, and the two main planes catch the air in initial contact so far as the aeroplane is concerned. The elevating plane—there is only one—is located behind the rear rudder, and thus one of the earliest features of the aeroplane passes out of existence in this new type.

The new aeroplane is the first American effort to build a cross-country, far-journeying car. It will carry four passengers besides the driver, and a five-person flight is promised as one of its first performances. In addition to that, with Orville Wright at the steering levers, it will go jaunting across country over to Sea Girt and return. A passenger will be carried on this trip, and it is promised that his flight will be as steady as if he were in a Pullman car.

The new air craft completely overcomes the billowing motion that was conspicuous on Wilbur Wright's first flights on the Eastern seaboard, but it sacrifices the ready mobility needed in an exhibition machine for regular meets. For that reason it is not intended to eliminate completely the small planes in front of the main ones, but to begin a work of differentiation in which aeroplanes for particular purposes will be built along special lines.

Wilbur Wright's first experimentation toward the production of his new type was made shortly after he made his trip up the Hudson River from Governors Island to Grant's Tomb and return. On that occasion he billowed his way along as if he were fighting a rolling sea of air, and when he next established himself as teacher of the Government aviators at College Park he began a process of correction for the difficulty.

He found that two elevating planes in front were not needed, and that one of them would work practically in the rear. That eliminated much of the rolling and pitching motion, and his later flights at College Park were made with this deviation from his original type.

Just when he decided that an aeroplane would be safe aloft with no "neck feathers" whatever in front of its main planes is not known. No announcements had been made indicating that the new machine being shipped would differ in any way from the standard type familiar to all who have seen the Wrights in the air.

When the new craft arrived the change in design was evident, and at the headquarters of the local committee announcement was made of the five-person flight, to last ten minutes, within the aviation grounds, and the Sea Girt excursion. The craft was being built, it was learned, for competition in the various intercity flights being arranged for, and was sent to Asbury Park because it happened to be assembled when the call came for an extra machine.

William J. Hammer, who had charge of the Hudson-Fulton flights last year, said he understood that the present stock-type of the Wright aeroplane was fully perfected by the Wrights five years ago, and the present machines built, except as to their final assembling. "The Wrights have learned a lot about the air and methods of conquering it," said Mr. Hammer, "since the time when their inventions ceased to express themselves in the manufactured product. They have been busy these five years teaching the American and French Government purchasers the use of their planes, and in their patent litigation. They are just beginning to turn again to further laboratory work, and the machine of a year from now will be mighty different from anything the public has become accustomed to."

The business men who joined together to get the name of Asbury Park in the newspapers through an aerial show, meant to rival that held at Atlantic City, have become hopeless converts to aerial exercises. They held a meeting to-day at which it was decided to buy more land adjoining the present aviation grounds, circle the enlarged field with an automobile track, park the interior for polo, and hold another big aviation meet upon it in a year from now. They approached the Wrights at once, and obtained their consent to participate in the 1911 meet.

Joining in the movement to give Asbury Park a permanent aviation grounds are S. F. Hazelrigg, President of the Atlantic City Electric Railroad; Col. George Harvey, who has a country place near by; George W. Young, the New York banker, who has just ordered an aeroplane; Charles L. Despard, Milan Ross, Vice President W. C. Besler of the Jersey Central Railroad, and about 350 business men of Asbury Park.

To-morrow on the aviation grounds will be "Scientists' Day," with Thomas A. Edison as the guest of honor, and a programme intended to demonstrate the practicability of the aeroplane for the purposes of war.

Walter A. Brookins, who has been confined since his fall last Wednesday to the home of Mrs. Abercrombie Fell at Bay Head, visited the grounds this afternoon. His face and nose were still badly swollen from his fall, and he said that five of his teeth had been broken, making it difficult for him to eat. He hopes to take an aeroplane up before the end of the week.

MARS DIVES 200 FEET.

Daring Aviator Makes Sensational Flight at Sheepshead Bay.

Circling three times around the field at the Sheepshead Bay race track, which is to be the scene of the aviation meet Friday, Saturday, and Sunday, J. C. (Bud) Mars yesterday startled the spectators present when he made a headlong dive with his machine from a height of 200 feet.

Mars assembled his machine on Sunday and immediately began a series of practice flights in preparation for the meet. He is using an eight-cylinder, sixty-horse power machine, much larger than the one he has been flying, and the practice flights are necessary so that he can get the "feel" of his new machine before entering into competitions during the meet.

The aeroplane was wheeled out on the field late yesterday afternoon, and in a few minutes Mars was mounting high in the air, and as he passed the grand stand it could be seen that he was climbing rapidly, although two sudden gusts of wind made the aeroplane wobble dangerously. At a height of 200 feet the aviator made the circuit of the field three times, banking his machine at a steep angle on the last turn, and then, throttling his engine, he plunged toward the ground.

When about ten feet above the wet grass the engine was accelerated to full speed, and the machine assumed an even keel, skimming along over the ground 600 feet before a landing was made.

The machine was turned around, and Mars made another flight, this time not rising more than 100 feet. At the turns he banked until it seemed the machine was tipping over, and then made another sensational dip. When it seemed that he was about to strike one of the hurdles in the infield he started his engine and righted the plane, hurdling the obstruction and landing on the other side. He declared that his engine was not tuned up perfectly, and that he would not attempt any more flights until to-day.

Among those who saw the flight was Eugene Ely, the California aviator, who has brought his machine to New York to enter the meet. Ely's machine was delivered on the grounds while Mars was flying, and after the flights work was immediately begun to assemble the machine and get it in readiness for practice work. Ely expects to have his biplane ready to join Mars in flights this afternoon.

Augustus Post, who recently made arrangements for getting a Curtiss aeroplane and who has decided to enter the meet, is assembling his machine in the old betting ring, and may also be ready for flights to-day. The three aviators hope to have an impromptu series of contests up to the time when the meet opens on Friday. The aeroplane of J. A. D. McCurdy, formerly a pupil of Dr. Alexander Graham Bell, is expected to arrive at the grounds to-day.

Announcement is made by the managers that one of the features of the meet will be a number of passenger flights with women as the passengers. Mr. Curtiss, who is sponsor for the event, has received a number of applications from persons who wish him to take them aloft. While it is impossible to comply with the wishes of all these, he has decided that he will take up some of the women who wish an air ride during the meet. Mars and Willard will also make flights with passengers in their big machines.

Among the events for which prizes will be announced is an attempt to bring the height record back to this country. The present world's record, 5,725 feet, was made by an American, J. Armstrong Biddle, but it is pointed out that this is not an American record, as the flight was made in England in a French built machine. Both Curtiss and Willard will enter the contest for height.

The sale of boxes will be opened to-day. In the horse-racing days these desirable seats were held by a number of families well known socially. Now that the old betting ring has been transformed into a hangar for aeroplanes it will be interesting to note to what extent these same families devote themselves to the newest sport.

LE BLANC STILL AHEAD.

He and Two Others Cover the Fifth Lap of the Big Air Race.

AMIENS, Aug. 15.—Favored by magnificent weather, the competitors in the great cross-country aeroplane race of 488 miles arrived here to-day, completing the fifth lap of 49 6-100 miles from Doual without incident.

Le Blanc and Aubrun, who alone remain in the contest for the $25,000 prize, were accompanied by Legagneux.

Le Blanc increased his lead in the contest, covering the distance in 1 hour 14 minutes 29 seconds, Legagneux taking 1 hour 23 minutes 51 seconds, and Aubrun 1 hour 24 minutes and 12 seconds. Le Blanc's total time for the five laps thus far completed is 10 hours 16 minutes and 49 seconds, and Aubrun, 11 hours 26 minutes and 57 seconds.

RECORD FOR GRAHAME-WHITE

He Rises from the Ground in a Space of 20 Feet 9 Inches.

BLACKPOOL, England, Aug. 15.—C. Grahame-White, the English aviator, today broke the world's record for starting in an aeroplane.

He succeeded in rising from the ground in a space of 20 feet 9 inches.

Lieut. L. B. Foulois last March, on the drill grounds at Fort Sam Houston, established a world's starting record, getting his aeroplane off in 65 feet. The previous record was held by Glenn H. Curtiss, who placed the mark at 90 feet at the Brescia meeting.

ADELE RITCHIE WINS CASE.

Merely Excited When Policeman Arrested Mrs. Peirce, Says the Court.

The case against Adele Ritchie, the actress, accused of interfering with a policeman when Mrs. Tom Peirce was arrested on the night of Aug. 1 for driving a runabout without a light, was dismissed by Justice of the Peace Peter Ceder in North Pelham yesterday when a jury, which had been out an hour and a half, failed to agree.

The case drew a large and fashionable audience. Miss Ritchie was named in the indictment as Jane Ritchie. Policeman John Lally accused her of using profane language and attempting to assault him. Judge Samuel F. Swinburne of New Rochelle appeared for the actress and Lawyer Henry L. Rupert represented the village of Pelham Manor.

"I had appeared at two performances at Hammerstein's," testified Miss Ritchie, "and I was tired and nervous when I arrived in Pelham on a midnight train. Mrs. Peirce was to have met me, but she wasn't there, and while I was waiting for her I heard cries for help. Thinking my friend was being robbed by bandits I left my dog with the station master and rushed down the road.

"I saw the runabout upset, and Mrs. Peirce exclaimed that she had been held up. This policeman had arrested her. I used no profane language. All I said was, 'This is the damndest law I ever heard of.' You, gentlemen, would have said the same thing under the circumstances."

"I think everybody must have been excited, including the policeman," said Judge Ceder in delivering his charge. "You cannot convict Miss Ritchie of using profane language because it isn't charged in the indictment. If this case had been left to me I would have dismissed it long ago."

SURRENDERS SON AS SLAYER

Father Takes to Headquarters Boy Who Shot Friend in Trenton.

Twelve-year-old William Russo of 224 West Eighteenth Street, who shot and killed sixteen-year-old Alfred Bonfield, his chum, near Trenton late last night, was surrendered yesterday at Police Headquarters, this city, by his father, and turned over to the Children's Society.

The boy admitted the shooting, which he declared was an accident. He said he was visiting his uncle who conducts a rifle range in a park at Trenton, and while frolicking with Bonfield he pressed a gun to the boy's temple and pulled the trigger.

Russo fled from the park, and said he walked twelve miles to Princeton, rode on a buggy to New Brunswick, and then on the rear of an automobile to Jersey City. He reached Manhattan, and when he reached home told his father what had happened.

Women Fall Into Cellar; One Dies.

Mrs. Ellen Brown, 68 years old, wife of Benjamin Brown, a resident of Stapleton, S. I., and Mrs. Margaret Algiers were in the barn on the Brown place yesterday when a section of the flooring gave way and the women were thrown into the cellar. Mrs. Algiers caught a beam and called for help. Frank Wessel, a butcher, passing the house, heard her cries and saved her. He also got Mrs. Brown out, but the elderly woman succumbed to shock. Mrs. Brown had been a sufferer from rheumatism for years, and Mrs. Algiers was nursing her.

TARIFF AND TRUSTS MAKE HIGH PRICES

So Say Democratic Members of Senate High Prices Committee in Minority Report.

ATTACK WAGES ARGUMENT

Cite England to Show Free Trade Does Not Lower Them—Insist Tariff Enables Trusts to Live.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—The tariffs, trusts, combines, and monopolies and an increased money supply are the three substantial causes for the advance in prices in the United States, according to Senators Johnston of Alabama, Clarke of Arkansas, and Smith of South Carolina, minority members of the select Senate Committee appointed during the last session of Congress to investigate and make a report on wages and the prices of commodities. Vigorous attack is made in the minority members' report on almost all the reasons given by the majority in its report, submitted some time ago, for the cause of the advance in prices.

"We are without sufficient data," say the minority members in their report just completed, "to apportion the degree of responsibility between these three causes, but that the two first are the chief malefactors we have no doubt, and they are of our own creation or permission."

After attacking, one at a time, the fifteen principal causes contributing, according to the majority report, to the high cost of living, the minority take up the tariff, declaring that when the Payne-Aldrich bill was framed "champagne was put on the schedules at from 54 to 66 per cent., while wearing apparel was taxed from 80 to 92 per cent.—drinking champagne was to be encouraged and wearing woolen clothes discouraged. So with hats," they add, "those bringing not over $4.50 per dozen were taxed 77 per cent., and those valued at more than $18 per dozen 47 per cent."

The result of protection, they declare, is "great fortunes for the few and great suffering for the many."

"We believe," they say, "that the amount of the tariff is added to the price and taxed to the consumer; that but for the tariff the commodities we buy upon which tax is laid would be cheaper, approximately to the extent of the tariff; and that when we do not buy the imported article the protected manufacturer puts approximately the amount of it on the goods produced by him.

Tariff and Prices.

"It is difficult to understand how any one can favor high rates of duty if he does not honestly believe that it will increase the prices to be realized by the manufacturers producing the article affected, by diminishing or destroying competition, and thus necessarily increasing the cost to the consumer.

Taking up the subject of trusts, combinations, and monopolies, they declare that "there are few trusts that could survive a revenue tariff. They flourish only under the shadow of high protective walls. Standing behind these walls that shut off foreign competition and destry domestic competition by consolidations and absorptions, they are limited only to selling at a fraction less than the foreign price plus the protective duty. That they reduce cost of production seems certain, but it is in rare cases that the public or the laborers employed by them participate in the enlarged profit. So enormous have been their profits that we find organizations springing up all over the country, like the Elgin Board of Trade, the wholesale grocers, lumber dealers—associations that have contributed largely to the advance in prices and the frauds perpetrated by manufacturers of certain goods in reducing the weight of contents of packages from 20 to 50 per cent. and maintaining the same prices."

"The methods of the Meat Trust," they declared, "seem to be admirably adapted to taking from the consumer and the producer the largest amount that the traffic will bear. Their destruction of local competitors cannot be improved upon."

As to wages, they say that "the fear that wages would fall if the tariff were removed, and the all in prices would not be a clear gain to the consumer, is not warranted by the experience of Great Britain. Great Britain is a free-trade nation, and it is the most prosperous nation in the world except our own. Shoals of emigrants from the tariff-ridden nations of France, Germany, Italy, and Russia go to England to work. But Englishmen do not emigrate to those countries because the standard of living is lower. The general testimony is that the rate of wages for all mechanical trades is substantially higher in Great Britain than in those protectionist countries, while the prices of necessites are lower, leaving the Englishman a wider margin to live upon.

"It is about sixty years since Great Britain adopted free trade, and during that time, according to a table published in Whitaker's Almanac, wages have increased 81.7 per cent. and prices only 3 per cent. It is, therefore, well seen that the abolition of the tariff in England did not bring down the rate of wages. Neither would it in this country. If we remove the obstruction, allowing prices to sink to their natural level, the question of wages may be trusted to take care of itself."

Replying to the majority's statement, in its report, that an "increased demand for farm products" is a cause of advancing prices, the minority cite the wheat crop as having increased from less than seven bushels per capita in 1900, to more than eight in 1909; corn from twenty-seven to thirty bushels per capita, and potatoes from almost three to more than four bushels. Notwithstanding the increase in the price of farm products, the farmer, they say, "has realized a small net return on his labor and investment by reason of the increased cost of the articles necessary for him to purchase to carry on his business."

DROWNS IN HARLEM MERE.

Young Jacob Moses Tumbles Off Rock While Fishing.

Jacob Moses, 11 years old, of 208 East 109th Street tumbled into the Harlem mere of Central Park, which runs from 102d and 110th Street, on the east side, yesterday and was drowned. Twenty minutes later Edward Brunsley and Frank Hulbert, boatmen, drew his body ashore with grappling irons.

Twelve-year-old Bennie Leinow of 60 East 112th Street was the only witness to the drowning of the youngster. He said while he was fishing on the west bank of the lake, just north of Fort Clinton, he saw the other lad slide down a twelve-foot sloping bank and toss a line into the water. Soon the boy began to tug on his line, and suddenly he tumbled off a rock into the lake.

The Leinow boy said he summoned the boatmen, and pointed out the spot where the lad had disappeared. They put out in a boat and began to drag the bottom of the lake. When they recovered the body it was covered with mud.

The boy's fishing outfit consisted of a bit of string tied to a stick, and with the hook baited with dough.

The body was identified by the boy's father, Samuel Moses, who went to the East 104th Street Station to ask the police to look for his son, who was missing.

"For the Public Service"
Railroad Returns to the Public compared to Railroad Returns to the Stockholder
¶ The first train on what is now the New York Central Lines—and one of the first to run in America—was operated in 1831 from Albany to Schenectady—17 miles.
¶ Today sixty-seven passenger trains and hundreds of freight trains between New York, Boston and Montreal on the east, and Chicago, St. Louis and Cincinnati on the west, serve the public daily over this same bit of road, with proportionately good service over all its 13,000 miles of railway.
¶ In 1831 the equipment consisted of the primitive De Witt Clinton engine and three crude carriages operated over cruder rails and roadbed by two men and a boy.
¶ To serve its public to-day, the New York Central Lines pay $95,000,000 annually to 135,211 employees, while $75,000,000 more is expended for supplies necessary to maintain a service using 5,500 monster locomotives and 210,118 passenger and freight cars.
¶ Our employees are paid higher wages than ever before—we pay tens of millions of dollars annually for railroad supplies, the prices of which have greatly advanced—and there is probably not a single family in the United States that does not profit by the enormous distribution of money annually made by the New York Central Lines for these purposes.
¶ Yet our 200,000 stockholders and bondholders—men, women and children, whose cost of living has increased as well as yours—are receiving but little more than savings bank rate on their investment.
¶ Nor will the present margin of return provide for extension of facilities without which the New York Central Lines and the public will suffer together.

Time of game—One hour and thirty-three minutes. Umpires—Messrs. Rigler and Emslie.

The Pirates beat New York, with Matty in the box, in a ripping, tearing, eleven-inning tilt at the Polo Grounds yesterday by a score of 2 to 1, and the Giants came back in the second game and reversed the decision by the same score. It was a big crowd for Monday, 15,000 watching the double-header and never failing to get excited when there was half a chance. It was a rough day on the umpires, for Rigler and Emslie had a lot of close decisions to make, and most of the time their judgment didn't conform to that of the spectators.

McGraw was put out of the game, which isn't remarkable, for he called Rigler a "bonehead." Meyers, the Indian catcher, was also chased for throwing the ball perilously close to Rigler's toes. Larry Doyle, Bridwell, and about all the other Giants did more howling than usual, but Rigler couldn't chase the whole team. The first bit of warfare broke out in the sixth inning of the first game, when Doyle was called out stealing second. Lawrence claimed that Emslie bumped into him and impeded his wild progress toward the bag. Emslie didn't bump into anybody, he said. McGraw appealed to Chief Umpire Rigler, but he wasn't reversing any decision; that sort of thing is all right for the Supreme Court, but for a plain ordinary ump, nix. So McGraw protested the game. In the eleventh inning of the same game Meyers was sure he tagged Tommy Leach at the plate, but Rigler said he was safe. Meyers threw the ball on the ground in Indian wrath, and he was exiled.

A few newspapers were thrown Rigler's way, but those that hit him didn't hurt. After the game a dozen cops quickly gathered Rigler to their protecting wing, and as far as could be learned no laws were broken and no crimes committed. There were lots of threats and talk, but they never made a bruise on any umpire.

The first game was a nip-and-tuck battle, with Mathewson and Leifield both pitching great ball. The hitting was light all the way until the final round, when a few hard smashes broke up the matinée. The way to Pittsburg's victory was opened up by Bridwell in the eleventh when he made a bad throw to Merkle after getting Byrne's grounder. Leach singled to left field, and Fred Clarke drove the two runs in with a two-base smash to left.

Southpaw Wiltse was at the top of his form in the second game. Camnitz was pitted against him, and the Pirate had a bad first inning and then settled. Josh Devore opened up the game in a drizzling rain with a cracking three-bagger between left and centre fields. Doyle hit a grounder at Wagner, and the Teuton threw home to head off Devore, but Gibson dropped the ball. Snodgrass fouled to Gibson, and Murray's single to left sent Doyle to third. He scored on Bridwell's sacrifice fly. Miller threw Devlin out at first.

The Pirates made a bold attempt in the second inning to even up matters. Wagner started out with a two-bagger to left. Miller's single to right scored him. Flynn grounded to Wiltse, who threw to second to force Miller. The throw was high and everybody was safe. Wilson sacrificed, and Gibson hit a fly to short right and didn't give Miller a chance to score. Merkle got Camnitz's fly for the third out.

Even Break for Brooklyn.

Brooklyn and Chicago split two one-sided games yesterday. The visitors shut out the locals, 14 to 0, in the first, batting both Barger and Miller hard. Brooklyn turned the tables in the second contest, winning by 9 to 1. Richie was knocked out of the box and Pfeffer was pounded for six hits in the eighth. Bell allowed only three hits. The scores:

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 15.—The White Sox evened up the series with the Yankees to-day, taking the fourth game, 3 to 2. Scott had more to do with the downfall of the Yankees than any one else. Not only did he pitch prettily, but also drove in two-thirds of his side's runs. The New York total of hits was two. Both of them came in the seventh inning, and one of them ought not to have come at all. Scott made the mistake of throwing a ball to third base when he should have thrown it somewhere else. As a result Austin got a single which he should not have had a chance to get, and the visitors escaped the ignominy of a shutout.

After the local players had torn things loose in their part of the seventh and grabbed the lead once more, it looked safe, but only for one round. Capt. Zeider's low throw put him in a bad fix in the New York ninth, and it took something to avoid a tie score. Frank Laporte profited by Zeider's error to the extent of two bases. It was up to Knight to sacrifice, as there was no one out, but the best Jack could do was to pop a bunt fly, which Scott took out of the air near the first base line. This bit of good fortune was offset by a passed ball, on which Laporte raced to third. Tannehill stretched to his full length and grasped Roach's under. Laporte had started for home on it and he was run down after a long chase. Roach reached second on the play and everything was up to Austin. What Jimmy hit sounded good when it left the bat, but it soared high into the air and reposed in the mitts of Zwilling.

The seven hits made by the White Sox off Warhop were solid, and five of them were for extra bases. Collins, Dougherty, and McConnell came across with triples, and the two doubles were credited to Tannehill and Zwilling. Both of these two-base hits went as such, because of loose outfielding. Warhop deceived the locals fairly well, until Collins started something with his long three-base smash in the fifth.

Browns Beat the Red Sox.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 15.—St. Louis, with Lake pitching, defeated Boston, 2 to 1, in the fourth game of the series to-day. Cicotte was hit hard in the early innings, and Karger succeeded him in the eighth. The score:

Johnson Effective Against Tigers.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—Walter Johnson was effective to-day with men on bases, and Washington, as a result, defeated Detroit, 6 to 4. Works was taken from the box in the fifth inning after passing three batsmen, and Loudell was little better. Stroud pitched the last three innings in good style. The score:

Athletics Take Two from Naps.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 15.—Philadelphia took both games from Cleveland to-day, 5 to 2 and 7 to 3. Cleveland had Philadelphia beaten in the first game until the eighth inning, when Young's wild throws allowed the Athletics to tie the score. Both Bemis and Turner retired because of injuries in this game. In the second Demott, a Lafayette College pitcher, received his first trial, being hit hard, but reckless base running held down the score. The scores:

CONSERVATION AS A NATIONAL POLITICAL ISSUE.

It may be doubted whether anybody is opposed to conservation in theory, but it is also to be doubted whether it is possible to produce a like unanimity upon it in practice. It is a sectional issue in essence, and fails to produce unanimity either against it or in favor of it. There are ardent conservationists in the East, where the subject is not a burning one, generally speaking, and there are anti-conservationists in the West, where the subject is of vital interest if anywhere. An even greater objection to the topic as a National issue is that it runs athwart partisan as well as sectional lines. It is more an economic than a political issue, and the cry in favor of taking the tariff out of politics is equally against putting conservation into politics. It is a counsel of perfection, which ought to be addressed to every man in every party, and which it is impossible to put in issue between parties, because none will oppose it except in some fantastic form which conservationists are justified in repudiating as a fraud on their copyright.

For example, the purest form of conservation is increasing the productivity of the soil, either by raising more grain or more trees to the acre. But in this form of conservation there is almost no interest. It is too evidently the business of those who raise grain or trees. Government or railways may stimulate or direct this movement, but who is going to oppose it? It is only when conservation takes on form involving contentious topics that it becomes interesting to those whose interest is not unselfish or even meritorious. The appeal of conservation to too many lies in the fact that it promises division of something out of the public property for individual advantage. We are all promised something which otherwise—it is alleged—will be exploited by a few monopolists. But if everything which the Nation possesses were apportioned in shares to each of our population the subject of conservation, so far as it is worthy, would remain as open as before the division were made.

In this form of pure conservation there is no more, deeper, or general interest than in a tariff made upon scientific principles, and divested of special privileges. Thus just in proportion as conservation is divested of those general considerations which properly should commend it to a pure public spirit it loses attraction to those who condemn selfish politics for others, but are willing to practice the same sort of politics for themselves. Doubtless those who are in charge of the ark of conservation would honestly deny this for themselves, but they could not deny it for their followers.

A HOTTER SUBWAY.

Most folks thought the Subway couldn't be made hotter, but they are fortunately mistaken. We say fortunately advisedly, as will appear further. Just here it is to be noted that next Summer, according to Supt. HEDLEY'S statement, by reason of the operation of the new ten-car trains "the amount of heat turned loose in the Subway will be 40 per cent. greater than it is now." At present only 30,000 horse power of electrical energy daily goes to waste in the tunnel in the form of heat, but next Summer we will all know what 42,000 horse power can do. If the temperature of the street above should now be ninety degrees, and ten degrees higher where the straphangers gasp down below, and mop their foreheads between the jerks and the crowdings, how much nearer like the atmosphere of Calcutta's Black Hole will it be a year hence? But we forbear.

Mr. HEDLEY is equipping the ceilings of some of the Subway cars with revolving fans. While they are whirling "it isn't really any cooler," he explains, but they give the Subway riders the illusion of coolness, on which their comfort next Summer is to rely. They know, of course, that the city is to blame, not the company, for not constructing the Subway so that each train could be sent through a close-fitting tube, sucking in fresh air by its passage. Since it is now impracticable to build partitions between the tracks, the passengers must content themselves with the fans. Each car will have the prime advantage of the hotroom in a Turkish bath, and passengers will be fanned dry as they move from the torrid centre to the exits. Provision is already made at intervals for openings through gratings in the Subway roof, whence vapors of steam and sulphur may arise.

THREATENING LETTERS.

It would be for the good of the community if one of the brainless scamps who have been sending threatening letters to various public officers since GALLAGHER shot Mayor GAYNOR could be caught and severely punished. We do not doubt that the police and the agents of the Post Office Department will work briskly on any clues they may have as to the identity of the writers of these letters. We do not think that the lives of any of the threatened officers are in danger. The malice of the authors of such letters is generally exerted only in writing them. An anonymous letter writer is the meanest kind of coward.

The United States postal laws provide for the punishment of the writer of a threatening letter by a fine of $5,000 or imprisonment for five years, or both. Probably none of the writers of threatening letters recently received by a public officer could pay a large fine. But imprisonment at hard labor for five years would be a suitable punishment for any one of them.

GOV. PATTERSON.

Gov. PATTERSON of Tennessee, whom the Judges that affirmed the conviction of DUNCAN COOPER met and defeated in the election of Aug. 4 on the issues of his overruling their decision by the pardoning of Senator CARMACK'S murderer, of his attempt to coerce the court, and of his record of pardoning fifty murderers yearly for a term of years, offers to let the Democratic voters reconsider their choice of him as candidate for a third term in the Governorship.

The fact that some 50,000 "Carmack Democrats" voted with the Republicans of Tennessee to re-elect the independent Judges forces from PATTERSON this seeming concession. He admits that "if the majority of the Democrats are opposed to me, as it is claimed, I should not represent them as their candidate for Governor." His condition for submitting his name afresh to a primary of both factions is that the successful nominee "shall be supported in the November election by all who participate in the primary." This, he thinks, should be arranged in the interest of harmony, and in resentment of the "pernicious intermeddling of a Republican President."

The Republicans of Tennessee helped the Democrats win their fight for the Judges. They now request the aid of the Democrats to "down" PATTERSON by the election of a Republican Governor. Their request seems well justified, since this is the only direct way to PATTERSON'S overthrow. Gov. PATTERSON was not a very good vote-getter in either of his previous campaigns. Since 1892 the usual Democratic majority in Tennessee has been between 25,000 and 30,000; PATTERSON'S majorities in 1906 and 1908, respectively, were 18,867 and 19,933, which his 50,000 Democratic enemies could this Fall easily reverse. They will have no compromise with him. If he really wishes Democratic harmony he will resign at once, and unconditionally, in favor of some other candidate.

THE SEYDEL CASE.

The document signed by neighbors in West Park of LOUIS VICTOR SEYDEL, who shot CLEMENT DEMARON and is now in durance and awaiting the action of the Grand Jury, which was published in yesterday's TIMES, is, we believe, without precedent. These neighbors, thirteen in number, usurp the authority of Grand Jury, Judge, and trial jury, and condemn SEYDEL unheard. The animus of the pronouncement is difficult to understand. DEMARON'S slayer is under the ban of the law. There is surely no need, in this case, of a public protest against the sacrifice of a human life.

If Mr. SEYDEL can convince a jury that he killed DEMARON in self-defense he will doubtless be acquitted, but not until he has suffered for his act. The signers of the condemnatory document evidently believe that the killing was unjustifiable. Their opinion of DEMARON as a man and a neighbor is not, in the circumstances, important, and the expression of it is untimely. We are inclined to think that the document will help rather than hurt SEYDEL. He took the law in his own hands, it seems. What have his neighbors done?

THE NEW LABOR PARTY.

The Federated Labor Party of New York City is by no means so limited in its field as its name would imply. It "demands" postal savings banks, a Federal law regarding the use of injunctions, abolition of the Electoral College in the election of Presidents of the United States, and other topics which can hardly be promoted appreciably by any municipal party. There does not seem to be any particular fitness in such a platform, but this is a free country, and any party can make a platform to suit itself. To be sure, it may be doubted whether those topics will be promoted in public opinion by their new championship, but that is matter of opinion. We can think of only one popular topic which will be distinctly disadvantaged by re-enforcement by the Federated Labor Party of the City of New York, and that is the municipal ownership party.

For municipal ownership in principle there is much to be said, whether or not it be regarded as convincing. But for municipal ownership for what there is in it for those who support it there is nothing to be said on any grounds of public policy. The candor of the new labor party calls for the highest praise. Its members are not for municipal ownership because it is good for New York, but because it is good for them. They say so plainly. This workingmen's organization will never be heard complaining that the new subways are too costly. The construction money will be disbursed among the represented trades, and there cannot be too much of it spent. They are for the eight-hour law, the prevailing rate of wages law, and any other law which does anything for laboring men. They specify that they demand the enforcement of all labor laws, and any other laws are of no particular interest to them.

The Federated Labor Party of New York City is far from being the first party to be for the old flag and an appropriation. There is nothing to be said against the new party which is not applicable to all such organizations to profit by the public purse. It is contrary to the principles and the practice of American labor to intervene in politics, and such adventures have not been marked by success hitherto. That, however, is a matter more for the promoters of the new party than for their critics. If they find their National colleagues lukewarm, that is their affair. And if they find that their rivalry to other parties creates opposition for them—as has been the experience hitherto—that again is their own business. But the municipal ownership party has good cause for complaint that each such recruit for it is as good as two recruits against it. Municipal ownership on this basis acquires new terrors.

THE FIRE AT BRUSSELS.

To the "boomers" of a World's Fair in New York City in 1913 the burning of the International Exhibition at Brussels, at a loss in money now estimated at $20,000,000, has its peculiar lesson. To be sure, many of the works of art, which are of priceless value to the human race, were saved. But they were all imperilled.

Can a nation or a city do anything more foolish than to dump all the precious things of its life and of the life of other nations into an inflammable Coney Island or Midway Plaisance? The multitudes upon whom such exhibitions depend for their gate receipts are not, of course, the art lovers, the students of science and of human progress, who can with little expense of travel find the things that interest them in their proper and native settings. They are rather people who demand the amusement of impressive sights, at whatever expense of danger. Of course, an assemblage of fireproof buildings for a World's Fair would be too costly to be thinkable.

Why ever hold a World's Fair anywhere? In Belgium such exhibitions have reached their perfection, if anywhere, through long experience in planning and management, and this one conflagration proves their utter folly. The great cities of the world, with all that they contain of rich and safeguarded display, are the world's true and permanent fairs.

THE ANGEL OF THE CRIMEA.

Many years have passed since the name of FLORENCE NIGHTINGALE was on everybody's lips the world over. In the era of the Crimean war she was the most popular woman, perhaps the most popular personage, in Europe. The value of her services as a nurse in the army hospitals could not be overestimated. The profession of nursing was initiated by her. The modern trained nurse owes her origin to FLORENCE NIGHTINGALE. She gave her services to her country and to humanity without charge. She trained and inspired her coadjutors. She seems to have come into the world with an express mission to relieve the sorrows and sufferings of mankind. From almost her earliest childhood she showed capacity as a nurse and a calling to help the sick and injured.

For many years she superintended the first nurses' training school at St. Thomas's Hospital, London. Her advice was asked for and received in this country at the outbreak of the civil war. She was the inspirer of the Sanitary Commission and the founding at Geneva of the Red Cross was directly due to her influence. Her work was not unrewarded. Her fame was great, her reward from the people and from royalties was commensurate. After years of retirement she emerged into public view in 1907, when, in commemoration of the eighty-seventh anniversary of her birth, she received from King EDWARD VII. the Order of Merit.

Few lives have been more useful or more inspiring than hers. Equally true is it that few of the world's self-sacrificing philanthropists have had greater encouragement and recognition while they lived. Her long life was a happy one, full of benevolent endeavor, but equally full of honors.

DOES PROHIBITION PROHIBIT?

The publication of the internal revenue receipts for the fiscal year just ended tempts us again to inquire what effect, if any, the widespread Prohibition movement of recent years has had upon the actual drinking habits of the people. According to the United States Statistical Abstract the per capita consumption of distilled spirits in 1897 was 1.02 gallons, of malt liquors 14.94 gallons, with wines making a total of 16.50 gallons for each man, woman, and child of the whole population; in 1909 the per capita consumption of malt liquors had risen to 19.79 gallons, of distilled spirits to 1.37 gallons, and these, with wines, 21.85 gallons. The maximum per capita consumption was in 1907 23.54 gallons. The internal revenue from fermented liquors rose from $32,472,162 in 1897 to $57,456,411 in 1909, and to $60,572,000 in 1910. The revenue from spirits showed a growth in like ratio from $82,008,543 in 1897 to $134,868,034 in 1909, and to $148,000,000 in 1910.

The per capita consumption of malt and spirituous liquors during 1910 has not yet been estimated. But the internal revenue receipts hold forth slight hope that prohibition has accomplished more than to stimulate the thirst of the new Prohibition States.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A Grim Sample from Real Life.

Life is sardonically sampled in the story printed yesterday morning, which relates what came of the cooling of the love of Miss IDA MERTENS of Yonkers for EDWARD SIMPSON of Brooklyn, a young man who did a snug business in wire frames for funeral wreaths. The story, as the newspapers tell it, is the old story, but with twists so grim and fantastical that they might have been invented by STEVENSON himself in his Arabian Nights mood. Beloved no longer, business palled upon EDWARD SIMPSON. He sold his corner in funeral wire frames for a pitiful $600—though it was worth $3,000, he said—and set out, like the Young Man with the Cream Tarts, to blow it—and then end an empty and tasteless existence.

However, he would not blow it aimlessly. He would buy with it as many hours as might be in the company of the girl who confessed she had ceased to love him. He would share with her all the harmless Summer joys the sum would cover. Whether he told Miss MERTENS his plan does not appear, but the mad programme seems to have been carried out—up to a certain point. Together they visited the Summer shows, the beaches, the roof gardens, which are the chosen delights of young city folk of mating age. Maybe the girl said each time "This is the last"—but there were always more until the good-bye time upon the lawn when EDWARD SIMPSON, as a preliminary to putting an end to himself, drew a foolish pistol and shot the girl twice, shot her cruelly, perhaps fatally.

Then he put his weapon to his own head, found out that he was a coward, and fled into the night with the ghostly footsteps of his fears trampling after him like an army of avengers; fled till the green lights of a police station seemed to offer a safe harbor, entered among the men in blue and told what he had done to the woman lying bleeding upon the lawn. "I am a coward," he said, "I don't care what you do with me."

Horses as Pets Omen of a New Era.

What ignominy is likely to overtake that noble animal the horse as the motor car and the flying machine capture the field of locomotion not already held by the steam-train and the vulgar trolley seems—Uhlan's new trotting record notwithstanding—tragically foreshadowed in a Cincinnati dispatch of Saturday to THE TIMES, setting forth that the eccentric EDWARD FLYNN keeps a string of four horses purely as "pets." The beast which has been the chosen ally of man almost from the beginning—which helped him to rise from the level of the semi-apes that ranged, which has done so much to make the gentleman that it lends its name to cavalier and caballero, and has dubbed the knight of the Fatherland ritter—is degraded to the station of the harmless unnecessary cat, the superfluous poll-parrot, the fat parlor spaniel, the canary, caged and vocal. The tall comrade upon whose back the mail-clad warrior seemed but a little lower than the angels, whose strong shoulders have tamed the reluctant soil, whose faithful jog trot as he drew the carrier's cart has trodden smooth the empire-builder's path, whose ringing hoof beats with the coach-and-six have kept time to the tune of fashion for centuries—this sharer of man's toil and glory stands stall-bound and eats out of the hand of a master who scorns his service of strength and fleetness.

EDWARD FLYNN, 76 years old, and a hermit, appears (after the queer fashion of hermits) to be somewhat unwisely ahead of his time, but his egregious folly may none the less be taken as ominous. To be sure, one may still ride upon the horse-car in New York City. To be sure, the broad-backed percheron and clydesdale may still be seen straining at the traces of the brewer's wagon and the English trotter furnishes exercise for the well-fed broker in the Park. To be sure, stray hansoms with patient hacks in the shafts still linger on certain corners waiting for fares, and sleek pampered bays still prance along the avenue ahead of the victorias of the leisured and prosperous. And Uhlan makes a world's trotting record.

Punishing Assaults on Officials.

Many prominent and usually reasonable citizens are now advocating the death penalty for "the mere assault on the President of the United States or any one in line of succession for the Presidency." Ex-Coroner HARBURGER wants to introduce a bill in the next Legislature "making an attempt on the life of a public official punishable with death or life imprisonment, and barring the defense of insanity." Such proposals, though they evince commendable interest in behalf of men in Mayor GAYNOR'S situation, do little credit to the judgment of their authors.

In the first place, the very few murderous assaults on men in public life show that the ordinary penalties of the criminal law are extraordinarily deterrent in such cases. The assailant knows that his capture is certain, that public condemnation will be instant and effective in assuring a speedy trial, the result of which, if his attempt is successful—and he means that it shall be successful—will be his conviction and death. There is, indeed, an important exception to this reasoning in case the jury or a commission of experts find that the prisoner is insane. But to bar the defense of insanity, as Coroner HARBURGER suggests, would be more than the Constitution allows or than plain justice demands. If GALLAGHER is simply a dangerous lunatic he will never be released from an asylum unless under surveillance. If he is an actual murderer—and Mayor GAYNOR'S condition seems, happily, to refute this hypothesis—he will be put to death, and, if an assailant with intent to kill, he may be imprisoned for what will probably be the rest of his life. At any rate, no one need fear that his exploit and its sure consequences will inspire emulators.

Treatment of a Prisoner.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

If "A. H. F.," who is one of the community "hanging in suspense" for news regarding our beloved Mayor's condition, will read the news published by your paper which says that the prisoner smoked his own cigars (which our law allows) and refrain from rushing into print so hastily, he might glean the intelligence that our Police Department has never reached such high efficiency in its work as at the present time. It is not working without purpose. Shades of Allah! Give them a chance.

New York, Aug. 13, 1910. CITIZEN.

THE ROD AND THE CHILD.

Defends the "New Education," and Condemns Corporal Punishment.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Grown-ups take peculiar delight in relating what "holy terrors" they used to be, what diabolical mischief they were ever up to, and, finally, what thorough larrupings they were wont to receive. They further lay their own vigorous manhood, and what goes by that name in everybody else, to the door of the hickory switch or its equivalents. This morning's contributions under "Schools and Discipline" manifest this. They condemn as "mush-headed," "spineless," and "maudlin" the "new education," which holds corporal punishment of children to be the decadent remnant of a slowly vanishing barbarity.

Only one child in a thousand cannot be brought into obedience by a strong yet kind personality. The exceptional case is a problem for the doctor, and not for some pin-headed bringers into the world of offspring irresponsibly wielding a club over a baby's head. "Inborn cussedness" may be no more nor less than a pressure on the brain of a dislocated skull bone, or an unseen tumor caused by just one of those wallopings our knights of the kitten recommend. Or it may be due merely to disordered digestion or circulation, as any physician will testify. Simply because these men brutes cannot restrain the tigers in themselves is no good reason, it seems, for their giving everybody else the license to maul children for the good of their education.

They attribute their manhood to the lash! And yet, if they hark back to those good old times of the birch and ferrule, they'll trace the origin of all the bitterness, hatred, revenge, cant, and hypocrisy in their hearts. A child after a sound thrashing may look the model of obedience (more correctly submission) and yet his little heart will just rankle for revenge, and he gets it, too, on some younger and weaker child. For cruelty begets cruelty, and there's no dodging the consequences, either.

If these child torturers have to beat something, let them pound the dust out of an old rug or carpet, and take care not to incur arrest for polluting the air with disease germs. If they fear the shame of arrest, they might ask any six-year-old in the vicinity to scourge their hides with a cane or any other implement of cradle torture, just to refresh the fond memories of mantel-piece meals, and to aid them in the discovery as to whether time has worked any radical changes in their tastes for "birch sweetings." THREATS OF THE STRIKERS.

Believes There Is a Spirit of Anarchy Among Cloakmakers.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In to-day's issue of THE TIMES a striking cloakmaker takes exception to my letter, in which I called attention to the fact that the Forward appeals to Anarchists and Socialists to uphold the cause of the strikers. Your correspondent says that "the Cloakmakers' Union is a trades union organization, not a Socialistic or an Anarchistic organization"; and another correspondent, on the same page, asserts that the strike is being conducted in a law-abiding spirit.

There is evidence galore, and any fair-minded man who seeks it can find it, that the strike is being conducted in a thoroughly Anarchistic spirit; that violence, intimidation, and mob-rule are the order of the day among the strikers, for the leaders know that without it the strike would not last forty-eight hours.

If your correspondents wish it, I am prepared to furnish them with evidence of threats made by strikers to blow up an entire factory employing over one hundred people; of a warning given to a large employer of labor who refused to have any negotiations with the strikers or their leaders, that he had better beware of the lives of himself and his family. And when the family of that gentleman, intimidated by these threats, prevailed upon him to close his country home and move into a hotel, warning was given to the proprietor of this hotel, housing over two hundred guests, that unless he refused accommodations to this employer and his family the union would find a way of wreaking vengeance.

If the strike is being conducted in a law-abiding spirit, how is it that every manufacturer who refused to settle with the union is compelled to employ a large force of special police and house the strikebreakers in his factory and in near-by hotels under a strong guard? How is it that in the Magistrates' Courts the strikers are invariably the defendants and the strikebreakers are complainants?

It may be that tactics such as are being pursued by the striking cloakmakers will succeed. But when they do, it will mark the end of the rule of law and order and the beginning of the reign of terror.

"A Living Death."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

On "Death Penalty and Homicide," how would it do to consider as an alternative transportation to a remote penal settlement?

In the island possessions acquired by us as a result of the war with Spain tracts of land could be rendered available by the Federal Government, and the cost of maintenance could be apportioned among the States on some plan established by Congress.

There has always seemed to me something more awe inspiring in "transportation for life" than in "imprisonment for life," and what is awe inspiring is what must be looked for as a deterrent of crime.

Moreover, a transported criminal is placed beyond the reach of sentimentalists, hence his predicament approaches more closely what may be called "a living death." E.

Christian Science and Mosquitos.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your correspondent, "S. H. H.," asks this morning what the result would be if a mosquito should bite a Christian Scientist. I don't know how the Jersey mosquitos are this year, as I have not been abroad this Summer, but if they are like what we have here the question has more than an academic interest. The birds of prey on Long Island are entirely capable of inflicting grievous wounds on an archangel, let alone a mere human being, as I believe the Christian Scientists admit being.

If one of our kind should bite a devotee of Mother Eddy the cult would lose a disciple very suddenly. It would be too late to apply the consolations of religion, and the shock would be impossible to ignore.

Senator Heyburn and "Dixie."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

On receipt of the news of Lee's surrender in 1865 an audience gathered at the White House to tender congratulations to President Lincoln. In acknowledging the congratulations President Lincoln said as Lee had surrendered everything he supposed that included the music, and as they had some music which he had always enjoyed he took it for granted that music now belonged to us, and he would therefore call on the band to play "Dixie," which was done.

It is proper just at this time to call attention to this episode as compared with the course and expression of Senator Heyburn of Idaho, with possible benefit to the latter.

Might Have Been Prevented.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It appears to me that the dastardly attempt on the life of our Mayor could have easily been prevented. The testimony of the man at the gangplank that he had noticed a stranger hanging about the pier, who afterward made inquiries of him regarding the Mayor and still permitted him to go aboard the steamer, was criminal in the face of the many cranks and disgruntled office holders that this city abounds in.

The assassinations of Lincoln, Garfield, and McKinley could not have been prevented under the democratic notion of permitting our Presidents incomplete protection, but the shooting of Mayor Gaynor was due simply to the stupidity of a so-called detective. J. B. S.

DRUGGISTS SEEK NEW LAWS.

They Won't Prescribe, and Want Doctors Not to Compound Prescriptions.

The National Association of Retail Druggists, which is to meet in Pittsburg next month, is determined to put an end to counter prescribing on the part of the druggists themselves and to office dispensing by physicians and the following resolutions have been prepared for the consideration of the association:

Whereas, Medicine and pharmacy are two distinct professions, requiring several years of preparation, in most instances a college course of from two to three years, and in all cases a State board examination, before a practitioner is allowed to enter upon his important duties as a full-fledged licentiate, and

Whereas, The two professions have entered upon an era of reform in "getting back to first principles" in medicine and pharmacy and in establishing closer relations in the interests of the physician, pharmacist, and patient, the basis of which is mutual concession and good will; therefore be it

Resolved, That the laws on our statute books which prohibit under penalties the diagnosticating and prescribing for the sick by pharmacists hereby receive our fullest commendation and the reasonable and proper enforcement of them our unqualified support.

Resolved, That this association is also opposed to the compounding and dispensing of medicines by physicians and favors such modification of our laws as will prohibit the same under suitable penalties.

Resolved, That in either case neither the provisions of the laws nor the enforcement thereof should be such as to prevent the prescribing by pharmacists for those minor ailments for which the public cannot be induced to consult a physician, or to permit the dispensing of his own medicines by the physician during a visit to a patient when the nearest pharmacy is not in reasonable proximity to the sickroom.

Resolved, That it is the sense of this convention that the State Boards of Health and Pharmacy should co-operate in the enforcement of the medical practice act and pharmacy law to the extent that the rights and privileges of each profession are preserved and the interests of the public safeguarded.

"The conservative and conciliatory spirit here shown is in gratifying contrast to the drastic recommendations recently brought by certain New York pharmacists before the New York State Pharmaceutical Association," says the New York Medical Journal, "the point of which was that a Coroner's inquest should be required in every case of death in which the deceased had been supplied with medicines by the attending physician. It seems that the association adopted certain resolutions in which this bellicose recommedation was included, but our contemporary doubts if it will be moved to do much if anything in the matter and adds:

"'The medical profession of the country would rise as one man to resent any move to call the Coroner in when one of their patients died, and public sentiment would also be against it.'"

JULY IMPORTS $117,312,105.

Exceed Those of Any Past July Except in 1907—Same True of Exports.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—Both imports into and exports from the United States during July last were greater than in any previous July except that of 1907. The total imports for July amounted to $117,312,105 as compared with $112,500,000 for 1909, $86,500,000 for 1908, and $124,750,000 for 1907. The exports were valued at $114,493,222 as compared with $100,333,330 for 1909, $103,333,330 for 1908, and $128,500,000 in 1907.

The July imports exceeded the exports by $2,818,883. The imports for the seven months ended with July amounted to $917,586,103, exceeding less than the exports for the same period by $1,666,364.

Imports entering free of duty in July constituted more than 40 per cent. of the whole, a larger percentage than in any previous July except that of 1897.

ROCKEFELLER REUNION.

Meet at Newburg Sept. 9, When Family History from A. D. 800 Will Be Out.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Aug. 15.—A reunion of all the Rockefellers has been planned for Sept. 9 at Newburg, N. Y.

The invitations have been sent out and John D. Rockefeller has received one, but he cannot say positively whether he will be among those present. Those invited to the reunion are lineal descendants of Johann Peter Rockefeller, who came to America in 1723.

Announcement has been made that the history of the Rockefeller family will be ready from the press by the time of the reunion. It will tell the origin of the family name and a history of it down from 800.

Decay of Central Park.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Last Sunday I took the opportunity to take a promenade in Central Park, around the upper east side. It was not until then that I realized what the laissez faire policy of Commissioner Glover, as regards Central Park, had done. Instead of the grassy lawns and clean fragrance of the air which had always met me before an entirely different situation presented itself to my eyes. The grassy lawns were no more. The fragrance of the air was absent. On the lawns, now almost devoid of grass, were men, women, and children, some playing, others simply lying down, resting themselves. That all were enjoying themselves was evident, but at what a cost!

The little grass that remained was being trampled down by their feet, while into the air, already stifling, dust and dirt were being hurled. The cooling effect of the grass, which had at other times refreshed the hot atmosphere, was absent, and as I looked, a feeling of despair came over me to think that I who used to derive my greatest pleasure walking through this section of the Park, near which I live, must lose this enjoyment. Deterrent Penalties.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your article of Aug. 11, entitled "The Question of Deterrent Penalties," is one in which I entirely disagree with you. About 1857 highway robberies became somewhat of a "fashion" among the crooks in New York. We had a Judge in those days who would not let a man go with a light fine—practically a license to commit crime. Highway robbery was called "garroting" in those days, and the first man that came before him for garroting was sent up for forty years. Garroting seemed to have stopped all at once.

If you will trace up a majority of the crimes that are committed you will find it is the fault of the Magistrates letting the culprits off with light fines, in many cases violating their oath of office by not inflicting the punishment required by law.

At Mr. Ballinger's Expense.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Noticing the statement in to-day's paper that it is said to have cost Mr. Ballinger $10,000 for one attorney's services alone in defending himself in the Congressional investigation, I would like to say that while I have no special sympathy with Mr. Ballinger, it seems to me an unspeakable outrage that any public official should be obliged to ruin himself financially to secure justice at the hands of a Congressional committee. Surely if such investigation is necessary, the entire expense should be borne by the Government, and the interests of any one called before it should be protected by the committee itself as an impartial, judicial body.

The locust plays the droning pipes,
That bird of omen ill,
The screech-owl, from his tree essays
An operatic trill,
And then among the breezy boughs
That rustle overhead
The angry katydid awakes
And scolds them all to bed.

POSTPONES HEARING ON FREIGHT RATES

Commerce Board Gives the Railroads Until Sept. 7 to Complete Their Proof.

$500,000,000 YEAR AT STAKE

Proposed Increase Would Put This Sum Into Companies' Treasuries—413 Different Lines Represented.

Counsel for practically all the railroads in the territory north of the Ohio and Potomac Rivers and east of the Mississippi, as well as the attorneys for many shipping interests, gathered at the Custom House yesterday morning for the opening of the investigation which the Inter-State Commerce Commission is to make into the recently proposed advances of freight rates. A charge of $500,000,000 a year within the territory mentioned is represented by the increases which the commission proposes to investigate, and the proceedings promise to be the most important to shippers that the Inter-State Commerce Commission has yet undertaken.

Yesterday, by agreement, the hearing was adjourned until Sept. 7 to enable the railroads to complete the proof they proposed to offer. Examiner George N. Brown for the commission was in charge of the proceedings, although Commissioner Prouty dropped in for a moment before the hearing began, and Frank Lyon, one of the commission's attorneys, represented that body on the legal side.

For the railroads there were C. E. Butterfield and I. Brown for the New York Central, W. H. Hosmer, a representative of the Trunk Line Association of Chicago; W. S. Updyke for the Delaware & Hudson Company, John Kerr for the New York, Ontario & Western, and a lawyer for the Trunk Line Association of this city, through which the Eastern roads arrange their rate agreements.

Examiner Brown said it was the purpose of the commission to make a thorough examination of the facts and that the railroads should understand that the burden of proof was on them to justify the rates. Cross-examination by counsel for the shippers would be allowed, the examiner added, as well as by counsel representing general commercial interests. After the carriers have presented affirmative proof as to the rate increases, the shippers will have opportunity to submit proof in rebuttal.

The tariffs which are involved in the hearings started yesterday have been postponed until Nov. 1 in their date of becoming effective. Unofficial figures collected by the Inter-State Commerce Commission indicate that the increases will aggregate $500,000,000 a year, and that the advances proposed average at least 10 per cent. on the lines involved. The advance is distributed over 413 different transportation lines, and consequently represents an item of at least $1,000,000 a year to each line, although actually the increased receipts under the new schedules would be distributed according to the tonnage of freight handled, and therefore would vary enormously as between railroad and railroad.

The figures collected by the commission show that all the items going into the operation of the railroads have produced constantly increasing expenditures over a period of years, and it will be up to the railroads in the hearings that are to come to justify these increases, under the ruling of the commission that they must shoulder the burden of proof. But even with such increases, the increased cost of operation runs into $200,000,000 a year as against $500,000,000 additional burden due to the proposed new freight rates, and it is the purpose of the commission, while it does not act as a prosecutor, to make the railroads demonstrate how they harmonize the two sets of figures.

NEW POSTAL BANK PLANS.

Committee Now Favors Duplicate Deposit Slip System—Stamps Approved.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—Postmaster General Hitchcock to-day received a report from the Committee on Organization of the postal savings bank systems in favor of the use of certificates of deposit instead of pass books as previously decided upon by the committee in framing its tentative plan. The system proposed contemplates a mechanical method for keeping the records of the postal savings banks which would render unnecessary a great part of the bookkeeping that would be involved in the pass book system.

Under this plan every depositor of amounts from $1 to $9 will receive a certificate punched in duplicate to show the amount of the deposit. He will be required to sign this certificate in duplicate, the Postmaster retaining one of the certificates. On the back of this evidence of the deposit will be engraved interest computations showing exactly the amount of interest due at the end of any interest period. For sums of $10, $20, and $50 there will be separate certificates, also in duplicate. These certificates will constitute the records of the Postmasters.

Mr. Hitchcock to-day approved the form and engraving of a stamp of deposit for amounts of less than $1. This stamp, representing 10 cents in value, is printed in chrome orange. He also approved the engraving of the two-cent stamp that will be used for official correspondence on account of the postal savings banks.

The plans of the committee, so far as adopted, will be sent at an early day to Secretary MacVeagh of the Treasury for his consideration.

CUTS COST OF CITY RECORD.

Supervisor Ferguson Saves the City $31,000 on the Printing Bill.

David Ferguson, the recently appointed Supervisor of The City Record, has effected a saving of more than $31,000 to the city in the publication of the special supplement of The City Record, containing the list of assessed real estate valuations, the first section of which appeared in printed form yesterday.

The contract for the printing of this supplement last year called for a rate of $13.81 a page. This year Mr. Ferguson made a contract calling for only $6.17 a page for printing the supplement. There has been saving in another direction also. Mr. Ferguson was a newspaper man before he became Supervisor of The City Record. Through careful editing he has succeeded in reducing the number of printed pages from 3,436 to 3,100, although the type this year is bigger and the list actually longer.

Last year the publication cost the city $50,481. This year it will cost $19,125. The money saved on this item alone will be almost sufficient to pay the salaries of Mr. Ferguson and his staff for the entire year.

SAXONIA'S CAPTAIN HELD.

Denies Neglect in Letting Chinamen In—Two of His Crew in Jail.

BOSTON, Mass., Aug. 15.—Capt. H. M. Benison of the Cunard steamship Saxonia pleaded not guilty to a charge of neglect in permitting a number of Chinamen to land unlawfully from his steamer before United States Commissioner Hayes to-day and was held in $2,000 for his appearance on Sept. 12, when the Saxonia is next in port.

James Evans, the master at arms of the Saxonia, and William Hackett, a lamp lighter, who are charged with being the principals in the alleged Chinese smuggling affair, remain in jail, as neither has been able to furnish $2,000 bail. They will not return to Liverpool with the Saxonia, but will appear for a hearing here on Aug. 23.

FORBES'S NEW PLAY ACTED AT CRITERION

"The Commuters" a Series of Sketches of Life in the Suburbs.

TAYLOR HOLMES MAKES A HIT

But the Acting Is Mostly Bad and the Piece Lacks Definite Central Interest.

THE COMMUTERS, a farcical comedy, in four acts, by James Forbes. Criterion Theatre.

Larry Brice	Orrin Johnson
Hetty Brice	May de Sousa
Carrie	George Laurence
Mrs. Graham	Mrs. Pauline Duffield
Rr. Rolliston	George Soule Spencer
Mr. Colton	John Cumberland
Mr. Applebee	E. Y. Backus
Sammy Fletcher	Taylor Holmes
Mrs. Julia Stickney Crane	Maude Knowlton
Mrs. Colton	Amy Lesser
Mrs. Shipman	Isabelle Fenton
Mrs. Applebee	Adelyn Wesley
Mrs. Rolliston	Lillian Thurgate
Barnes	E. Y. Backus

In attempting to create a play out of the experience of the commuters—those unfortunate denizens of cities who are of it but not in it—Mr. James Forbes may be credited with an apparently earnest effort to avoid the more obvious side of the subject, or, at any rate, to make that somewhat subsidiary. Of course, no story and no play dealing with suburban life would be quite complete without allusions to the difficulties of catching trains and catching servants—and in the latter case the even greater difficulty of holding them.

But though these things are fish to Mr. Forbes's net, they are happily not his whole catch in "The Commuters." What he has chiefly done has been to see and transcribe something of the lives of a suburban community, coloring his characters as far as possible in imitation of real people of the sort who rise early to catch the train, and often as not some home late to catch it—not the train. In this particular story the fun comes chiefly from the introduction of a common or garden type of city bachelor into a hitherto reasonably peaceful community of near-happy married people.

The bachelor doesn't refuse to entertain his suburban male friends if they stay late in town, though he admits that they bore him with constant chatter about their babies and their wives. However, while he is being bored with the husbands the wives on their part are being worried with visions of railroad accidents or worse befallings to their heads and a consequent state of nerves not particularly conducive to connubial bliss when the tardy ones return.

In a sense, then, Mr. Forbes's new play deals largely with a state of mind, and as such is more ambitious than either of the ones that have preceded it.

It seeks to convey a general impression of a certain phase of society rather than the individual experiences of a well-marked character. This is at once its strength and its weakness. Strength in the sense that it indicates a broader reach and wider sensitiveness to life and character than either "The Chorus Lady" or "The Traveling Salesman"—weakness for the reason that such general phases may be only shown in a bigger story than Mr. Forbes has succeeded in presenting. It may well be doubted whether the subject is susceptible of dramatic treatment. As a matter of fact the piece is more a series of isolated incidents, sometimes very far fetched, than a play. What Mr. Forbes has done, in fact, has been to present an occasional experience that is amusing, an ultimate complication that is mildly interesting, and, as always with him, no end of bright and telling lines.

For two acts mostly nothing happens that is not rather forced. Then in an act that is mostly burlesque (especially as it is played by most of the performers) and with an emotional climax that under the circumstances cannot possibly ring true, the piece takes a sort of pseudo dramatic turn, only to come back to farce in the final act. Much of the writing is clever, but the piece is out of focus, and, though last night's audience found much to laugh at, it will probably not duplicate the success of the author's previous plays. It suffers, too, from the acting, which is almost always of a patently exaggerated and artificial sort.

The success of the evening rested unmistakably with Taylor Holmes, who as the interfering bachelor friend of the chief commuting couple played with broad but very telling humor. His laugh is one of the most infectious things heard on the New York stage for some time, and the audience constantly laughed with him, though to the people of the story his mirth, of course, always seemed ill-timed.

The situation of the play is reached in the third act, where, after Mr. Larry Brice has been away from home until 2 A. M., he returns to find that his wife has apparently emulated his example on the reverse principle that what is sauce for the gander ought to be sauce for the goose. Here, Sammy Fletcher, (Mr. Holmes,) advises an assumed attitude of indignation on the part of the husband, which, thanks to the bachelor's well-intentioned interference, almost results in divorce. Mr. Holmes's playing in this scene, as throughout, was wholly refreshing and diverting. But the situation may not be rly regarded as essentially of commuter life and herein it illustrates the difficulty of the general theme for dramatic purposes.

As the wife, Miss De Sousa, for the first time forsaking musical comedy, had some pleasant moments, but she has much to learn about the playing of comedy, and her emotional passages were always superficial and false. The others were mostly very noisy, but not otherwise distinguished, though Miss Georgie Lawrence read her housemaid's valedictory with a really domestic touch of the forensic. It was the one thing in her role that was not overdone. Lillian Thurgate played her little scene in the last act nicely, and Mr. Backus and Mr. Cumberland did bits very well. But Mr. Johnson was out of his element, and Mr. George Soule Spencer's raucous laugh was an awful thing to have to listen to.

"Bobby Burnit" on the Stage.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 15.—George Randolph Chester's story, "The Making of Bobby Burnit," was brought out at the Grand Opera House here to-night under the title of "Bobby Burnit." The piece was dramatized by Winchell Smith and the cast which produced it here was headed by Wallace Eddinger in the name part, and by Willette Kershaw, Mrs. Stuart Robson, Forrest Winant, Arthur Shaw, and Carolyn Elberts. The presentation of the comedy marked the opening of the Grand Opera House under the management of Henry B. Harris, who has taken a long-term lease of the theatre. He will take "Bobby Burnit" to the Republic Theatre, New York, next Monday night.

AMUSEMENT NOTES.

Constance Collier, who has been acting with Sir Herbert Tree in London since her engagement here in "Israel," has renewed her contract with Charles Frohman for another American season.

A London production of "Inconstant George," in which John Drew appeared last season, has been arranged, with Charles Hawtrey in the principal role. Mr. Drew began rehearsals of his new play, "Smith," yesterday.

A special company organized by the Shuberts to play "The Blue Mouse" in Pacific Coast cities began its season at Poughkeepsie last night. The cast is headed by Grace Merritt.

Rehearsals for the comic opera "Hans," which will open at the Manhattan Opera House in September, will begin to-day. The choruses number 120 and the ballet forty persons.

Rehearsals of "The Concert" and of "The Easiest Way" began at the Belasco Theatre yesterday. The former play will have its metropolitan premier on Oct. 4.

Ben Hendricks has been engaged by Henry W. Savage for the role of Herr Director von Schoeffel in "Con & Co." the farce adapted by Oliver Hereford from the French piece, "Theodore & Co."

The company that Wagenhals & Kemper will send out in "Paid in Full" this season will include Mabel Acker, Lillian Claire, Kate Fletcher, Thomas C. Cooke, Frank C. Burton, [illegible] and Adrian Rosley.

SOCIAL NOTES.

Mrs. Ava Willing Astor has returned from the Adirondacks and will be at the Gotham for a few days before leaving for Newport.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander van R. Barnewall of 567 Park Avenue have gone to Easthampton, L. I., for August.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace Barnard (Miss Nanette Widdleton) are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son on Aug. 4. Mr. and Mrs. Barnard are at their Summer home at Harrison, N. Y.

The Rev. and Mrs. Herbert Shipman have left Narragansett Pier, where they were the guests of Mrs. Shipman's grandmother, Mrs. Marshall J. Allen, and are now with Mr. and Mrs. Edson Bradley on their houseboat among the Thousand Islands.

Mrs. Goodhue Livingston is spending a fortnight in the Adirondacks.

SOCIETY WOMEN PLAY POLO.

Miss Eleanor Sears and Miss Emily Randolph Take Part in Game.

Special to The New York Times.

NARRAGANSETT PIER, R. I., Aug. 15.—On the new polo field at the Point Judith Country Club there was a practice polo game this morning between a team of society women and several well-known ololists.

Miss Eleanor Sears, who came over from Newport, and Miss Emily Randolph were on one team, and R. Grenfell of England and Devereux Milburn represented the rival team. The Earl of Grosvenor and Lord Rocksavage were among the spectators. The match was played in the rain.

AWAIT SINGING STUDENTS.

Receptions for Viennese at City Hall, Columbia, and Arion Club.

Prof. R. Burgess and Prof. Keppler of Columbia University are making preparations to receive the singing students of the University of Vienna who are to arrive here on Aug. 21. The reception in Columbia will take place next Monday afternoon, and all the students of Columbia who are in town are expected to meet the Viennese when they come in their gay official attire from their reception at the City Hall, where they will be received by Acting Mayor Mitchel.

On the evening of that day there will be a big reception for the students and their friends coming with them. 182 persons in all, at the Arion Club, Fifty-ninth Street and Park Avenue. On Tuesday, Aug. 23, the students' chorus of more than 100 singers, said to be one of the finest vocal organizations in the world, will give a concert for a New York charity in Carnegie Hall. After the concert there will be a reception by the Austrian societies in Terrace Garden.

In Buffalo the Viennese students will be received at the University Club, in Philadelphia at the University of Pennsylvania, and in Boston by Harvard. They may also visit President Taft at Beverly. They are hoping that their trip to America will lead to an exchange of professors between Austrian and American universities. The Rector and President of the University of Vienna, Prof. Heinrich Swoboda, accompanies the students.

Gertrude Quinlan in "Miss Patsy."

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 15.—"Miss Patsy," a comedy from the pen of Sewell Collins, was revived at the Criterion Theatre to-night by Henry W. Savage. Gertrude Quinlan, the comedienne who appeared in "The College Widow," was seen in the title rôle. Dorothy Tennant played Helen Burrelle and Lawrence Wheat acted the rôle of the dashing naval Lieutenant who is impervious to the hot shots of Miss Patsy. The play will be sent to the Nazimova Theatre in New York after playing the balance of the week here.

WEEK'S BILLS AT THE THEATRES

Valeska Suratt and Cliff Gordon began their second week at Hammerstein's Victoria yesterday, and the "Maid of Mystery" also continued to give her dance. Among the others who appeared were Neary, Bliss and Ross, Ed Gingrass, the Primrose Four, the Pederson brothers, Harry Breen, Goleman's animals, and the Belleiaire brothers.

Odiva, the Samoan swimmer, is the headline feature at Keith & Proctor's Fifth Avenue Theatre, and Edna Aug, for one week on Vaudeville, is a feature of equal importance. The remainder of the programme includes Charles Leonard Fletcher and company, Alfred Kappeler and Audrey Maple, Patrice, Conroy and Le Maire, Patsy Doyle, Hart and Berrick, and Harry Hirsch.

Brighton Beach Music Hall's bill this week is headed by Bessie Wynn, and Bixley and Fink appear in their grand opera burlesque. The other entertainers include the Knight brothers, Sawtelle, the Temple Quartet, the Bessie Valdare troupe, and Kelly and Reno.

At the New Brighton Theatre Billy B. Van and the Beaumont sisters head the bill, that contains besides them Jesse L. Lasky's "The Photo Shop," Camille Ober, Laddie Cliff, the Dankmar-Schiller troupe, Vanhoven, and Karl Emmy's poodles.

WALKS 2,000 MILES WITH HER HUSBAND

Mrs. Woolf Finishes Here the Journey Begun in May at Kansas City.

WELCOMED AT CITY HALL

After Being Escorted Through Town by the Police—Dog and Horse Their Companions.

Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Woolf, Dolly, the little bay mare, and Don, the dog, all from Missouri, got in from Kansas City via the Weston system of transportation yesterday afternoon. With them came the funniest-looking little baggage wagon this town ever saw. Dolly pulled it 2,000 miles, and as she pricked up her ears when the long journey ended at the City Hall, she emitted a neigh which meant, according to Mounted Policeman Dugan, "And I can pull it 2,000 more, if need be."

The Woolfs, the dog, and the little bay mare reached the city line at Van Cortlandt Park about 10 o'clock yesterday morning, at a time when the rain was coming down in torrents, but the downpour worried them not at all. Compared to some of the storms they had passed through on the way from Kansas City, it was nothing more than a welcoming shower "to our city." At least, that is the way the Woolfs took it.

The pedestrians began the last leg of their 2,000-mile journey early yesterday morning in a little patch of woods near Yonkers, where they had camped overnight. Dolly was carefully groomed for the entry into the city, while Don was made to understand that he would have to be on his very best behavior.

Then they struck their 7 by 7 tent for the last time, the mattress was tied to the top of the cart, Mr. Woolf took his place on the starboard side of Dolly, Mrs. Woolf went on the port side, two tired and weary newspaper photographers fell in as a rear guard, and the entry into New York was begun.

Fifteen minutes later the Missourians reached the city line, where they were met by Mounted Policemen Dugan and O'Brien, the former riding Gadfly and the latter Boxer, the two most famous horses in the Police Department. Dolly bowed solemnly to Gadfly and Boxer as she stepped briskly over the line that keeps Yonkers from being a part of New York.

Police Escort for Them.

The news that the Missouri travelers had entered the city was telephoned ahead, and the Police Department got busy ordering out details to escort the Woolfs to the City Hall. By the time the Washington Heights district was reached the camp followers had reached a respectable number. After that they gradually increased, and when the couple from the land of "show me" reached Seventy-second Street and Broadway there were about 200 trailers in line, most of them little boys, who jogged along, singing "Old Dobbin" and other tunes that may have been written to please Dolly.

South of Fifty-ninth Street the crowd got bigger and bigger, until at Times Square it numbered perhaps 500 men and boys and a few women. At Times Square the police made the Woolfs deviate from their scheduled route and proceed through Seventh Avenue from Forty-sixth to Forty-third Street, and then they permitted them to swing back into Broadway.

"We're from Missouri," shouted the newsboys as they passed the Times Building on the half run, for at this point Dolly was walking so fast that mere humans had to do some sprinting to keep up.

"How are the folks at home?" a man on the street shouted as the one-horse caravan passed the Metropolitan Opera House.

Mr. Woolf tipped his hat and Mrs. Woolf smiled in reply. All this time Dolly was quick-stepping southward at a speed estimated at six knots an hour, and Don was very tired. Mr. Woolf and Mrs. Woolf, on the other hand, were just as brisk as they were that morning far back in May, when they left Kansas City for the metropolis.

Held Up in Union Square.

In Union Square the procession was held up for the first time. A belated newspaper photographer wanted a picture of Mrs. Woolf. The result was that all the boarders in Union Square Park and everybody else in sight hustled over to see what was up. A crowd of at least 1,000 gathered, and the two policemen who were acting as a guard had a job that lasted fifteen minutes opening up a space large enough for the photographer to get his picture. After that there were no more interruptions in the journey to the City Hall.

There the biggest crowd of all waited for the Missouri Infantry. Lieut. Kennell, the policeman on duty at the Mayor's office, heard a noise and looked out of his window just in time to see Dolly do a left turn into City Hall Park. Behind Dolly there surged a crowd that numbered between 1,500 and 2,000. Kennell shouted to a policeman in the corridor to hustle out and keep order. The policeman did the best he could, and his best was not much in this case. All he could do was to get Mr. and Mrs. Woolf to halt in front of the City Hall and await the arrival of the reserves before entering the building.

The crowd almost mobbed Woolf and his wife. They asked them a thousand questions, and two or three women tried to get a piece of the mattress that was on top of the Dolly Special for a souvenir. Mrs. Woolf was prepared, however, for just such an onslaught, and she brought forth hundreds of picture postcards, showing her husband, herself, Dolly, Don, and the baggage van, which she distributed on all sides. While she was thus engaged the police reinforcements arrived, and Lieut. Kennell told the police to escort Mr. and Mrs. Woolf to the Mayor's office, where they would be welcomed by Acting Mayor Mitchel.

Dog Insisted on Going In.

Of course Don went in, too. Kennell was ushering the pedestrians into the Mayor's reception room when he felt something tug at his left calf.

"Hey, there; where did that dog come from?" snapped Kennell, who thought the animal had been smuggled in by one of the City Hall reporters.

"He won't hurt you; that's Don," Mrs. Woolf explained, and Don wagged his tail and signaled "Yes, this is me."

In a little while Acting Mayor Mitchel came in and shook hands all around. He congratulated Mr. and Mrs. Woolf on their achievement and added that he was certain the tramp had done them much good.

Mrs. Woolf said that they had traversed five States, and that their route had been through Chicago, Indianapolis, Dayton, Cleveland, Buffalo, Rochester, Syracuse, and Albany.

"Did you have any unpleasant experiences on the way?" she was asked.

"Yes, many of them," she answered, "particularly in the country districts. It happened once or twice in every State. They would not even treat us civilly, and sometimes even insisted on treating us as tramps. But these were the exceptions, for as a general thing we were treated fine, and have had a really 'bully' time."

Mrs. Woolf weighed 192 pounds when she started. She weighed 170 when she ascended the City Hall steps. Mr. Woolf weighed about 135 pounds at the start and about 140 at the finish.

Dolly, the horse, may be sold. Don, the dog, will be retained.

NEW DANCER AIDED BY SNAKE

"Cleopatra en Masque," When Bitten Simulates Death Agonies.

"Cleopatra en Masque," a new dancer, made her first appearance at the American Roof Garden yesterday, accompanied by the smell of incense and the attendance of a number of dark-hued gentlemen in bright-colored raiment. The dance she gave was of the story type. A black-whiskered potentate of some sort seemed to be vexed at one of his female slaves. He refuses to listen to a group of silent pleadings on the part of the lady and had her hauled away by a black-face team. She is put in a dungeon, where she moves around a great deal to the accompaniment of "Aida" music and then she takes a wriggling gopher snake out of a basket and lets it pretend to bite her. The death agonies which follow include the loosening of her blonde hair, and the curtain falls with the potentate quite pleased with the work.

The dancer wears a mask, a thin black skirt, some shiny ornaments, and slippers. She received half a dozen curtain calls.

Others who appeared on the bill were "Polly Pickle's Pets," Harry and Irving Cooper, Zona Vevey, Anthony, Colby and May, and several more single and double turns.

Woman Philanthropist Dead.

UTICA, N. Y., Aug. 15.—Mrs. Sarah L. Gleason of Chicago, a philanthropist who annually spent the greater part of a large income for the benefit of Adventists and their missions, died here of apoplexy to-day while on a visit. She was 84 years old.

Obituary Notes.

The Rev. MICHAEL J. CUNNINGHAM, a Professor in St. Peter's College, Jersey City, died on Sunday in St. Francis's Hospital in the Bronx. He was graduated from Manhattan College, and entered the Jesuit Order in 1878. He was ordained a priest, and left in 1890 to go to Texas. Dr. Cunningham had recently accepted a chair of Philosophy and Theology at St. Peter's.

The Rev. CHARLES FREDERICK WALKER, Rector of the Episcopal Church of the Good Shepherd, Buffalo, N. Y., is dead at the home of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Marvin Dodd, 99 Beech Street, East Orange, N. J., as a result of septic poisoning. Mr. Walker was born in New York forty years ago. He entered Columbia University, and in 1903 was graduated with a B. S. degree, and the year following he was graduated from Bexley Hall, the divinity school attached to Kenyon College, with a degree of M. A. He was ordained to the priesthood on June 19, 1904. His wife, who was Miss Jennie Van Name Dodd, daughter of the late Col. Marvin Dodd of East Orange, and one daughter survive.

BERNARD MELVIN, who had been continuously employed in THE NEW YORK TIMES composing room since the establishment of the paper, died at his home, 918 Willow Avenue, Hoboken, yesterday, aged 73 years.

THEODORE A. SWITZ, at one time assistant general manager and purchasing agent of the Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie Railroad, is dead at his home, 92 Midland Avenue, East Orange, N. J., from a complication of diseases. Mr. Switz was born in Madison, Wis., fifty-three years ago. His last railroad position was in an advisory capacity in the chief engineer's office of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad. For several years he had been special Eastern agent for the Northwestern Life Insurance Company of Milwaukee. He was a member of the Minnesota Club and the Knights Templars. His wife and three small sons survive.

THOMAS A. ALEXANDER, head of departments in the firm of Yale & Towne, hardware manufacturers, 9 Murray Street, died on Sunday at the home of his mother, Mrs. Katherine C. Alexander, 502 Clinton Avenue, Brooklyn, where he had made his home. He was born in Germantown, Penn., and was 45 years old. He left a widow and daughter. He was a member of several clubs in Manhattan.

KOPPLE FRIEDLAND, aged 47, President of the Friedland Realty Company, 238 Broadway, died Sunday at his home, 19 Grenada Place, Brooklyn, of pneumonia. He was born in Russia, and came to this country when twelve years of age. He was a member of the Centennial Lodge, O. B. A., the Knights of Pythias, the Board of Trade of Ozone Park, and was a Mason of the thirty-second degree. He left a widow and five children.

CLARA LIPMAN BACK ON STAGE

In "Marriage of a Star," Agreeable Comedy That Moves Too Slowly.

THE MARRIAGE OF A STAR, a comedy, adapted from "Le Mariage d'une Etoile," by Alexandre Bisson and Georges Thurner. Hackett Theatre.

Simone La Fee	Clara Lipman
Victoria Bridge	Alida Cortelyou
Marjory Lore	Consuelo Bailey
Miss Handle	Clara Sidney
Mrs. Wendell Armytage Hill	Lena Loraine
Beacon Lore	Franklin Ritchie
Wendell Armytage Hill	Frederick Montague
Putnam Emerson Hill	Albert Parker
Courtleigh Cryme	Arthur Cogliser
Emmeline	Mabel Shaw

The play chosen by Clara Lipman for her return to the stage—her own adaptation of "Le Mariage d'une Etoile"—proved to be an agreeable comedy. But it needs compression. The idea is amusing, iwith a litlte touch of sadness to relieve the fun, and the play moves smoothly, albeit rather too slowly. At the Hackett Theatre last night the audience was quick to appreciate the good features and lenient with those that were not so good.

Simone la Fee, a French actress, is the principal character. Nineteen years before the beginning of the play she and her Boston husband were separated, but during all that period they retained friendly relations for the sake of their daughter, Marjorie. The actress comes to America to make her début in English. She sees her daughter, who had become engaged to a young Bostonian, and for the girl's sake she approves of the match, even after becoming acquainted with her future son-in-law's relatives. In the second act, however, the daughter's fiancé thinks he is in love with the mother and expresses himself unmistakably. Simone, angered, drives him away and breaks off Marjorie's engagement. Almost immediately she forgives the young man, who professes penitence, brings about a re-engagement, and concludes by agreeing to remarry her former husband and leave the stage.

All of which is interspersed with exhibitions of "temperament" on the part of the mother and amusing indications of like temperament on the part of the daughter. The New England relatives afford considerable merriment, and a ludicrous rehearsal scene in the second act keeps the audience laughing heartily.

Miss Lipman's welcome last night was hearty, and her performance of the rôle of the actress seemed to afford the audience much pleasure.

Consuelo Bailey played the part of the daughter in a most ingénue manner. Alida Cortelyou as an actress and instructress in English was good, and especially so in the farcical rehearsal scene. Clara Sidney as a chaperoning aunt and Lena Loraine as a Boston matron had rôles that they filled well. Arthur Cogliser played an impossible author-manager, Albert Parker was an agreeable juvenile, and Franklin Ritchie and Frederick Montague were the husbands of the actress and the Boston matron respectively.

Joseph C. Bray.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks React in Quiet Trading—Call Money Rates, 1½@1¾ Per Cent.

LULL IN GOLD IMPORTS

Banks Still Gaining Cash and Interest Rates Ease Further—Grain Markets Decline.

To the accompaniment of trading which at no time during the session showed much life, and which brought the total transactions for the day up to only a very moderate figure, prices of nearly all the active stocks declined yesterday in amounts varying from small fractions to something over 1 point. In the absence of any developments which accounted specifically for the heaviness which the active stocks displayed, the decline took on the appearance of a natural reaction from the upward movement which took place last week, and which naturally induced more or less selling, which the market was not able to absorb yesterday without prices yielding to a moderate extent. All in all the incidents of the day supplied a favorable background for the market, which merely served to emphasize the declines which took place in most issues. New York did not obtain any of the gold which was laid down in London yesterday, this being divided between Holland and India, but as an offset against this as a money market factor the banks in their operations with the Sub-Treasury showed a further gain in cash since the compilation of the very excellent bank statement which was issued on Saurday, and a further easing in time money rates furnished collateral evidence of the strong position which the banks in this city have established for themselves. In another direction favorable import attached to a decline in both wheat and corn and to the crop advices received yesterday in railroad and other quarters. Furthermore, the day's announcements included several dividend declarations, among them an increase on Laclede Gas common from 6 per cent. to 7 per cent. a year. In none of these incidents was there anything to invite the declines which took place, which indicated all the more clearly that yesterday's movements in the active stocks occurred in reference to the technical position of the market rather than in respect to any of the day's incidents. Among the less active issues there were some substantial advances, which offered sharp contrast to the course of the stocks which furnished the great bulk of the day's transactions.

The investigation of the Inter-State Commerce Commission into the proposed rate increases upon which the railroads are confidently counting as a means of offsetting increased expenses was formally opened in this city yesterday, but the actual presentation of arguments in support of the increases was put over until next month. In some sections railroads are beginning to note a slackening in traffic, which offers sharp contrast to the increase in gross earnings recorded in the recent past, which is not without interest in connection with the investigation which is about to be made into the reasonableness of the rate increases which the railroads propose.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

Monday.

Stocks were offered by the room traders on the Consolidated Stock Exchange throughout the session. There was an attempt to start a political scare in the market, and the Brussels fire also induced some selling. Little evidence showed, however, of actual liquidation, the decline in prices seeming rather to be largely due to professional selling. Business was limited, with the sales totaling 52,790 shares. Forty-eight different stocks made up the list.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

No New York Bids for Gold.

Our bankers who have been most active in bringing gold from abroad on the present gold import movement made no bid yesterday for the three and one-half million dollars of gold which arrived in London from South Africa and no part of this week's consignment of the metal was purchased for New York. The cables announced that $3,000,000 was taken for Holland and that the balance of the day's arrivals was purchased for India. This gold was all reported sold at the minimum price for bar gold, which indicates that there was no active competition for the metal, which lessens the significance of the failure of New York to obtain a share. This lull in the gold import movement came coincidently with a further easing in interest rates in the New York money market, where loans for six months were being made at 4¾ per cent. A decline of at least one-half of 1 per cent. has occurred since New York bankers obtained their first consignment of gold from the other side.

***

Lehigh Valley Dividend Period.

The report was current yesterday that the Directors of the Lehigh Valley may decide to change dividend payments to quarterly instead of semi-annually. This is a change which a fairly large number of railroad and other corporations have made within the past year, the Pennsylvania and the Atchison being most notable. The suggested change in respect to the Lehigh Valley dividend is particularly interesting at this time in view of the belief entertained in some quarters that the interests most closely identified with this property have in contemplation an increase in the road's dividend rate.

***

Merchandise Traffic Slowing Up.

An officer of a well-known Eastern railroad said yesterday that the reports he was receiving regarding the traffic receipts of his system indicated that for the first ten days of August the earnings of his road were at a standstill, whereas up to the beginning of August the weekly returns were showing steady increases over those of a year ago. It was particularly the general merchandise traffic, he said, which was falling off, the movement of coal, of which a very large amount is handled by this road, being very satisfactory. How far this experience is being shared in by other systems cannot yet be determined, although a slackening of merchandise traffic would be in keeping with current reports regarding general trade conditions.

***

Beet Sugar Finances.

Rumors recurrent again this season of a possible dividend on the common stock of the American Beet Sugar Company are discouraged by interests in touch with the management. It is stated that the company's intention is to build up working capital, its floating indebtedness is said to be more than $1,000,000,) and after that increase its acreage. In California the company needs 30,000 acres, and in Colorado the factories are said to require 25,000 acres in beets to keep the factories running at full capacity.

***

Cotton Helps Export Figures.

The July export showing of agricultural products, which was the worst in many years, is likely to be remedied this month by the heavy exports of cotton. New York's trade balance, at least, will make a favorable showing from the shipments of cotton alone, although the returns from other ports on the wrong side of the ledger may offset it. The shipments which congested transatlantic tonnage during July are being continued this month, and the steamship lines are hard pressed to find room for cotton. Other ports suffer correspondingly. During July Savannah, Galveston, and New Orleans cotton shipments dropped by 30,000,000 pounds as compared with the same month last year, and New York's shipments increased $5,000,000.

CHICAGO STOCK MARKET.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 15.—Buying of Chicago Subway stock, which has been the feature of the local Exchange for several days, is based on the expectation that independent companies operating in Indiana, Illinois, and Michigan will furnish enough long-distance business to increase the revenues of the tunnel company's automatic service sufficiently to more than meet fixed interest charges on the outstanding bonds. The stock was traded in heavily again to-day between 5¾ and 6, the buying being chiefly for those who are closely identified with the construction of the tunnel property. Another active stock on the local Exchange was Booth Fisheries preferred, which advanced a couple of points. It is said the financial condition of the company has strengthened under conservative management and that the business shows a healthy expansion.

THE COMMODITIES MARKETS.

The wheat market was weak and active all the session, with the close at about the low point. The opening was at a decline due to the weakness of the cables and the reports of good weather in France. There was a good deal of long wheat sold out following which prices steadied a little, but later in the day showed additional weakness. The decline in Liverpool was reported due to heavy Russian and Danubian exports, amounting to 6,328,000 bushels for the week, an increase of 3,208,000 bushels afloat for Europe, and the fine weather on the Continent, with quieter Continental demand. World's exports were 11,120,000 bushels, compared with 8,048,000 bushels last year. The visible supply showed an increase of 3,784,000 bushels, making a gain in two weeks of 6,267,000 bushels. Western receipts for the day were 2,104,000 bushels, or 50 per cent. larger than last year. The estimate of the Commercial National Bank of Chicago made the wheat crop 657,000,000 bushels, which is just about in line with the Government figures. An estimate by the Interior Millers' Association placed the wheat crop in the Dakotas and Minnesota at 175,000,000 bushels. Reports of unexpectedly good yields of wheat in Minnesota and South Dakota were claimed from thrashing returns. Later the market steadied on reported sales of two cargoes, or 350,000 bushels from Baltimore to France about cleaning up the Baltimore stock. Cash wheat quoted No. 2 red Winter $1.08½ nominal, to arrive, cost, insurance, and freight; No. 2 red, spot, nominal, new $1.09¾ free on board, afloat, for export; No. 1 Northern Spring $1.24 nominal; No. 2 hard Winter, new, $1.10¾, and No. 1 Northern, Manitoba, $1.15¾. Sales include 5,000 bushels No. 2 red Winter at $1.08½, in elevator, domestic, 350,000 bushels red Winter from Baltimore for export to France.

Corn was active and fairly steady early, but later, in sympathy with the decline in wheat and on some reports of better weather conditions, the market sold off. The selling was also increased by Western advices that the country was selling corn more freely since the rains. There were some bullish reports in circulation, claiming that the crop was not earing well, but this did not seem to have much effect. The weather was considered favorable over Sunday. The Commercial Bank of Chicago estimated the crop at 3,000,000,000 bushels, or 275,000,000 bushels more than last year. The visible supply decreased 691,000 bushels. Cash corn quoted No. 2, 72¾c nominal, elevator, to arrive, cost, insurance, and freight, domestic basis, and steamer nominal, elevator export basis.

Oats were moderately active and rather heavy. There was some evidence of pressure on the market, and prices eased off, although there was no aggressive selling. The decline was partly due to other grain, but partly to the immense receipts, 2,236,000 bushels at Western points, against 886,000 bushels last year, and an increase of 1,783,000 bushels in the visible. Estimated receipts at Chicago to-morrow were 1,183 cars. Cash oats were weak. The Commercial Bank at Chicago estimated the oats crop at 1,077,000,000 bushels or 200,000,000 bushels over the ten-year average. Cash oats quoted standards, 43c; No. 2 white, 43½c; No. 3 white, 43c; No. 4 white, 42@42½c, regular track.

Provisions were fairly active and weak, owing to the larger receipts of hogs than expected and a further decline in live hog prices. Demand for cash oats was reported very quiet.

COTTON.

The cotton market was weak during the morning, but very steady in the afternoon, recovering the early decline. The weakness of the morning was due to the weather conditions in Texas over Sunday, and private reports of rain in a number of countries covering, with the rains at the close of last week, nearly one-third of the cotton-producing sections. Later the official report showed very little rain, while temperatures were 100 to 107 at a number of points, and early sellers were quite active buyers. A leading Southern operator was a heavy buyer through brokers, and this started a great deal of miscellaneous covering. There were late reports that the Texas drought was unbroken in the central and southern sections, and the crop was estimated at from 3,000,000 bales down to 2,400,000 bales. A comparison of rainfall figures was put out by a prominent commission house, showing that at many points in Texas the rainfall from July 1 to Aug. 14 has been very much less this year than last. Reports from elsewhere in the belt continue very favorable, and it was predicted that the Giles half-monthly report will be a bearish one. Receipts of new cotton were large at Galveston and Houston, with predictions of rapidly increasing receipts owing to the temptation of cash prices, and it was estimated that possibly 25,000 bales in all would come back here from Liverpool to deliver in August. Southern spot markets unchanged to 3-16 decline.

COFFEE.

Coffee business was restricted by the holiday in Havre. There was some liquidation, but offerings were well taken and prices showed very narrow changes, closing steady, at unchanged to 2 points net advance, with sales of 23,250 bags. Hamburg was ⅛ pfennig higher, and in Brazil Rio was 50 reis higher, while Santos was unchanged. Brazilian exchange on London was 1-32 higher, and cost and freight offers from Brazil were very firm at a further advance from last week. Warehouse deliveries of Brazilian coffee at United States ports last week were 153,594 bags, against 87,263 bags the previous week and 110,198 bags last year. The visible supply of Brazilian coffee in and afloat for the United States is 3,267,931 bags, against 3,634,124 bags last year and 3,320,716 bags two years ago.

FOREIGN TRADE OPPORTUNITIES.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—The Consular and Trade Report will note the following trade opportunities abroad. Further information regarding these may be obtained by addressing the Bureau of Manufactures, care of the Department of Commerce and Labor, Washington, D. C., giving the number of item referred to:

5,364. METALS.—A firm in Italy informs an American Consular officer that it desires to be placed in communication with American smelting and refining companies and exporters of new and old metals, such as copper, brass, bronze, and zinc, (spelters,) with a view to representing them where a large demand exists for this class of goods.

5,365. PROPRIETARY ARTICLES. — An American firm dealing in proprietary articles, &c., writes the Bureau of Manufactures that its representative, who also represents several well-known American houses, will make an extended trip through the West Indies in September or October, and wants to get in touch with other firms desiring representation.

5,366 NAUTICAL INSTRUMENTS. — An American Consul in Europe writes that a firm in his district wants to be placed in touch with American manufacturers of nautical instruments with a view to importing same.

5,367. WOODEN SKEWERS.—A firm in the United Kingdom desires to receive from American manufacturers of wooden skewers samples and prices for large shipments.

5,368. SUGAR CANE UNLOADING APPARATUS.—An American Consular officer in Europe writes that a person in his district wants a sugar cane unloading apparatus in form of a hoist for handling the cane at the factory on arrival of the wagons, the hoist to handle the cane in six-ton bundles fastened by means of double slings, and the radius of the hoist to be, approximately, fifty feet. Holographs and drawings and prices free on board, New York, desired; also separate prices for slings.

5,369. AMERICAN GOODS.—A firm in Italy informs an American Consul that it wishes to represent American houses exporting any line of goods except machinery.

5,370. CARS, LOCOMOTIVES, &c.—An American Consul in Russia writes that a mine owner in Asiatic Russia is about to leave for the United States to purchase two steam shovels, 120 cars, twelve locomotives, and two boring machines. He has decided upon certain companies from whom he will make some purchases, but would like to meet others interested.

5,371. AUTOMOBILE TIRES.—A dealer in Europe desires catalogues and price lists of American automobile tires. He states that the antiskid and armored makes are generally used, and that he has a customer who purchases $20,000 worth of tires annually.

5,372. ICEMAKING MACHINERY. — An American Consul in Mexico writes that a person in his district contemplates installing an icemaking and refrigerating plant with a probable capacity of 2,000 pounds of ice per day.

5,373. VEGETABLE WAX.—A person in Mexico informs an American Consul that he desires to communicate with American exporters of vegetable wax, which is used largely in the manufacture of photographic cylinders and disks. He is also in a position to export plants from which the wax is derived.

5,374. PRINTING PRESSES.—An American Consul in Russia writes that parties in his district contemplate the purchase of printing presses.

5,375. SAFETY CHECK PAPERS. A firm in Canada desires the name of the manufacturer of American safety check papers known as "Phelps" safety.

5,376.—RICE HARVESTING MACHINERY. —An American Consul in Mexico forwards the names of those contemplating purchasing reapers for cutting rice.

5,377. BOILERS AND ENGINES.—The names of firms in Mexico desiring catalogues and price lists from American manufacturers of boilers and engines are on file at the Bureau of Manufactures.

LONDON TUBES PAY INTEREST

Relieve Guarantors of Income Bonds—Earnings Exceed Expectations.

The Directors of the Underground Electric Railways of London, it was announced here yesterday, have declared an initial payment of ½ per cent. for the half year ended June 30 on the company's income bonds.

When the company was reorganized less than three years ago it was provided that the Speyer houses would make good any deficiency in the interest on the company's 4½ per cent. bonds, and the road is now in a position to make this first payment.

The earnings of the lines controlled by the company have exceeded the hope entertained at the time of the reorganization of the company. This is particularly true of the Metropolitan District Company, which has just declared a dividend at the rate of 3 per cent. per annum on its first preference stock.

MARTINEZ GALLOPS HOME EASY WINNER

Ordinary Field Starts in Mohawk Stakes at Saratoga—Special Race To-day.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 15.—Racing this afternoon was for the most part confined to the selling platers, though the Saratoga Association furnished a good card and excellent sport came out of each race. The attendance was large, considering the fact that the only special attraction was the Mohawk, a selling stake. The racing this season is popular with the natives themselves, and each day they are out in goodly numbers.

The Mohawk went to Martinez, who raced in the colors of Preston M. Burch, the veteran turfman. His race was a first-class one, and he was liberally played, making the victory thoroughly popular. Martinez was the choice, but there was a tip abroad on Chief Kee, the Canadian three-year-old, that made him the second choice.

Cherryola was the one to cut out all the running. She wheeled at the start and beat the others away from the post. Shilling, who rode, took every advantage of this break, and she was in command until the turn for home. There Martinez, which had been second throughout, raced by her handily, and from that point to the finish he had things all his own way, to win well in hand by three lengths. Cherryola easily saved the place and Chief Kee, after having been outrun all through the early stages, was along in time to save third place.

A race that was of almost as much interest as the Mohawk was a six-furlong handicap for fillies and mares. It went to George Odom's Follie Levy, the filly that recently suffered a disqualification after she had beaten Mexoana and some other smart ones. To-day Walsh, who rode Follie Levy, did not permit her to race off in front, but followed closely enough behind Rose Queen so that when the Hildreth mare was through she came on well in the stretch. At the finish Notter brought Melisande along with a great rush, but she failed to catch Levy.

The steeplechase of the day was for the selling platers, and Hildreth scored with Black Bridge, Thistledale was second, and Grandpa third. After the race it was reported that Grandpa had broken down in the running. The only accident in the race was at the thirteenth fence, where Paprika made a very bad landing and unseated English. Though the jockey was dragged some distance before he could shake his left foot free from the stirrup he escaped with only some scratches.

Entries were announced to-day for the special race to be run to-morrow, and R. F. Carman has named his filly Horizon to go with Thomas Monahan's Textile and S. C. Hildreth's Novelty. It is not thought likely that Horizon will go to the post.

The conditions for the race, as announced to-day, make it $5,000 each for starters, or $5 forfeit if declared Tuesday. It is to be over six furlongs, and the association will add plate to the value of $100. The summaries:

GETTING TRACK READY.

Gangs of Men Busy for 24-Hour Race at Brighton Beach.

The office of the Motor Racing Association is the scene of busy activity in preparation for the twenty-four-hour race Friday and Saturday. The delay the association has met with in announcing entries was due to experiments made with the track Saturday.

Ralph De Palma will be among the stars in the list of drivers, his teammate being E. H. Parker, who made the spectacular drive Saturday, when he held his car after a "blowout," carrying machine and men through two fences on to the roadway. Many are prophesying that the record for twenty-four racing will be lowered at this meet, and all look forward to an interesting and exciting event.

Daly Refused to Weigh In.

It is improbable that Johnny Daly of this city will receive any engagements in a hurry again at any of the local clubs after his actions of last night at the Olympic Athletic Club. Daly and Tommy Houck of Philadelphia were to box ten rounds. The boxers agreed to weigh in at 116 pounds at the ringside. The New Yorker refused to do this, and it was changed, to suit his convenience, to weigh in at 4 o'clock on the afternoon of the contest. Both boys met at the appointed time. Houck stepped on the scales, which showed 114 pounds, but Daly refused to weigh. Houck, however, agreed to meet Daly if he could make 125 pounds, and both were instructed to appear at the club.

After the crowded house had witnessed a good bill of preliminaries and were on edge for the final bout, Houck entered the ring and awaited his opponent, who remained outside the clubhouse until the last minute, expecting to be sent into the ring without weighing in. This, however, did not work, and when he was requested to show his weight he refused and the bout was called off, Manager McMahon issuing return checks to all present.

SELDEN PATENT UPHELD.

Judge Hough Issues Injunction Against More Auto Manufacturers.

Perpetual injunctions restraining John Wanamaker, Thomas B. Wanamaker, L. Rodman Wanamaker, Robert C. Ogden, the O. J. Gude Company, Henry Neubauer, and Albert C. Neubauer from infringing upon the Selden automobile patent have been issued by the United States Circuit Court for the Southern District of New York.

The injunctions were issued under Judge Hough's recent decision and under the provisions of the decrees in suits brought against these parties, in which he sustained the Selden patent, granted the injunctions, and also accountings of damages and profits.

Under the provisions of these injunctions the parties enjoined cannot make or dispose of any gasoline automobiles in infringement of the Selden patent without violating the injunction and being liable to punishment as for contempt of court.

COLUMBIA CREW FUNDS.

Treasurer's Report Shows Balance on Season of $527.

With a balance of $527.85, as shown by the manager's and Treasurer's report of the Columbia University Rowing Club, which was made public yesterday, the Morningside Heights rowing outlook financially is decidedly brighter than it has been for many years.

So accustomed have the graduate and student body become to an announcement of a deficit that this report will come as a very great surprise. Two years ago the crew work had almost to be abandoned because of a $5,000 debt which had to be paid off, and which had been contracted the year preceding. A smaller debt had to be paid off last year.

Robertson and Oldfield Matched.

Dan Smith, who has leased the Brighton Beach Motordrome for Sept. 3 and 5, (Labor Day,) has matched George Robertson to meet Barney Oldfield on those dates. The auto rivers will meet in a five-mile and one-hour race each day. The events are open to all, however, and a $500 purse will go to the winner of the hour race each day.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—Slight depression over North Carolina, in conjunction with a high area over Northeast Canada, has caused general showers in the east portions of New England and the Middle Atlantic States, over the interior of the country except in the extreme Northwest pressure is generally low, with a well-defined centre of disturbance over South Dakota, and there were showers in the upper Mississippi and the Missouri Valleys.

A marked high pressure area, accompanied by much lower temperatures, is following the South Dakota depression, but elsewhere over the West and in the Ohio Valley high temperatures continued. In the Atlantic States moderate temperatures prevailed, and will continue.

Winds along the New England Coast will be light to moderate variable; Middle Atlantic Coast, light to moderate and variable, though mostly east; South Atlantic Coast, light south.

Steamships departing Tuesday for European ports will have light to moderate variable winds, with unsettled, showery weather to the Grand Banks.

FORECAST FOR TO-DAY AND WEDNESDAY.

Eastern New York—Partly cloudy Tuesday; showers in south portion. Wednesday showers; light, variable winds.

New Jersey—Showers Tuesday, and probably Wednesday; light, variable winds.

New England—Showers Tuesday, except fair in the northwest portion. Wednesday, showers; light to moderate variable winds.

Eastern Pennsylvania—Local showers Tuesday and Wednesday; light, variable winds.

The teperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at midnight, taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

1909.	1910.		1909.	1910.
3 A. M. 65	73	4 P. M. 70		75
6 A. M. 63	72	6 P. M. 69		74
9 A. M. 68	74	9 P. M. 69		74
12 M. 73	78	12 P. M. 68		74

This thermometer is 108 feet above the street level. The average temperature yesterday was 76; for the corresponding date last year it was 68; average on the corresponding date for the last thirty-three year, 72. The teperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was 73; at 8 P. M. it was 74. Maxium temperature 79 degrees at 12:15 P. M.; minimum, 72 degrees at 5 A. M. Humidity, 93 per cent. at 8 A. M., 86 per cent. at 8 P. M.

IN THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

An Important Transaction on Hanover Square—Eben Stevens Buys East 55th Street Dwelling—Brooklyn Y. W. C. A. Buys the Grosjean Mansion—Bronx and Suburban Sales.

The realty market was dull and inactive yesterday, the most important transaction being the sale of 122 and 124 Pearl Street, (Hanover Square,) running through to 86 and 88 Water Street, on plot fronting about 50 feet on each street and 126 feet in depth.

The present buildings were occupied by the owner for many years and were recently destroyed by fire. The property has been held at $130,000.

Lewis B. Preston negotiated the sale. William A. White & Sons represented the seller, August Klipstein.

The building at 122 Pearl Street has an interesting history, being the only structure south of Fulton Street that withstood the great fire of 1835. The bricks used in the construction of the building were imported from Holland.

Banker Buys Dwelling.

Eben Stevens, the banker, is the purchaser of the five-story American basement dwelling 117 East Fifty-fifth Street, sold recently by the Douglas Robinson-Charles S. Brown Company for Frederick G. Bourne. Mr. Stevens sold his former residence, 59 East Forty-ninth Street, a short time ago to the New York Central Railroad.

Y. W. C. A. Buys Brooklyn Mansion.

The old Grosjean mansion at Schermerhorn and Nevins Streets, for many years a familiar landmark to Brooklynites, has been purchased by the Young Women's Christian Association, and will be turned into a boarding home for girls.

The transfer of the property was made about a month ago, and nothing has been said about it by the Y. W. C. A. officials or members.

The sale, which was for cash, was negotiated by Clifford L. Rossiter of the Long Island Loan and Trust Company and also one of the Trustees of the Y. W. C. A.

Mrs. A. M. Cordier of 16 Remsen Street, one of the heirs of the large Grosjean estate, sold the property.

Big Jersey Acreage Deal.

Judge John A. Blair of the Court of Common Pleas has sold to Arthur E. Sandford of Newark a tract of about sixteen acres of land in the Caven Point section of Jersey City. The property is located on the north side of the Caven Point Road and lies between the National Dock Railroad and the Standard Oil works, being irregular in shape, with a frontage of 681 feet on the north side of the road from a turn to the oil works and with an average depth of 885 feet. The land surrounding this tract is owned and occupied by the Standard Oil Company, Central Railroad, National Docks, and Lehigh Valley Railroad, and is the only vacant tract of land in the vicinity. The price is said to have been about $75,000.

Staten Island.

Mrs. J. Krug of Castleton Corners has purchased through Cornelius G. Kolff a plot 50 by 125 on Todt Hill Road, Castleton Corners, South Staten Island.

Garden City.

Gage E. Tarbell has sold at Garden City a plot 100 by 250 on the south side of Stewart Avenue, between Alexander Place and Washington Avenue; a plot 75 by 100 on the north side of Pine Street, between Prospect Avenue and Clinton Road; a plot 75 by 150 on the east side of Magnolia Avenue, between Chestnut and Garden Streets; a plot 100 by 200 on the northeast corner of Washington Avenue and Poplar Street, a plot 104 by 154 by 186 on the northwest corner of Chestnut Street and Clinton Road, a plot 148 by 234 on the southwest corner of Lefferts and Westbury Roads, a plot 109 by 210 on the east side of Osborne Road, near Warton Place; a plot 100 by 200 on the west side of Washington Avenue, near Huntington Road, and a plot 100 by 200 on the west side of Clinch Place, between Saint James Street North and Stewart Avenue.

Suburban Sales.

Steven B. Ayres and Walter F. Baylis have sold for Mrs. Mary Wheeler Lots 61 and 62, Pelhamdale Avenue, Vernon Park, Mount Vernon, the purchaser being the Co-operative Brewing Company.

Jamaica Estates report the sale of a plot 50 by 120 on the south side of Tudor Road, near Surrey, and a plot 72 by 148 on Radnor Road, near Chevy Chase.

The Stanley Agency has sold for Frank L. Ferguson a plot 40 by 100 on the south side of Norwich Avenue, Jamaica, to George J. Bagley.

$130,000 for Rockaway Lots.

Lot values in Far Rockaway were established at a successful sale held by Joseph P. Day Saturday. The offering involved 110 lots and two cottages belonging to ex-Borough President Cassidy. The sale realized a total of $130,409. The average price per lot was $1,318. Mr. Cassidy's former residence, together with a large plot, went for $18,000. Among the buyers were Mr. J. C. Schmuck, James L. McCahill of the Tax Department, McNamara Brothers of Far Rockaway, and Joseph Fried.

Recent Buyers.

Frederick Ochse is the buyer of 432 and 434 West Twenty-sixth Street, sold recently by Robert Ferguson and Mary McM. Renville.

John Slater of the firm of J. & J. Slater is the buyer of 345 West Seventy-first Street, recently reported sold by Susan C. Twombly through Hugh D. Smyth.

Gustavus Robitzek is the purchaser of the five-story apartment house, on plot 59 by 100, at the southeast corner of 163d and Kelly Streets, sold by H. L. Phelps for the Meehan Construction Company. The Meehan Company took in part payment the dwellings 417 East 136th Street and 342 East 135th Street.

Miss Jessie Farquharson of 3 East Forty-seventh Street is the buyer of 317 Riverside Drive, sold recently by A. E. Gillette through Frederick Zittel & Sons.

Receiver Appointed.

Justice Hendrick of the Supreme Court has appointed Richard F. Murphy receiver of the rents of 326 East 125th Street, pending a suit brought by Samuel Rosenstock against the Stuart Realty Company and others to foreclose a second mortgage of $5,750. The prior mortgage is $15,000.

Notes.

Henry Lewis Morris denies that the Demarest Building, at Thirty-third Street and Fifth Avenue, has been leased, and states that there are no negotiations pending.

Carrere & Hastings, architects, have filed plans for making over the three-story stable of Thomas F. Ryan, at 139 East Sixty-ninth Street, into a garage, at a cost of $18,400.

Jamaica Estates

THE inauguration of the Pennsylvania-Long Island Railroad System from Herald Square to Jamaica in 18 minutes has been officially fixed for September 8th. Shortly following that date the price of our property will be advanced. The time left for purchasing at present prices is therefore short, and each day lessens the opportunity for selection. We strongly advise those who are already familiar with our property to quickly make their choice; and we urge those who would be interested in complete information about THE ONLY REAL RESIDENTIAL PARK IN NEW YORK CITY to communicate with us at once before any advance is made. Beautiful plots can now be purchased as low as $2,000, including permanent sewers and all City improvements, and convenient terms can be arranged. Times Brought Many Inquiries of Highest Quality. Read This Letter:

The New York Times:

Your editorial on the direct appeal in Help and Situation Wanted advertising is a movement along the right line. There is not, and never was, the slightest excuse for allowing any advertising to enter the columns save that which plainly and directly stated the exact demands of the advertiser.

Not alone does the direct statement produce greater results, but it creates a confidence with the readers of the paper that in turn benefits the publication through increased patronage.

The plain, straightforward statement of what the advertiser wants, whether it be a concern in need of a man or a man in need of a situation, will produce results, just as surely as general advertising does.

In our experience that has been proven out in every case. A short time ago we desired to increase our force. We published a plain statement of the qualifications required, and the kind of a man we wanted. We were not surprised at the result. Out of 200 answers to the advertisement we found over 170 applicants who had the ability we demanded.

It will be of interest to you to know that THE TIMES produced as many inquiries as any other paper, and that the applicants proved to be of the highest quality. Very truly yours,
CLIFFORD B. HARMON & CO.

SURROGATE CITATION.

SURROGATES' COURT, COUNTY OF NEW York.—In the matter of the application for letters of administration on the goods, chattels, and credits which were of ADELAIDE LIVINGSTON, Deceased.—To the creditors of ADELAIDE LIVINGSTON, Deceased:

Whereas Elizabeth Livingston, sister and one of the heirs and next of kin of the said Adelaide Livingston, deceased, has presented to the Surrogates' Court of the County of New York her petition praying, and intends to apply, for the appointment of herself and the Lawyers Title Insurance & Trust Company, as administrators of the goods, chattels, and credits which were of the said Adelaide Livingston, deceased; and

Whereas, she, the said Elizabeth Livingston, has in and by her said petition further prayed, and intends to apply, that she may be so appointed administratrix of the goods, chattels, and credits of the said Adelaide Livingston, deceased, and that letters of administration thereon may be issued to her and the said Lawyers Title Insurance & Trust Company without her giving a bond the penalty of which shall exceed double the amount of the claims of creditors, as provided by Section 2,664 of the Code of Civil Procedure; and

Whereas all of the heirs and next of kin of the said Adelaide Livingston, deceased, have consented that she may be so appointed such administratrix, and that letters of administration may be so issued to her without giving a bond the penalty of which shall exceed double the amount of the claims of creditors, as provided in and by the said section of the said code;

You, and each of you, are hereby notified and required, under and by virtue of the said section of the said Code, and in pursuance of an order of this Court, bearing date and filed in the office of the Surrogate of the County of New York on the 14th day of July, 1910, to present any and all claims that you may have against the said estate of the said Adelaide Livingston, deceased, to the Surrogates of the County of New York, at their office in the Hall of Records, in the Borough of Manhattan, in the City of New York, N. Y., on or before the 22nd day of August, 1910, at and after which date the penalty of the bond to be given by the said Elizabeth Livingston upon her appointment as administratrix of the goods, chattels, and credits of the said Adelaide Livingston, deceased, will be fixed by the said Surrogates, or one of them.

Dated July 18th, 1910.

SAYS PROBATE COURT HELPED ROB INDIANS

Chickasaw Tells on Stand How Guardians Were Used to Get Lands of Minors.

INDIANS ON McMURRAY FEES

Dozen Testify That They Were Willing to Pay 10 Per Cent. or More to Get Allotted Lands Sold.

SULPHUR, Okla., July 15.—Details of a scheme by which "land grabbers" are alleged to have organized systematically to enrich themselves at the expense of minor Indians were related at the Congressional investigation into Indian land affairs to-day. In one instance, it was asserted, the cost of disposing of the property of an eighteen-year-old Indian was $2,075 more than the property brought. The condition which permitted this and similar deals was declared to be "a disgrace to Oklahoma."

Representative Philip P. Campbell of Kansas, a member of the Investigating Committee, put on the stand James Yarborough, Chickasaw Indian by intermarriage.

"Do you call this sort of thing grafting or just plain stealing?" asked Mr. Campbell after the witness had related the circumstances.

"Well, the people down our way think it is a scandal that the laws permit such a thing, and we think it is time that Congress take notice of it."

In the case cited, it appears that the Probate Court at Durant allowed the guardian to sell for $2,800 a tract of 140 acres of allotted land owned by an eighteen-year-old Indian. The guardian then put in a claim on the proceeds, the claim including $850 for acting as guardian, $1,630 for improving the land, $500 for a barn, $60 for posts, $250 for fences, $68 for witness fees, and more money for other purposes.

Thus it was found, when the deed was closed, that the child owed his former guardian $2,075. Now the guardian is threatening to have other property of the child sold in order to get the $2,075.

"I knew of another case," said Yarborough, "in which 325 acres were sold for an Indian minor, and when all the claims were paid the child got only $350. In another instance $1,500 was obtained for 200 acres, but the child got only $120. In other words, the children of deceased Indians in this State, where are situated one-third of all the Indians in the United States, are systematically robbed of the estates allotted them by the Government. The property is sold at prices dictated by the land robbers. The children are robbed at one end by their guardians and at the other end by the purchasers."

"Do you mean to say that such things are countenanced by the probate courts?" it was asked.

"Yes," was the reply. "They go on with full knowledge of the Judges. Thousands of acres of property are thus taken from the Indians and thrown into the hands of white people, the Indians getting poorer and the land grabbers richer."

Most of to-day's testimony was given by witnesses for the defense. J. F. McMurray, whose 10,000 contracts allowing him a 10 per cent. attorney's fee for the sale of $30,000,000 worth of Indian land caused the present investigation, sought to show that a large percentage of the signers were still in favor of his terms. A dozen Chickasaw Indians testified that they were willing to increase the fee if it would result in the prompt sale of allotted land held in trust by the Government.

W. B. Johnson, former United States Attorney, testified that certain indictments against McMurray in 1905 were ordered dismissed by the Attorney General. The indictments were returned against McMurray and others in connection with a three-hundred-thousand-dollar expense account which McMurray's firm had filed against the Indians in prosecuting citizenship cases. It was alleged in the indictments that the expense account had been "padded."

At the time the indictments were being investigated Cecil A. Lyon, National Republican Committeeman for Texas, was in Washington. Mr. Lyon had previously testified that he had urged the Attorney General to investigate the indictments, but declared he never asked that they be dismissed. The indictments later were ordered dismissed. Mr. Lyon then became interested in what are known as the old tribal contracts, and talked with President Roosevelt in regard to them.

"During your term of office how many indictments were returned?" Mr. Johnson was asked.

"About 5,000."

"How many of those indictments were dismissed?"

"Only one—that against McMurray. After the McMurray indictment was returned I was called to Washington. I took all the papers there. After nine days Assistant Attorney General Russell told me the indictments were to be investigated. I also met Mr. Lyon. He said he had been summoned to Washington by telegraph. When I got back home I was told that the indictment against McMurray had been dismissed."

Cub Ream, an Indian, testified he had been prevented from securing the position of delegate to Washington for the Chickasaw Tribe because he was opposed to the McMurray contracts, which, he said, Douglas Q. Johnston, Chief of the Chickasaws, favored.

W. H. Paul, a Chickasaw, told of having received a share of $4,900 for getting the McMurray contracts signed.

Holmes Willis, a Chickasaw, testified he favored the McMurray contracts and paying the 10 per cent. fee, because he believed McMurray could sell the property for more than 10 per cent. more than the Government could get for it.

"Every inch of land owned by Indians is looked upon as the legitimate property of the land-grabbers," said a member of the committee to-day. "Some of the land-grabbers' schemes will certainly be called to the attention of Congress. One man, we have learned, has become rich. He kept a list of Indians who owned allotted land. Whenever an Indian died he rushed into court, had a guardian appointed, and with the connivance of the guardian demanded that the land be sold at a ridiculously low valuation for a few hundred dollars. He has bought whole sections of land. This man, who is only one of many starting with no capital, now owns 10,000 acres for which he paid the Indians no adequate compensation. As there are in Oklahoma something like 20,000,000 acres of Indian lands it seems imperative that Congress take prompt steps."

SHOTS TERRIFY TENANTS.

Lawyer Fires Through Apartment Door and Wounds Two Men.

Tenants in the apartment house at 504 West 142d Street were terrified last night by the reports of four revolver shots. They ran out and got Policeman Wenz of the West 125th Street Station House.

Wenz went up to the fourth floor and found a man standing there with a revolver in his hand. He said he was John McGregor, a lawyer, who boarded on that floor in the home of Mrs. Helen Cooper. Inside the door were Alfred Heintz, another boarder, whom a bullet had struck in the left shoulder, and Benjamin F. Hart, a friend of his, living at 795 St. Nicholas Avenue. Hart was wounded in the index finger of the right hand and in the third finger of the left hand.

Wenz called Dr. Weil of the J. Hood Wright Hospital, who dressed their wounds. He took McGregor to the station house, where he locked him up. The wounded men said they had refused to let McGregor in when he came home intoxicated, and that then he had shot through the door at them.

QUALEY'S COUNSEL HINTS AT A SCANDAL

McIntyre Warns Attorney for Mrs. Bull Not to Drag in Names or There'll Be Exposures.

WOMAN DETECTIVE TESTIFIES

Negotiated with Corbett for a Mythical Person Alleged to Have $100,000 Ill-Gotten Gains for Investment.

The stormiest session of the police court hearings of the charges brought by Mrs. Mary Nevins Bull against John A. Qualey and Harvey Wiley Corbett took place yesterday before Police Magistrate Krotel in the library of the District Attorney's office in the Criminal Courts Building. John F. McIntyre, attorney for the two men accused by the widow of the famous surgeon of getting $35,000 from her by false pretenses, demanded technical proof at every step. At one time he shouted to Charles L. Craig, attorney for Mrs. Bull:

"If you keep dragging names in I'll drag in some names. If there's going to be a scandal here it's going to be a good, big scandal. I have purposely kept certain names out of this case. I won't do it much longer. Now, you know what I mean! Be careful!" Mr. Craig smiled.

Several new angles in the case were developed yesterday. One was the appearance in the case of Mrs. Naomi Boiler, a private detective. She was sharply questioned by Attorney McIntyre, and bore up well. She testified that she went to see Corbett in the interests of ex-Judge Smith Lent of Westchester County, who had a judgment against Qualey and wanted Mrs. Boiler to serve him with papers in supplementary proceedings. She saw Corbett, and posed as the agent of a woman who had obtained $100,000 by trickery, and who had engaged Mrs. Boiler to invest her money. She told Corbett if a proper cash commission could be arranged she would feel no compunction about advising her client to put her ill-gotten cash in the Magnesia-Asbestos enterprise. Corbett was thoroughly taken in, she testified, and told her that Mrs. Hopkins, "a society lady," had a wealthy woman, Mrs. Bull, who was going to invest a large amount in the company.

Detective Lieut. Frank Price of Headquarters identified seven checks which he found on Qualey at the time of his arrest. They were signed by Qualey personally, and as treasurer of the Stone Age Plaster Company, and were in blank. The checks made it possible, Attorney Craig said, for Qualey to draw every cent of the money which Mrs. Bull and others had paid over in checks to Corbett's order.

Attorney Edward Weiss, assistant to Mr. McIntyre, told the reporters that the Grand Jury had refused to indict Qualey and Corbett. Acting District Attorney Frank Moss said that this was untrue. He said the Grand Jury was still investigating the case.

Mrs. Hopkins Not Testifying.

Mrs. Ellen Dunlap Hopkins did not appear before the Grand Jury or at the police court hearing.

"Are you really going to call Mrs. Hopkins?" Mr. Craig asked Mr. Weiss when they were in an ante room together.

"Are you anxious that we should call her?"

"We'd be delighted. We'd like to ask her a lot of pertinent questions."

"Why don't your side call her, then?" Mr. Weiss taunted.

"It seems to me you ought to make good after you've told all the reporters that the object of her coming back from Europe was to testify for your clients," said Mr. Craig.

Browning Against Promoters.

One of the surprises of the day was the appearance of Clarence P. Browning, holder of a mortgage against the Newark plant of the defendants as a witness for the prosecution. Qualey and Corbett had claimed that Browning was a friend of theirs, and would not foreclose his mortgage. Browning's testimony was thoroughly adverse to the two men, and he told Mr. Craig that he proposed to sell the plant to-day and get his mortgage money. The defendants have stayed proceedings in an action to redeem, but Mr. Browning said yesterday that only the payment of the amount of the mortgage could stop the foreclosure sale to-day.

Mr. Browning said he lived at 1,000 Dean Street, Brooklyn, and was President, chief stockholder, and active manager of the Galvatype Company of 216 William Street, Manhattan. He said he visited Qualey's Newark plant in March and April and on July 29, the week before the mortgage was to be foreclosed by the New Jersey State Court of Chancery. In March the plant was closed and had the appearance of having been closed a long time. Several pieces of machinery were partly set. He had bought a mortgage of $12,500 on the place for $6,500, he said. When he visited the plant in April he found the same condition as in March.

Mortgages on the Plant.

Attorney Craig offered in evidence and Magistrate Krotel accepted a mortgage of $150,000, executed Jan. 1, 1910, against the plant of the Stone Age Plaster Company. It was signed by Qualey as President and Corbett as Treasurer. From the $150,000 mortgage Mr. Craig read a clause that it was subject to a $23,000 mortgage of Jan. 2, 1906, a $12,500 mortgage of the same date, an $8,000 mortgage of July 22, 1908, and an $8,000 mortgage of May 10, 1909.

"Will you concede that the plant of the Stone Age Plaster Company is the same one that is known as the plant of the Magnesia Asbestos Company?" inquired Mr. Craig.

"I'll concede nothing. You'll have to prove everything," responded Mr. McIntyre for the defense.

A moment later Mr. Craig tried to get an expression from Mr. Browning as to the age of the various buildings of the Stone Age Company, including a gas tank.

"You wouldn't let me get in Mrs. Bull's age," put in Mr. McIntyre. "And I won't let you get in the age of the gas tank."

Leon Kresser, the engineer who was induced to put $3,000 into the company last year under a promise that he would be made consulting engineer at $50 a week, and who brought civil and criminal proceedings when his salary was stopped, testified that when he visited the plant on a rainy day the rain poured through the defective roofing. He withdrew the criminal charges he had made after $1,000 of his money was refunded to him.

Mrs. Naomi Boller of 542 West Fourteenth Street, the private detective, told of her call on Corbett March 30, 1910.

"I told Mr. Corbett I had a party who had at least $40,000 to invest and he showed me full data of the company," she said. "He referred me to Mrs. Hopkins, to Mr. McNulty, a contractor; to Mr. Murphy, another contractor, (Edward S. Murphy, late Superintendent of the City Department of Buildings,) and others. I asked him where Mr. Qualey was. He said Mr. Qualey was in the habit of going off on periodical sprees and was on one at that time. He said he himself was familiar with all the details of the business."

Exonerates Mr. Pell.

"When you went to the offices of the Magnesia-Asbestos Company was Mr. Corbett there?"

"No, they had to send out for him."

"How long did they keep you waiting?"

"About three or four minutes."

"Now, do you know where the offices of Pell & Corbett, the architects, are; whether they are in the same building, 122 East Twenty-fifth Street?"

"I protest," shouted Mr. McIntyre. "This is an attempt to bring into this proceeding the name of Mr. Pell, a reputable architect, and smirch it and—"

"If Mr. McIntyre wants it on the record," proceeded Mr. Craig, "I will state in the most public and notorious way that we entirely exonerate Mr. Pell from any part in this transaction."

"Four or five days later I saw Mr. Corbett again. I met him by appointment at the D., L. & W. station at Twenty-third Street. I told him that I had been to the plant on the preceding Saturday and saw that there was nobody at work. He told me the plant was not yet in running order, but when they had a prospect buyer they had ten or a dozen men at work to give a few signs of life. He explained the processes to me, going out on the train to Newark.

Corbett Offers Inducements.

"I told him my client had $100,000. He said this would put them on their feet. I asked him who he could give me by way of reference. He said there was a society lady by the name of Hopkins who had a wealthy woman who would put up a large amount of money. Other references were a Mr. Colgate, who he said was not one of the soap people; a Mr. Hyatt of Newark, Mr. McNulty, and Mr. Murphy.

"When I asked him what security he could give for the $100,000 my client was to put up he said they would give a first mortgage on the plant. I said my client had acquired her money through trickery and I wasn't very particular about her investment, that all I was after was my commission. Mr. Corbett told me that he would give me a stock bonus. I said No, I wanted cash. He said that with that amount of money a cash commission could be very easily arranged."

On cross-examination by Mr. McIntyre Mrs. Boller admitted she had been divorced by her husband five years ago on statutory grounds in this State and that she had since acted as a private detective for various lawyers, including Otto Kepler, ex-Judge Lent, Ungar Levy, Moses Sachs, and Mr. Craig. She said she had volunteered her services to Mr. Craig in the present proceedings after reading of Corbett's arrest. She said she had appeared without compensation out of sympathy for Mrs. Bull, with whom she declared she was not acquainted. Magistrate Krotel adjourned the hearing until next Friday at 2 o'clock in the same place. The hearing before the Grand Jury will continue to-day.

DANIEL FROHMAN NOT TOWED

Asks Miss Josephine Brown, Actress, If She Is Responsible for Rumor.

Daniel Frohman, the theatrical manager, yesterday denied a rumor that he is to marry Miss Josephine Brown, an actress. Mr. Frohman, whose wife, Margaret Illington, also an actress, recently obtained a divorce from him after he had refused to put in an answer to Miss Illington's complaint, said that he does not intend ever to marry again.

"I do not know how such an absurd rumor ever got started," said Mr. Frohman at his office in the Lyceum Theatre. "It is true that I have known Miss Brown and her mother for some time, and they have been guests of mine at theatrical parties. As for marrying her or any other woman, all I can say is, never again! I am through with the marrying game for all time. I am not a marrying man any more.

"As soon as I heard of this absurd rumor I sent for Miss Brown and her mother and asked them if they had been responsible for it. Both denied that they had ever made any such statement. Miss Brown said that she knew several newspaper men, and they might have seen us together in a box at a theatre and jumped at the conclusion that we intended to get married. You cannot deny the story too emphatically."

Miss Brown, who is quite pretty, is only 21. She has been on the stage a number of years and before that was well known as an artists' model. She came to New York from Chicago three years ago. Her last engagement was with Charles Frohman, brother of Daniel. At present she is not engaged. She first came into metropolitan prominence as the protégé of Abraham Hummel, the disbarred lawyer. When Mr. Hummel was serving his prison term on Blackwell's Island she was an almost daily visitor at the prison, and it was rumored at that time that she was engaged to be married to Dr. Phillip B. Katz, who was also in constant attendance upon Mr. Hummel in the prison hospital.

Some of the companies Miss Brown has appeared in are "Miss Patsy," "The Man in the Case," "The Ringmaster," "Cameo Kirby," and with Arnold Daly in vaudeville.

CAN DENY VACATIONS.

Court Decides the Law Left Decision to City Department Heads.

Supreme Court Justice Goff, in deciding a test case yesterday, handed down a decision which came in the nature of a jolt to the several thousand per diem city employes who expected under the provisions of the Hoey bill, passed at the last session of the Legislature, to get two weeks' vacation with pay this Summer. The Justice gave it as his opinion that it is not mandatory for the heads of the city departments to grant vacations with pay, but that it is entirely discretionary with them.

The test case of the new law was made by Harry Denery, an employe in the Department of Charities. When he applied for a vacation Commissioner Drummon refused to grant it, holding that the new law gave the heads of departments discretionary power. Denery then applied for a permanent writ of mandamus compelling the Charities Commissioner to give him the vacation.

OFF THE OLD BRIDGE TO WIN A $300 BET

Little Hurt by the Fall, White Plains Man Swims to the Brooklyn Shore.

WAVES RESCUERS AWAY

Arrested for Suicide Attempt—Friend on the Car with Him Also Is Held for Aiding Him.

To win a bet of $300 William Cruikshank, 33 years old, a decorator, living at 10 Mamaroneck Avenue, White Plains, N. Y., jumped yesterday from the Brooklyn Bridge into the East River. After striking the water he swam toward the Brooklyn shore and was pulled aboard the three-masted schooner Normandy at the foot of Main Street. He was taken to the Brooklyn Hospital charged with attempted suicide, and suffering from a dislocation of the spine and internal injuries, but he will recover, the hospital physicians said.

Melvin Snow, 21 years old, a longshoreman, of 70 East 124th Street, who was with Cruikshank on a Putnam Avenue car before the jump was made, was arrested for aiding and abetting an attempted suicide.

Snow, with others, made the wager with Cruikshank.

Snow said that Cruikshank called him on the telephone yesterday and asked him to go to Brooklyn. Neither talked about the bet or the jump on the way to the Bridge, Snow said. When the car reached the centre of the span Cruikshank handed his coat and vest to Snow.

Other passengers paid no attention to the two men, and did not realize what was to happen until Cruikshank jumped from the car when it was within thirty feet of the Brooklyn tower and crawled through the steel girder on the outer edge of the roadway. Before he left the car he removed his shoes and threw his hat on the floor of the car.

After he got through the railing Cruikshank posed for an instant and then leaped out into space. The car was stopped and passengers jumped out on the roadway and peered through the steel work. They saw him turn two or three somersaults before he struck the water on his face and hands. He rose to the surface almost immediately and struck out for the Brooklyn shore.

The pilots of two tugboats saw him jump and turned to give him assistance, but he waved his arm signaling that he did not want any help. He was making for one of the piers, but his strength was almost gone, and when the tide carried him alongside the Normandy John Brown, the first mate, and Vincent Ryan, an employe of the Street Cleaning Department, threw him a line.

Cruikshank still refused help and wanted to swim to the pier bulkhead, but Ryan succeeded in throwing a noose over his shoulders, and he was pulled aboard the vessel. Policeman Lichenstein arrested him and had him removed to the hospital.

Togo Tourists Visit Coney Island
They see the sights at the seaside and return wiser if not sadder souls.

Here are a few of the events told in fine half-tones:
Man of the Hour in Europe, Cardinal Merry del Val.
President of Chile Visits President of United States.
The Cruise of the New York Yacht Club.
Unconventional Portraits of Well-known Writers.
A Summer Day on the Beach.
Snapshots Taken from an Aeroplane.
And a reproduction of a beautiful painting by Elsley, entitled
"GOLDEN HOURS."
